No Persons Seen

Objects Sighted By Planes Along Airliner's Route

MANILA (AP)—Search planes reported sighting five partially submerged objects in the western Pacific today along the scheduled route of a chartered airliner that vanished with 107 persons aboard. No persons were seen in the immediate vicinity.

The U.S. destroyer Brister was dispatched to determine what the objects are. The Joint Rescue Center at Agana, Guam, said the Brister is expected to reach the area at dawn Sunday. A KC97 plane was ordered to circle above the objects until the Brister arrives.

Photographic Squadron 61 at Guam sent a Sky Warrior jet to photograph the objects in hopes that the pictures might reveal some identification and possibly furnish a clue to the fate of the four-engine Super Constellation of the Flying Tiger Line.

A U.S. Air Force spokesman declared earlier that "chances are getting slimmer every minute" that any aboard the missing plane would be found alive. The plane was presumed to have crashed or ditched after leaving Guam Thursday night for a 1,600-mile hop to Clark Air Force Base near Manila.

The propeller-driven plane, with a crew of 11 Americans, left Travis Air Force Base in northern California Tuesday carrying 93 U.S. Army men and three South Vietnamese bound for South Viet Nam. The Army men reportedly were to join the U.S. forces bolstering the South Viet Nam government's fight against the Communist Viet Cong guerrilllas.

The plane made scheduled refueling and service stops at Hawaii, Wake Island and Guam. It was last heard from 270 miles west of Guam, when the pilot radioed a routine message without a hint of trouble.

After fruitless flights Friday, officials tripled the search area and pressed nearly 100 planes and nine ships into systematic criss-crossing of more than 250,000 square miles of calm Pacific waters.

More than 50 planes from U.S. Air Force and naval installations in the Philippines and 40 more from U.S. bases on Guam scoured almost every conceivable path the pilot of the missing plane might have taken.

Flights were sent up during the night in hopes that flares would be sighted. None was seen. But nobody was ready to give up.

At Clark Field, Gen. Theodore R. Milton, commander of the 13th Air Force, said search and maintenance crews were "ready to work their heads off and the only way they'll stop is if they're ordered to."

A search plane sighted what was thought to be a life raft, the Air Force said, but it turned out to be a piece of driftwood.

Probers Will Re-Fly Missing Plane Route

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Investigators gathered today to re-fly, step by step, the route taken by an airliner that disappeared over the Pacific. Probers hope to find, somewhere along the route, a clue to the mysterious disappearance of the super-constellation carrying 107 persons — most of them U. S. jungle fighters en route to Viet Nam. Sabotage has been hinted. So has a possibility that the plane was hijacked.

Newell Soldier Missing

Pvt. Jennings Was Flying To Viet Nam Assignment

Army Pvt. John C. (Corky) Jennings of Newell, one of 107 persons aboard a chartered airliner missing in the Pacific, was on his way to Viet Nam to begin an 18-month tour of duty.

A former Review newsboy, he had been home on furlough from Feb. 17 to March 9 and had called his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Jennings, 517 Harrison St., Monday night from a base in California.

Pvt. Jennings, 18, enlisted last July after graduating in 1961 from Wells High School. He underwent basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and later was graduated from a cryptographer's school at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

While attending Wells High, he served as a photographer on the yearbook staff, and worked part-time at Carnahan's Drugstore in Newell after graduating. He had been a Review newsboy several years.

The family was notified that their son was aboard the missing plane in a telegram Friday noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jennings have two older daughters, Mrs. Marilyn Adams at home and Mrs. Janice Harris of Baltimore, and two other sons, David Jennings, 16, at home, and Donald H. Jennings, 22, of Chester.

The only other West Virginia soldier listed by the Army as being aboard the airliner was Pvt. Homer D. Adams of Yukon, McDowell County.

'V-Day' For County

Sabin Polio Inoculation To Begin On Wednesday

Wednesday is "V-Day" in Columbiana County.

The V stands for vaccine — the famous Sabin oral polio vaccine to be administered to families at 11 immunization stations by the County Medical Society.

The serum —dispensed in small paper cups and termed "absolutely tasteless" — is being offered as the first step towards full protection against the crippling disease.

The County Medical Society has urged both parents and children to become immunized against polio by visiting the public clinics.

Cost of a single dosage of the Sabin vaccine is 50 cents, or it will be provided free if the person is unable to pay.

Physicians and hundreds of volunteers will operate the clinics at various locations Wednesday from 1 to 7 p. m.

The society hopes to immunize an estimated 90,000 county residents ranging in age from 2 months up.

It has emphasized that even those who have been immunized

Boyd Trial To Resume On Monday

8 Witnesses Heard For Defense Before Recess On Weekend

By GLENN WAIGHT

A picture of Nancy Lee Boyd as a "run-around girl" was painted by defense witnesses at the first degree murder trial of her husband Friday afternoon at Lisbon.

Testimony in the trial for William P. Boyd Jr. — charged with slaying of his teen-aged wife Nov. 5 near Beaver Creek — was recessed over the weekend, and the defense is to resume its case Monday morning at 9.

Boyd Watches Quietly

Boyd, 23, of Pennsylvania Ave. Ext. sat quietly at the defense table yesterday afternoon as his father and mother, neighbors and foster parents of his 15-month-old daughter took the witness stand.

Prosecutor G. William Brokaw's case was completed late yesterday morning with introduction of a 26-page statement given last November by Boyd, who said he threw a jack handle at his wife while changing a tire along the lonely lane near the creek, beat her, dragged her over a hill and then shot her in the head.

Atty. Ben Berman and Atty. Robert Kapp, defense counsel, called eight witnesses to the stand yesterday afternoon to describe Nancy Lee's conduct and the stormy 14-month marriage of the girl and her husband onetime pottery worker, circus attendant, service station worker and construction laborer.

Father Testifies First

The first defense witness was William P. Boyd, father of the defendant and Crucible Steel Co. worker. The elder Boyd and his wife were divorced in 1946, and the younger Boyd and another

Police Aides Join Chief In Resignations

SALINEVILLE — Police Chief Cleo Mellott Friday night turned in his official resignation to Mayor Stanley Fitch, climaxing recent disagreements, and nine members of the village's auxiliary police force turned in their badges to the chief, marking their resignations.

The chief's resignation is effective March 29 at midnight. He said "It is with regret such action is deemed necessary as I feel I have performed my duty as chief for the past nine years to the best of my ability and in the best interests of the people of the village."

Chief Mellott announced Thursday he planned to resign. He now is on two-week vacation.

He was summoned Wednesday night before Mayor Fitch and two councilmen for disciplinary action after he was observed playing cards at the fire station Monday night while on duty.

Mayor Fitch said he first proposed a 30-day suspension, later reducing it to 15 days.

The chief said in his letter to the mayor, "I have always enforced the law without regard for personalities as I said I would do when I took my oath of office. It has been a proud privilege for me to be your chief and I feel that the circumstances under which the resignation is necessary is nothing more or less than you as a citizen could have done in the past many times. I am certain I am not guilty of any moral wrong. May I express my appreciation for the courtesy shown me and my family by the overwhelming majority of the citizens of Salineville."

'Sweeping Changes Must Be Made'

Castro Threatens Purge In Ranks Of Cuba's Revolutionary Leaders

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro charged today that Cuba's revolutionary leaders were abusing their authority, mistreating the public and creating general chaos.

Sweeping changes must be made, he said.

"The revolution needs to revise all the revolutionary nuclei and all the political apparatus of the revolution to do away with the errors and abuses and to gain good performance," he declared in a televised address monitored here.

"We have to stop tolerating poor performance and errors," he said. "Those who are useless will not continue in their positions."

Castro singled out no individuals but he had particularly biting criticism for the revolutionary defense committees. These groups—with representatives in every city block, in all factories and on farms—are responsible for watching their neighbors and coworkers for signs of counterrevolutionary attitudes.

His sharp denunciation came during a postmidnight speech his second attack of the week on his own regime. He ordered rationing Monday and criticized Cuba for not meeting food production goals.

The prime minister said he had talked a few days ago with several women who complained they had been humiliated in public and treated as counterrevolutionaries when they actually supported the regime wholeheartedly.

"We have to increase public vigilance against errors and injustices," he shouted. "No one has the right to commit injustices and he who does so is an enemy of the revolution."

Some people, he said, "think they are more revolutionary than anybody and have the right to mistreat and humiliate others. There are people who have created chaos in the organisms of the state with their mania for putting and taking and their abuse of authority."

Castro addressed graduates of a school for women who will train former domestic workers in other skills.

He called for complete equality of the sexes—"a day in which the women may work equally with men and have the same opportunities. Only without privileges, without sectarianism of any class can the errors, injustices and wrongs of the political apparatus be rectified."

Castro's address climaxed a week during which he surged back into the limelight after a period of apparent retirement that brought rumors he was being eased out as Cuba's leader.

A Dixonville youth became the county's ninth traffic fatality of the year when his car rammed the side of a tractor - trailer truck at 2:15 a. m. today on Route 30 about a mile south of the intersection of Route 45 at West Point, just north of the Crockery City farms.

Keith Murdock McLevey, 18, of Macrum St. was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital of a crushed skull by Columbiana County Corner William A. Koloszi.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said the youth's car swerved left of center for some unknown reason and struck the side of the rig's cab near the door. He was headed south and the truck, driven by Dwight H. Hill, 32, of Summitville, was going north.

The car then bounced off and veered to the right side of the highway, striking a guardrail. It then swerved left and went off the opposite side of the highway, hitting another guardrail.

Officers said the car traveled 400 feet from the point of impact with the truck, which was heavily damaged. The 1953 sedan was demolished.

Hill escaped injury. The mishap occurred on a straight stretch, officers said.

There were no passengers in either vehicle. The county's traffic toll was four this time last year.

He was born here to Ronald Robert McLevey and Betty Murdock McLevey and was a 1961 graduate of East Liverpool High School. He was employed at the Firestone Store in Alliance.

In addition to his parents, he leaves two brothers, Judson E. McLevey of Columbus and Roland Robert McLevey II of Alliance and three nephews.

Services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at the Dawson Funeral Home by the Rev. James Gardner, pastor of the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday.

98 Arrested When 'T-Men' Make Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal tax agents who crashed in on gamblers across the nation have arrested 98 persons and seized $12,000 in their seventh national crackdown of the past two years.

In simultaneous raids Friday tax men struck in 48 cities. They swooped down on 83 gaming establishments. In addition to the cash, they confiscated 28 slot machines and 18 automobiles.

Professional gamblers are required by federal law to buy $50 annual tax stamps, pay a tax of $250 on each coin-operated gambling device and a 10 per cent excise levy on their profits.

The gamblers arrested for tax violations could face fines of $50 to $5,000, and up to five years in prison.

In New York City, tax men raided seven gambling spots and arrested seven persons. Six were arrested in New Orleans, and five in Patterson, N.J., and Donora, Pa.

Army Troops Hold Capital Of Guatemala

Near Martial Law As Opposition To President Rises

GUATEMALA (AP)—The army held this riot-torn Central American capital under virtual martial law today as opposition mounted to President Miguel Ydigoras' conservative regime. Army troops chased two guerrilla bands in the hills.

The army seized control of the city on Ydigoras' orders following four days of street fighting and other violence that left 20 persons dead and more than 200 injured. More than 250 persons reportedly have been arrested.

The army declared it was ready to take extreme measures to put down students protesting what they called fraud in last December's elections that returned Ydigoras' conservative party to control of Congress.

Heavily armed troops took over key communication and transportation points and patrolled the streets. An 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was clamped on the city. Antigovernment strikes spread and businesses shut down. Commercial life was nearly stopped.

The army also searched for two small, rebel bands in the mountains in northern and northeastern Guatemala.

One group is led by Carlos Paz Tejada, who was defense minister under former pro-communist President Jacobo Arbenz, ousted in a 1954 coup. Paz Tejada issued a manifesto early this week urging the people to overthrow Ydigoras. Arbenz was last reported in Havana as a guest of Ydigoras' arch foe, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Castro's Havana radio hailed the Guatemalan insurgents, declaring, "We salute our beloved brothers of Guatemala who are covering themselves with glory fighting for their democratic rights and national liberation."

Informants said the other guerrilla band was composed largely of former army officers who call their group the 13th of November movement. Ydigoras smashed an officers' uprising on Nov. 13, 1960.

Ex-Atom Technician Charged In Spy Plot

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — George John Gessner, 25, a former U.S. Army nuclear technician, has been charged with passing classified information to the Soviet Union.

The charges against Gessner, now confined at nearby Ft. Leavenworth for desertion, were filed Friday by Newell A. George, U.S. attorney for Kansas. They stemmed from investigation of several months by the Internal Security Division of the Justice Department.

Both Sides Post Claim Of Victory

Counter-Charges Of Blame Reported In Night Conflict

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israel and Syrian forces clashed on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee in a night battle that raged until early today. Both sides claimed victory in the gravest frontier fighting in two years.

At least two Israel planes joined the battle and one Syrian plane, reported to be a Soviet-made MIG17 jet, also swung into action. Syria charged Israel attacked with tanks and four were knocked out. But an Israeli spokesman said no tanks were in action and the "tanks" actually were trucks disabled by land mines.

An Israeli army spokesman claimed at least 30 Syrians, including a company commander, were killed as Israeli forces launched a hit-run invasion of Syria, knocking out gun positions. He placed Israeli troop losses at five dead and six seriously wounded. The Israeli force also captured a large amount of Syrian arms and ammunition, the spokesman said.

A Syrian army spokesman said in Damascus that only one Syrian was killed and five wounded in the battle along the tense frontier. He claimed the Israelis suffered greater losses, adding that they lost four tanks and eight other vehicles.

"Five buses and five ambulances were seen carrying Israeli casualties from the battlefield," the Arab spokesman said.

He labeled the clash an Israeli aggression against Syrian outposts on the eastern shore.

The Israeli spokesman said the attack was supported by bombers that struck at Syrian troops dug in north of the Israeli settlement of Nukev.

The Syrians replied with a heavy artillery barrage on the Jewish collective settlement of Ein Gev south of Nukev.

The Israeli planes struck, the spokesman said, only after the Syrians had ignored a U.N. observer's cease-fire order and Syrian aircraft had penetrated Israeli air space over the Jordan Valley. He also accused the Syrians of attacks on Israeli fishermen.

Loan Planned To Meet Next City Payrolls

Council is scheduled to consider legislation Monday night authorizing Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate to borrow up to $47,000 against anticipated real estate and personal property tax collections to meet pressing municipal obligations — particularly a payroll of over $28,000 scheduled to be disbursed Tuesday.

City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper explained the legislation will put a "ceiling" of $47,000 on the borrowing, but the city will not necessarily obtain that much. The legislation will permit the auditor to borrow up to the maximum amount on short-term notes that will be retired when the tax money is received from County Auditor Kenneth Bell at Lisbon, he explained.

Law allows the city to borrow up to 50 per cent of the amount anticipated in a future tax settlement. The county auditor has issued a certificate that the city can expect $95,000 in the settlement in April or May, so the $47,000 represents half the estimated amount.

Councilman George E. Willshaw, finance committee chairman, told Council at its meeting March 5 it might be necessary to borrow against anticipated tax

The chief said in his letter to the mayor, "I have always enforced the law without regard for personalities as I said I would do when I took my oath of office. It has been a proud privilege for me to be your chief and I feel that the circumstances under which the resignation is necessary is nothing more or less than you as a citizen could have done in the past many times. I am certain I am not guilty of any moral wrong. May I express my appreciation for the courtesy shown me and my family by the overwhelming majority of the citizens of Salineville."

5 Ware Plants, IBOP Join In Modernization Survey

Five potteries, including the Sterling China Co. of Wellsville, and the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters have agreed to share the cost of an engineering study to make recommendations on the modernization of the plants.

A spokesman for the Mayer China Co. of Beaver Falls said the firms signed a contract Thursday with the Anderson Nichols Co. of Boston for the study.

The IBOP is putting up $10,000, which is being matched by Sterling, Mayer China, Walker China Co. of Bedford, Ohio, Jackson China Co. of Falls Creek, Pa., and Buffalo China Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., the spokesman said.

E. L. Wheatley, IBOP president, was not available for comment. A spokesman for Sterling said details have not been worked out and indicated any announcement would be premature.

98 Arrested When 'T-Men' Make Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal tax agents who crashed in on gamblers across the nation have arrested 98 persons and seized $12,000 in their seventh national crackdown of the past two years.

In simultaneous raids Friday tax men struck in 48 cities. They swooped down on 83 gaming establishments. In addition to the cash, they confiscated 28 slot machines and 18 automobiles.

Professional gamblers are required by federal law to buy $50 annual tax stamps, pay a tax of $250 on each coin-operated gambling device and a 10 per cent excise levy on their profits.

The gamblers arrested for tax violations could face fines of $50 to $5,000, and up to five years in prison.

In New York City, tax men raided seven gambling spots and arrested seven persons. Six were arrested in New Orleans, and five in Patterson, N.J., and Donora, Pa.

Army Troops Hold Capital Of Guatemala

Near Martial Law As Opposition To President Rises

GUATEMALA (AP)—The army held this riot-torn Central American capital under virtual martial law today as opposition mounted to President Miguel Ydigoras' conservative regime. Army troops chased two guerrilla bands in the hills.

The army seized control of the city on Ydigoras' orders following four days of street fighting and other violence that left 20 persons dead and more than 200 injured. More than 250 persons reportedly have been arrested.

The army declared it was ready to take extreme measures to put down students protesting what they called fraud in last December's elections that returned Ydigoras' conservative party to control of Congress.

Heavily armed troops took over key communication and transportation points and patrolled the streets. An 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew was clamped on the city. Antigovernment strikes spread and businesses shut down. Commercial life was nearly stopped.

The army also searched for two small, rebel bands in the mountains in northern and northeastern Guatemala.

One group is led by Carlos Paz Tejada, who was defense minister under former pro-communist President Jacobo Arbenz, ousted in a 1954 coup. Paz Tejada issued a manifesto early this week urging the people to overthrow Ydigoras. Arbenz was last reported in Havana as a guest of Ydigoras' arch foe, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Castro's Havana radio hailed the Guatemalan insurgents, declaring, "We salute our beloved brothers of Guatemala who are covering themselves with glory fighting for their democratic rights and national liberation."

Informants said the other guerrilla band was composed largely of former army officers who call their group the 13th of November movement. Ydigoras smashed an officers' uprising on Nov. 13, 1960.

Ex-Atom Technician Charged In Spy Plot

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — George John Gessner, 25, a former U.S. Army nuclear technician, has been charged with passing classified information to the Soviet Union.

The charges against Gessner, now confined at nearby Ft. Leavenworth for desertion, were filed Friday by Newell A. George, U.S. attorney for Kansas. They stemmed from investigation of several months by the Internal Security Division of the Justice Department.

Both Sides Post Claim Of Victory

Counter-Charges Of Blame Reported In Night Conflict

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israel and Syrian forces clashed on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee in a night battle that raged until early today. Both sides claimed victory in the gravest frontier fighting in two years.

At least two Israel planes joined the battle and one Syrian plane, reported to be a Soviet-made MIG17 jet, also swung into action. Syria charged Israel attacked with tanks and four were knocked out. But an Israeli spokesman said no tanks were in action and the "tanks" actually were trucks disabled by land mines.

An Israeli army spokesman claimed at least 30 Syrians, including a company commander, were killed as Israeli forces launched a hit-run invasion of Syria, knocking out gun positions. He placed Israeli troop losses at five dead and six seriously wounded. The Israeli force also captured a large amount of Syrian arms and ammunition, the spokesman said.

A Syrian army spokesman said in Damascus that only one Syrian was killed and five wounded in the battle along the tense frontier. He claimed the Israelis suffered greater losses, adding that they lost four tanks and eight other vehicles.

"Five buses and five ambulances were seen carrying Israeli casualties from the battlefield," the Arab spokesman said.

He labeled the clash an Israeli aggression against Syrian outposts on the eastern shore.

The Israeli spokesman said the attack was supported by bombers that struck at Syrian troops dug in north of the Israeli settlement of Nukev.

The Syrians replied with a heavy artillery barrage on the Jewish collective settlement of Ein Gev south of Nukev.

The Israeli planes struck, the spokesman said, only after the Syrians had ignored a U.N. observer's cease-fire order and Syrian aircraft had penetrated Israeli air space over the Jordan Valley. He also accused the Syrians of attacks on Israeli fishermen.

Loan Planned To Meet Next City Payrolls

Council is scheduled to consider legislation Monday night authorizing Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate to borrow up to $47,000 against anticipated real estate and personal property tax collections to meet pressing municipal obligations — particularly a payroll of over $28,000 scheduled to be disbursed Tuesday.

City Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper explained the legislation will put a "ceiling" of $47,000 on the borrowing, but the city will not necessarily obtain that much. The legislation will permit the auditor to borrow up to the maximum amount on short-term notes that will be retired when the tax money is received from County Auditor Kenneth Bell at Lisbon, he explained.

Law allows the city to borrow up to 50 per cent of the amount anticipated in a future tax settlement. The county auditor has issued a certificate that the city can expect $95,000 in the settlement in April or May, so the $47,000 represents half the estimated amount.

Councilman George E. Willshaw, finance committee chairman, told Council at its meeting March 5 it might be necessary to borrow against anticipated tax

Drivers Call Police On 3 City Mishaps

Police were batting 1.000 this morning with three telephone calls reporting three separate accidents.

The calls listed mishaps on Dresden Ave., Park Way and a supermarket parking lot.

A crash at 8:49 a. m. on Dresden Ave. caused heavy damage to the front end of a 1959 sedan operated by Gertrude May McCall, 55, of Lisbon St., and to the rear bumper of a 1950 truck driven by George O'Hanlon, 44, of Dresden Ave. Ext.

Police said the slippery road was blamed for the crash.

Mrs. McCall told police she was headed south when she saw the truck skidding on the street.

She told officers oncoming traffic prevented her from going around the truck. Mrs. McCall said she applied her brakes but was unable to stop.

Police still were investigating the Park Way mishap in which a car reportedly went over the embankment. Apparently no one was injured.

An unidentified motorist making a U-turn on the eastern end of the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." near Supplee St. was blamed for a crash at 6 p. m. Friday which damaged a westbound car driven by Paul Narduzzi, 55, of 1702 Globe St. and a panel truck of Acon Pontiac of Midland operated by Wilbert C. Dilworth, 24, of 728 Beaver Ave., Midland.

Narduzzi told police he was headed west when he saw a vehicle pull out of the right side of the highway and make a U-turn to head toward East End.

Seeing Dilworth passing the vehicle, Narduzzi said he realized a collision was inevitable and pulled as far to the right as possible.

Dilworth said he went off the road and lost control in trying to get around the other vehicle as it made the U-turn.

Edwin Crawford, 1011 Crawford Ave., Wellsville, told police the left rear fender of his parked car was damaged by a hit-skip motorist while his car was parked on Washington St. near Diamond Alley early this morning.

son, Franklin, resided at 1940 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext.

The father told of the newlyweds coming to live at the home. He testified that when Bill Boyd went to California, on one occasion some boys came to the house, and he told Nancy Lee "if she was going to stay, she was goin' to stay as a married woman, and not be seein' any boys."

Questioned about Nancy Lee's language, he said he had heard her "blackguardin' around."

The elder Boyd was also questioned about hunting seasons late in October and November 1961. He referred to a license folder on seasons, stating ruffed grouse season was open then, and squirrel season opened in September. Rabbit season didn't begin until Nov. 15, he said.

Neighbor On Stand

Mrs. Florence Smith, 1943 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., neighbor of the Boyds, said she had seen Nancy Lee Boyd in the company of other men — once in the Valley Bar in the East End and again at a Valley Bar picnic. She said she had also seen her holding hands with a man along 5th St. and with four other men on Mulberry St. in October 1961.

Mrs. Smith also testified she had seen Boyd on various occasions put a shotgun in his car or remove it, apparently for hunting.

She added she had seen Nancy Lee Boyd slap her child, Tania Boyd, at a laundromat. Prosecutor Brokaw later asked her, "You don't think Nancy Lee's conduct was any justification for having her skull look like this do you?" and placed a photograph of the body before Mrs. Smith who answered, "No sir, I do not."

Mrs. June Wyant of 2014 Pennsylvania Ave., another Boyd neighbor, said she had kept the baby once at Nancy Lee's request.

"Did she tell you where she had been?" Atty. Kapp asked. "Yes," she replied, but Prosecutor Brokaw objected to her repeating what she had been told, and was upheld by Judge Raymond Buzzard.

"Did you ever babysit for her again?" "No," Mrs. Wyant said. "Was it because of what she had told you?" "Yes," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter (Bert) Ferrebee, 2205 Harvey Ave., who have been caring for the Boyds' daughter, described visits by Boyd and Nancy Lee to the daughter placed in their custody by Juvenile Court with the consent of the parents.

Both said Boyd demonstrated extreme affection for the child and spent considerable time with her. Nancy Lee, they said, visited for shorter periods, played with her only briefly "then pushed her away."

Adoption Suggested

Nancy Lee, they said, suggested the Ferrebees adopt Tania, but Boyd objected, wanting to keep her, they testified.

Mrs. Ruby Hayward of Knowles Ln., Chester, re-married mother of the defendant, told of caring for the child briefly after the couple separated Aug. 10.

She said Bill brought the baby to her house that day, followed closely by Nancy Lee and her mother. "Nancy started telling her troubles, and Bill asked me to keep the baby and I agreed."

Mrs. Hayward said Nancy left the house and took her mother's car, leaving her mother there, but came back after a while and there was further talk.

She said at one point, Nancy said she was going to stab Bill, but Mrs. Hayward grabbed a knife lying on the kitchen table. "She called her mother a bad name, saying 'you lie for me, you always lie for me'."

Had Been Drinking

Mrs. Hayward said the child and Bill Boyd stayed with her until Sept. 5 when he came home after having been drinking, and she, angered at this, called Nancy to come and get the baby.

Prosecutor Brokaw asked her about Boyd's drinking, and she said she could recall only two times during the stay in which he apparently had been imbibing. "Was he jealous of Nancy?" "I couldn't say."

"You haven't visited your son since he was in jail?" "That's right." "Any particular reason?" She answered, "No," but the defense objected to the question.

Sheriff Russell VanFossan was called to identify a letter which he said he believed was found in Boyd's auto, but the contents of the letter were not revealed in any testimony yesterday.

Final Witness

Final witness of the afternoon was Harold William Boyd of Price St., a youthful friend of Boyd's younger brother who is also called Bill Torrence. He is not related to the defendant.

The youth, who referred to the defendant as Hoppy — "from hopalong, I guess" — said he had visited the Boyd home on many occasions. He said he knew Nancy Lee, and had seen her with other boys in Chester and at Beaver Creek.

Pennsylvanians Held On Assault

An Ambridge man and one from Sewickley R.D. 2 were held for Beaver County Court after a hearing Friday before Midland Justice of the Peace Paul McGeehan on a charge of assault and battery.

William Basinger of Ambridge posted a $500 property bond and John Knecht of Sewickley R. D. 2 posted a $300 cash bond.

The charges were filed by Mrs. Josephine Taylor of Industry R. D. 2 on behalf of her son, Thomas L. Taylor, who was hospitalized after an alleged street fight Feb. 24 in Ambridge involving Basinger, Knecht and Robert Hresko of Rochester.

The charge heard Friday against Hresko was dropped. At a hearing Feb. 26 before McGeehan, Basinger and Hresko were charged with assault and battery by Keith Hohenshel of Industry R.D. 2 who allegedly was also in the fight.

On that charge, Basinger and Hresko were held for court under $500 bond each and Basinger was committed to the Beaver County Jail when he could not post bond.

The Hohenshel charge against Knecht was dropped at Friday's hearing.

receipts in order to meet payrolls.

Although a city income tax of eight-tenths of one per cent went into effect March 2, the city will realize very little revenue from the new measure until May, when the first installment of withholding taxes is due to be paid the municipality from employers.

Applegate said the city's semimonthly payroll totals approximately $28,000, exclusive of the water and sewage departments, which are operated separately by the Board of Public Utilities and which have sources of income separate from taxation.

Quarterly water and sewage charges support the two departments. In addition, the incinerator department's entire income is based on proceeds from a voted 2½-mill levy. But the incinerator department's payroll is included in the total of $28,000, Applegate said.

2 Patrolmen Praised On Truck's Recovery

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi has received a letter from Wendell H. Vodrey, president of the Moore Furniture Co., praising Patrolmen E. R. Furgason and Floyd K. Heddleston for their "speed and dispatch" in recovering a truck stolen from the company's E. 3rd St. warehouse.

The two officers found the truck abandoned on the Beaver Creek Rd. near the state line about an hour after the theft report.

"We are particularly grateful in view of the restrictions under which you are maintaining your department due to the deficit in the operating budget," Vodrey said in the letter to the chief.

Had Been Drinking

Mrs. Hayward said the child and Bill Boyd stayed with her until Sept. 5 when he came home after having been drinking, and she, angered at this, called Nancy to come and get the baby.

Prosecutor Brokaw asked her about Boyd's drinking, and she said she could recall only two times during the stay in which he apparently had been imbibing. "Was he jealous of Nancy?" "I couldn't say."

"You haven't visited your son since he was in jail?" "That's right." "Any particular reason?" She answered, "No," but the defense objected to the question.

Sheriff Russell VanFossan was called to identify a letter which he said he believed was found in Boyd's auto, but the contents of the letter were not revealed in any testimony yesterday.

Final Witness

Final witness of the afternoon was Harold William Boyd of Price St., a youthful friend of Boyd's younger brother who is also called Bill Torrence. He is not related to the defendant.

The youth, who referred to the defendant as Hoppy — "from hopalong, I guess" — said he had visited the Boyd home on many occasions. He said he knew Nancy Lee, and had seen her with other boys in Chester and at Beaver Creek.

Pennsylvanians Held On Assault

An Ambridge man and one from Sewickley R.D. 2 were held for Beaver County Court after a hearing Friday before Midland Justice of the Peace Paul McGeehan on a charge of assault and battery.

William Basinger of Ambridge posted a $500 property bond and John Knecht of Sewickley R. D. 2 posted a $300 cash bond.

The charges were filed by Mrs. Josephine Taylor of Industry R. D. 2 on behalf of her son, Thomas L. Taylor, who was hospitalized after an alleged street fight Feb. 24 in Ambridge involving Basinger, Knecht and Robert Hresko of Rochester.

The charge heard Friday against Hresko was dropped. At a hearing Feb. 26 before McGeehan, Basinger and Hresko were charged with assault and battery by Keith Hohenshel of Industry R.D. 2 who allegedly was also in the fight.

On that charge, Basinger and Hresko were held for court under $500 bond each and Basinger was committed to the Beaver County Jail when he could not post bond.

The Hohenshel charge against Knecht was dropped at Friday's hearing.

Although a city income tax of eight-tenths of one per cent went into effect March 2, the city will realize very little revenue from the new measure until May, when the first installment of withholding taxes is due to be paid the municipality from employers.

Applegate said the city's semimonthly payroll totals approximately $28,000, exclusive of the water and sewage departments, which are operated separately by the Board of Public Utilities and which have sources of income separate from taxation.

Quarterly water and sewage charges support the two departments. In addition, the incinerator department's entire income is based on proceeds from a voted 2½-mill levy. But the incinerator department's payroll is included in the total of $28,000, Applegate said.

2 Patrolmen Praised On Truck's Recovery

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi has received a letter from Wendell H. Vodrey, president of the Moore Furniture Co., praising Patrolmen E. R. Furgason and Floyd K. Heddleston for their "speed and dispatch" in recovering a truck stolen from the company's E. 3rd St. warehouse.

The two officers found the truck abandoned on the Beaver Creek Rd. near the state line about an hour after the theft report.

"We are particularly grateful in view of the restrictions under which you are maintaining your department due to the deficit in the operating budget," Vodrey said in the letter to the chief.

Speak Loudly: Carry A Big Stick

We could wish our international tub-thumpers plied their trade as well as Nikita Khrushchev plies his.

Then we remember that Khrushchev has the 100 per cent cooperation of all the news media of the United States and our tub-thumpers have no cooperation in Russia, which makes a world of difference.

Whatever Khrushchev says is known throughout the United States within the hour. But when our people say something the Russians never hear about it at all, and if Americans hear about it they pay no special attention because it has been heard before anyway.

Even when the Russian premier is running for re-election, Russian-style, his campaign speeches are reported in the United States. What seems to have been an aside remark or two about cosmic rockets and new earth satellites made in the course of a political harangue were sent sizzling to the United States and circulated within a few hours.

EACH OF US had another unsought opportunity to shiver and shake about the awful way the unspeakable Russians were behaving, rattling rockets and throwing their weight around in the Berlin Corridor at the very time they were talking through clenched teeth at Geneva.

What it adds up to is that if Premier Khrushchev were to be struck silent by permanent laryngitis the world could sleep nights until some new Russian tub-thumper leaped out of obscurity, as Khrushchev did in the period of turmoil after Stalin's death.

Is all this unavoidable and juitifiable under the news credo that everything about the Soviet Union is news and Khrushchev is newsier than anybody else?

As long as there is no conceivable way to black out Soviet tub-thumpers, or even to trim them down to size, as sometimes has been done to overpublicized persons in the United States when their news value grew stale, the answer seems to be yes.

It would be no only if Khrushchev's news value grew as stale as did that of certain bosomy cinema cuties who rarely are given space any more though both are still around and cute as ever.

IS THERE ANY chance of such a turn of events? Probably not enough to be worth thinking about because of the potentialities of the Soviet Union as a source of trouble.

If China had the same potentialities, Mao Tse-tung would become as newsworthy as Khrushchev. In fact, the day he announces that the nuclear test blast recorded on detection devices was his, not Khrushchev's, the best tub-thumper will be Chinese, not Russian.

And there will be the same complication for Americans. The Chinese never will know what our tub-thumpers are saying but we will be apprised whenever their tub-thumper belches, even though he is doing nothing more noteworthy at the time than running for office in an uncontested election.

It isn't news when a man bites a dog any more, unless the man is a Russian and the dog is a Russian wolfhound. This is a nettle newspapers and other news media must grasp. They don't know what to do about it, but there it is. Ouch.

What About Consumers Of Guff?

It is in keeping with the spirit of the times that the Kennedy administration is promising special protection for consumers.

The fact that everything it proposes to do is being done under laws already on the books will not take away any of the political oompah from a program of consumer protection. Consumers love to be protected.

But if they ever get into the habit of thinking about it seriously they also are going to want to be protected against dilutions, poisoning, false advertising and mislabeling of political guff. They consume incredible quantities of this stuff in the course of a lifetime. It's what the other party says in a campaign.

BOTH PARTIES purvey it, of course, and both parties should be made to answer for it. Half-hearted efforts have been made in the last two presidential campaigns to clean up some of the more blatant falsehoods and smears but without conspicuous success. In 1956 and 1960 the Republican party had a "truth squad" trailing Democratic orators, and Democrats have done their share of trailing Republicans. But these tactis were in themselves part of the guff that consumers were swallowing.

Who is going to protect consumers against it?

Occasionally things get so raw the House or Senate may feel called on to investigate the manner in which a candidate bulled his way into Congress. But even when that happens it comes long after the event and rarely reverses the outcome of an election anyway.

The truth is that politicians have no inclination to do anything about their own guff, nor do their followers let it upset them. Even the opposition doesn't get too upset because if it hasn't been guilty of the same thing already it expects to use the same tactics if it gets a chance.

AND SO THE guff goes on and on and on and in time becomes a good deal like the lies told by pitchmen and sideshow barkers—lies that everybody identifies on sight and sound but has no inclination to challenge because it's all part of the great game of politics.

It's different, however, with the great game of making a buck. Let a politician catch an entrepreneur in a fast shuffle or a half-truth and pow!

That's different! That's business.

Young In Spirit

An attendance of 65 at Thursday's meeting indicates the Senior Citizens Group of East Liverpool is making genuine progress in its effort to provide a worthwhile program for the community's elderly residents.

It's a wonderful thing when the older folks can get together and have a good time through an exchange of mutual interests.

It looks like the Senior Citizens Group is here to stay. We certainly hope so. If you are elderly and feel left out of things, contact the group. Its members have an outlook on life that is young in spirit in contrast to the many years that their collective ages represent.

Nobody Won: Everybody Lost

If Algerian truce talks are stalled on the tricky question of how to make it appear that neither side lost, there should be no further time wasted.

Both sides lost.

After World War I, it was agreed so generally that wars could not be won that the nations of Europe agreed never to resort to war again as an instrument of national policy. The League of Nations was established to keep nations from drifting into irreconcilable conflicts that would explode into war.

After World War II it was agreed again that everybody lost. This was not immediately evident, however. First, there had to be celebrations of victory. But the celebrations were as hollow as the victories they celebrated. The United Nations was established to keep nations ever from drifting again into the insanity of mutual bloodletting.

It appears now that the most terrible consequence of the Algerian war was to release the savagery of the irreconcilables whose capacity for terror and savagery is exceeding the worst fears of both Frenchmen and Algerians.

These extremists have it in their power to unleash the fury of a holy war in Africa. Persecution of the Moslems could have no other effect than to excite them into an uprising so violent the French army could not be pulled out of Algeria.

Who lost in Algeria?

Twentieth century civilization.

That's why both sides want to call a truce, isn't it?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Astronauts have invested heavily in million dollar motel at Cocoa Beach and in Grand Bahamas and Washington project. (You can't keep those boys out of dangerous exploits.)

Real estate can be profitable but it is not without many perils, against some of which, no cone, escape hatch or instrument panel can be much help. Re-entry from motel and hotel back into zone of safety and comfort can be a problem. No airplane carrier, helicopter or cruiser is of any use in rescue proceedings should things turn out badly.

Expert hotel and financial men are behind astronauts and everything seems to favor the success for which everybody hopes. However there are moments in most building and operational proceedings in which a man can be made dizzier than by three trips around the globe.

A man seldom feels more weightless, for example, than in an argument with contractors over added costs. Journey through title searches, blueprints, mortgage arrangements, etc., is often a tough one, even for heroes.

Business operations can impose additional wories on astronauts, cool as they are and can bring back the message "everything fine up here. How are things down there in the investment world?"

Let us hope there is no such exchange of messages between outer space and the earth as the following:

Astronaut: Am 20 miles up, but have yet to penetrate height of steel, lumber and concrete prices.

Cape: Keep mind on your work and trust to oxygen tanks.

Astronaut: Twenty five miles in air and approaching architect's fees.

Cape: You're exploring outer space not inner financial problems.

Astronaut: Now in weightless zone. Just held out a bottle of food capsules and it floated. Held out last bill from building contractor and it sank.

Cape: Lights will go on for you over Perth, Australia.

Astronaut: I'd feel better if they went on for me over Grand Bahamas and Flroida motels.

Another Ugly Duckling?

Space Age Will Open Up New Jobs

By Victor Riesel

WICHITA, Kan. There is a mid-way point. Here, down - to - earth people are somewhat halfway between the "moon" shops in Syracuse, N.Y., and the "astro" companies of the California coast. When I was in Syracuse recently I learned of 75 General Electric scientists in a think and research operation — Project Apollo — aimed at getting a new crop of astronauts to the moon before the Russians.

Victor Riesel

On the West Coast several firms are "mocking up" special space ships in which men can live for a year — or more.

In these "moon" shops there may be the answers to the down to earth worries of the people here who have helped build the garden variety aerial defense of our land — and now face being phased out of their jobs.

There is the space supply business. I'm told it will run to some $8 billion annually by 1970.

AFTER THE 75 GE scientists mop up their project, I was told in Syracuse, the full moon job may cost $20 billion. And that will be just the beginning. Once we land there, we'll have to send up space convoys of supplies.

This will mean the creation of vast new industries on earth — fabricating the material to lay roadways and rocket platforms on the dust beds of the moon, creating a new space suit industry, vast new tele - communications systems.

Already the long - term development of these new industries is creating jobs down here on earth. There is, for example, the science of ultra cold — "cryogenics." New metals, new gyroscopes, new equipment are needed to operate accurately in the brutal icy nothingness of space.

Small atomic - electric power plants are being developed for use in outer space.

Scientists are working on life support equipment for use in space travel. These include food preservation systems, water and oxygen recovery.

There is, for example, the work on space suits. Sounds almost silly. But not when you count the millions going into the experimentation.

A SPACE SUIT is needed for out-of-ship repairs by astronauts. There is one. It is the "anthropomorphic" space suit — already so well perfected that it can enable a man to work "outside" a craft for some four hours at a time. It has a sleek exterior. This covers a complex series of life support systems.

They include a temperature control mechanism and gadgets which would keep the suit protective for five minutes after it was hit and punctured by a bit of meteroric material. Five minutes would be enough to get the astro-mechanic back inside the craft.

The lunar suit would be more complex. It would require a more extensive internal temperature control system. It would need a fully encompassing compartment, probably filled with water, to maintain an even internal temperature in spite of great changes in the outside atmosphere.

On the moon, an astronaut's suit would have to stand off the heat from the moon's surface. Lunar dust would have to be kept from clinging to the suit surfaces to prevent erosion.

Systems would have to be devised for regulation of oxygen and humidity. There would have to be provision for communications, propulsion and warning of harmful radiation or suit failure.

THE POWER SUPPLY and much of the life support equipment would be carried on the astronaut's back. There would be a chest pack for tools, and extra insulation against surface heat of feet, knees, elbows and seat.

There would be a work light that turns with the man's body heat. There would also be an antenna on back of the helmet for a two-way radio.

This is not fantasy. Soon we will be tooling up for such production — not only on space units which require exacting production of such minutiae just for one man, but on the special rocket boosters, space stations, satellite communication way stations. The list will run into thousands of items.

The space business, the experts tell me, will run twice as big as the now almost old - fashioned electronics industry. There will be jobs in the space age. Enough to go around. It is possible that the oldest game played with a ball and stick is field hockey, but oddly enough, in the United States, where men have embraced so many sports involving these two "weapons," field hockey is practically ignored by them. Unwitting Distortions Spring Up

The image of America which other countries are being given today is marked by some unwitting distortions.

David Lawrence

Is Jacqueline Kennedy, for instance, giving to the people of India the true image of present day America, particularly in its profound sympathy for the hungry and the sick and for the tens of thousands who sleep nightly in the streets of India's cities for lack of homes?

The image that the people of a foreign land form about America too often is concerned with our wealth, our millionaires and our alleged emphasis on the luxuries of a privileged class. This is the image of America that Communists constantly try to give in their propaganda.

The news dispatches from abroad this week tell a graphic story of the visit to India by the gracious and well-mannered "first lady of the United States." An Associated Press item from New Delhi, for instance, describes Mrs. Kennedy as a "pretty young horsewoman from the White House" who took the jumps on an Indian riding course as a diversion "in a day of such unfamiliar things as feeding a baby elephant and watching a snake charmer pipe a swaying cobra from a basket."

The U.S. ambassador later reported to newsmen that Mrs. Kennedy in her riding exhibition had outdone some of the best lancers in the Indian president's horse guard, who watched in unconcealed admiration.

There is talk now of a visit to India next summer by President and Mrs. Kennedy. Is India's government deserving of all this attention? How does the news of these happenings affect the American people who are being asked to put up their tax money for foreign aid?

President Kennedy in his news conference last Wednesday said that members of Congress make "vigorous speeches against Communism and call for a policy of victory" but do not want to go along with the foreign aid program of nearly $5 billion proposed by the administration to fight communism.

There's an old habit among Americans of asking what is going to be done with their tax money. The President really isn't convincing Congress that the billions in foreign aid will accomplish the victory of which he speaks.

ALMOST EVERYONE in Congress, of course, would be for foreign aid if there were any degree of certainty that the money would be of some avail and would help to defeat international communism but the news from India itself has been far from good.

Prime Minister Nehru is all smiles as Mrs. Kennedy visits his country and is entertained there. Naturally, it is of political value to Mr. Nehru to give the impression to his people that the United States likes India and will continue to pour out its billions even if India keeps on with its "non-alignment" policies.

Fortunately, the American press prints the news—and what has been happening in India indicates that the victory over communism is more remote than ever.

Within the last few weeks, a national election has been held there. Nehru's party has won out.

The support from the Communist side was notieable, especially as Krishna Menon, arch-foe of the United States, won the biggest victory of all.

He is defense minister in Nehru's Cabinet and, although occasionally denying that he is a Communist, plays the Communist side of the game right along, especially in the United Nations and behind the scenes in Europe and Asia.

Menon's opponent took him "over the jumps" for his pro-Communist attitude, but it was in vain. Communist support was strong enough to give Menon the victory. Prime Minister Nehru, who campaigned for him, never seems to be able to shake loose from the so-called "intellectual" influence Menon has exerted over him for many years.

ALSO, NOT SO LONG ago the Nehru government suddenly brushed aside negotiations and by military force seized the ancient territory of Goa, which had been held by Portugal for centuries. The United States government didn't express its horror over this, though the American press did. The United States possibly has lost the friendship of Portugal, a member of NATO, whose agreement to let this country retain a naval and air base in the Azores is up for renewal and now has been jeopardized.

The President in his statement oversimplified the position of many members of Congress who oppose his foreign-aid program. Most of them are in favor of the principle of foreign aid but they don't believe in wasting the taxpayers' money on governments which "are taking America for a ride."

There is every reason for expressing a humanitarian desire to help the hundreds of millions of unfortunate human beings in India. But the real point is whether a blind extension of financial aid, without any program that really offers the promise of attaining our objectives, should be authorized.

India's government carries on intimate relations with the Communist regime in the Soviet Union, which considers Nehru a valuable ally.

America's current policy is to tolerate all this as "neutrality" but the American people like "neutrality," too—at lease for their dollars. They would prefer "non-alignment" with any country that is tied up with the Communists to the point where the latter's apparatus—controlled from Moscow can play an influential part in any outside election.

VD Shows Increase

NEW YORK In the 1960's scientists will push hard (with much dollar prodding from the public) for the cures of cancer, heart ailments and diseases X, Y and Z.

But it's well to remember that cure does not mean the end of a disease.

Last week, syphilis arose from the public health statistics to prove the theorem. In just one year, new infectious cases increased by 50 per cent to give the highest total (18,781) in 10 years.

You would think that with a simple cure available to all, spyhilis would have disappeared from the public health rolls by now. To be sure, the total number of new syphilis cases (including infectious and late syphilis) has dropped sharply from 351,767 in 1945 to 125,000 in 1961. But it hasn't disappeared.

WHEN YOU CONSIDER the powerful techniques available to doctors to fight this disease, the puzzle deepens. Two simultaneous injections of 2.4 million units each of penicillin suffice in most cases to wipe out the spirochete of infection.

If the patient has penicillin sensitivity, the doctor can bring up other antibiotics: Erythromycin or carbomycin. Thus far, the germ has shown no apparent drug resistance.

Secondly, the physician and his laboratory technicians, in most cases, can pin down the presence of the spirochete, either by microscopic examination or by blood tests which, while not infallible, flash a warning.

With these tools, the public health officer should be able to search out the chain of infection from person to person. By treating each infected person he finds, the public health officer eventually would reduce or eliminate the pool of infection to the point where a new chain cannot begin.

THIS PRESUMABLY would be true even in the face of wild promiscuity—no germ, no disease.

That's the theory. In practice, case-finding turns out to be enormously difficult. Because of the venereal nature of the mode of transmission, victims become reluctant to tell how they got the ailment.

However, tenacious health officers, by repeated interviews, cajolery, education, detective work and shrewd guesses, have traced some of the most amazing threads of infection.

One outbreak reported last year in Shreveport, La., involved 392 patients and 2,044 contacts turned up by investigation. The contacts had another 263 cases of syphilis.

Health officers rounded up another 1,044 suspected contacts and their 1,192 associates. Additional cases: 70.

A vaccine might eliminate syphilis, but even if one were available, social pressure against its use probably would preclude any widespread application.

Speak Loudly: Carry A Big Stick

We could wish our international tub-thumpers plied their trade as well as Nikita Khrushchev plies his.

Then we remember that Khrushchev has the 100 per cent cooperation of all the news media of the United States and our tub-thumpers have no cooperation in Russia, which makes a world of difference.

Whatever Khrushchev says is known throughout the United States within the hour. But when our people say something the Russians never hear about it at all, and if Americans hear about it they pay no special attention because it has been heard before anyway.

Even when the Russian premier is running for re-election, Russian-style, his campaign speeches are reported in the United States. What seems to have been an aside remark or two about cosmic rockets and new earth satellites made in the course of a political harangue were sent sizzling to the United States and circulated within a few hours.

EACH OF US had another unsought opportunity to shiver and shake about the awful way the unspeakable Russians were behaving, rattling rockets and throwing their weight around in the Berlin Corridor at the very time they were talking through clenched teeth at Geneva.

What it adds up to is that if Premier Khrushchev were to be struck silent by permanent laryngitis the world could sleep nights until some new Russian tub-thumper leaped out of obscurity, as Khrushchev did in the period of turmoil after Stalin's death.

Is all this unavoidable and juitifiable under the news credo that everything about the Soviet Union is news and Khrushchev is newsier than anybody else?

As long as there is no conceivable way to black out Soviet tub-thumpers, or even to trim them down to size, as sometimes has been done to overpublicized persons in the United States when their news value grew stale, the answer seems to be yes.

It would be no only if Khrushchev's news value grew as stale as did that of certain bosomy cinema cuties who rarely are given space any more though both are still around and cute as ever.

IS THERE ANY chance of such a turn of events? Probably not enough to be worth thinking about because of the potentialities of the Soviet Union as a source of trouble.

If China had the same potentialities, Mao Tse-tung would become as newsworthy as Khrushchev. In fact, the day he announces that the nuclear test blast recorded on detection devices was his, not Khrushchev's, the best tub-thumper will be Chinese, not Russian.

And there will be the same complication for Americans. The Chinese never will know what our tub-thumpers are saying but we will be apprised whenever their tub-thumper belches, even though he is doing nothing more noteworthy at the time than running for office in an uncontested election.

It isn't news when a man bites a dog any more, unless the man is a Russian and the dog is a Russian wolfhound. This is a nettle newspapers and other news media must grasp. They don't know what to do about it, but there it is. Ouch.

What About Consumers Of Guff?

It is in keeping with the spirit of the times that the Kennedy administration is promising special protection for consumers.

The fact that everything it proposes to do is being done under laws already on the books will not take away any of the political oompah from a program of consumer protection. Consumers love to be protected.

But if they ever get into the habit of thinking about it seriously they also are going to want to be protected against dilutions, poisoning, false advertising and mislabeling of political guff. They consume incredible quantities of this stuff in the course of a lifetime. It's what the other party says in a campaign.

BOTH PARTIES purvey it, of course, and both parties should be made to answer for it. Half-hearted efforts have been made in the last two presidential campaigns to clean up some of the more blatant falsehoods and smears but without conspicuous success. In 1956 and 1960 the Republican party had a "truth squad" trailing Democratic orators, and Democrats have done their share of trailing Republicans. But these tactis were in themselves part of the guff that consumers were swallowing.

Who is going to protect consumers against it?

Occasionally things get so raw the House or Senate may feel called on to investigate the manner in which a candidate bulled his way into Congress. But even when that happens it comes long after the event and rarely reverses the outcome of an election anyway.

The truth is that politicians have no inclination to do anything about their own guff, nor do their followers let it upset them. Even the opposition doesn't get too upset because if it hasn't been guilty of the same thing already it expects to use the same tactics if it gets a chance.

AND SO THE guff goes on and on and on and in time becomes a good deal like the lies told by pitchmen and sideshow barkers—lies that everybody identifies on sight and sound but has no inclination to challenge because it's all part of the great game of politics.

It's different, however, with the great game of making a buck. Let a politician catch an entrepreneur in a fast shuffle or a half-truth and pow!

That's different! That's business.

Young In Spirit

An attendance of 65 at Thursday's meeting indicates the Senior Citizens Group of East Liverpool is making genuine progress in its effort to provide a worthwhile program for the community's elderly residents.

It's a wonderful thing when the older folks can get together and have a good time through an exchange of mutual interests.

It looks like the Senior Citizens Group is here to stay. We certainly hope so. If you are elderly and feel left out of things, contact the group. Its members have an outlook on life that is young in spirit in contrast to the many years that their collective ages represent.

Nobody Won: Everybody Lost

If Algerian truce talks are stalled on the tricky question of how to make it appear that neither side lost, there should be no further time wasted.

Both sides lost.

After World War I, it was agreed so generally that wars could not be won that the nations of Europe agreed never to resort to war again as an instrument of national policy. The League of Nations was established to keep nations from drifting into irreconcilable conflicts that would explode into war.

After World War II it was agreed again that everybody lost. This was not immediately evident, however. First, there had to be celebrations of victory. But the celebrations were as hollow as the victories they celebrated. The United Nations was established to keep nations ever from drifting again into the insanity of mutual bloodletting.

It appears now that the most terrible consequence of the Algerian war was to release the savagery of the irreconcilables whose capacity for terror and savagery is exceeding the worst fears of both Frenchmen and Algerians.

These extremists have it in their power to unleash the fury of a holy war in Africa. Persecution of the Moslems could have no other effect than to excite them into an uprising so violent the French army could not be pulled out of Algeria.

Who lost in Algeria?

Twentieth century civilization.

That's why both sides want to call a truce, isn't it?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Astronauts have invested heavily in million dollar motel at Cocoa Beach and in Grand Bahamas and Washington project. (You can't keep those boys out of dangerous exploits.)

Real estate can be profitable but it is not without many perils, against some of which, no cone, escape hatch or instrument panel can be much help. Re-entry from motel and hotel back into zone of safety and comfort can be a problem. No airplane carrier, helicopter or cruiser is of any use in rescue proceedings should things turn out badly.

Expert hotel and financial men are behind astronauts and everything seems to favor the success for which everybody hopes. However there are moments in most building and operational proceedings in which a man can be made dizzier than by three trips around the globe.

A man seldom feels more weightless, for example, than in an argument with contractors over added costs. Journey through title searches, blueprints, mortgage arrangements, etc., is often a tough one, even for heroes.

Business operations can impose additional wories on astronauts, cool as they are and can bring back the message "everything fine up here. How are things down there in the investment world?"

Let us hope there is no such exchange of messages between outer space and the earth as the following:

Astronaut: Am 20 miles up, but have yet to penetrate height of steel, lumber and concrete prices.

Cape: Keep mind on your work and trust to oxygen tanks.

Astronaut: Twenty five miles in air and approaching architect's fees.

Cape: You're exploring outer space not inner financial problems.

Astronaut: Now in weightless zone. Just held out a bottle of food capsules and it floated. Held out last bill from building contractor and it sank.

Cape: Lights will go on for you over Perth, Australia.

Astronaut: I'd feel better if they went on for me over Grand Bahamas and Flroida motels.

MAYOR WAGNER of New York was honored at National Flower Show. No Tiger Lilies, however. Just some bulbs from an Albany "Rock" garden, a few flowering ultimatums from Mike Quill and some snapdragons from Mr. Weinberg.

Space Age Will Open Up New Jobs

By Victor Riesel

WICHITA, Kan. There is a mid-way point. Here, down - to - earth people are somewhat halfway between the "moon" shops in Syracuse, N.Y., and the "astro" companies of the California coast. When I was in Syracuse recently I learned of 75 General Electric scientists in a think and research operation — Project Apollo — aimed at getting a new crop of astronauts to the moon before the Russians.

Victor Riesel

On the West Coast several firms are "mocking up" special space ships in which men can live for a year — or more.

In these "moon" shops there may be the answers to the down to earth worries of the people here who have helped build the garden variety aerial defense of our land — and now face being phased out of their jobs.

There is the space supply business. I'm told it will run to some $8 billion annually by 1970.

AFTER THE 75 GE scientists mop up their project, I was told in Syracuse, the full moon job may cost $20 billion. And that will be just the beginning. Once we land there, we'll have to send up space convoys of supplies.

This will mean the creation of vast new industries on earth — fabricating the material to lay roadways and rocket platforms on the dust beds of the moon, creating a new space suit industry, vast new tele - communications systems.

Already the long - ferm development of these new industries is creating jobs down here on earth. There is, for example, the science of ultra cold — "cryogenics." New metals, new gyroscopes, new equipment are needed to operate accurately in the brutal icy nothingness of space.

Small atomic - electric power plants are being developed for use in outer space.

Scientists are working on life support equipment for use in space travel. These include food preservation systems, water and oxygen recovery.

There is, for example, the work on space suits. Sounds almost silly. But not when you count the millions going into the experimentation.

A SPACE SUIT is needed for out-of-ship repairs by astronauts. There is one. It is the "anthropomorphic" space suit — already so well perfected that it can enable a man to work "outside" a craft for some four hours at a time. It has a sleek exterior. This covers a complex series of life support systems.

They include a temperature control mechanism and gadgets which would keep the suit protective for five minutes after it was hit and punctured by a bit of meteroric material. Five minutes would be enough to get the astro-mechanic back inside the craft.

The lunar suit would be more complex. It would require a more extensive internal temperature control system. It would need a fully encompassing compartment, probably filled with water, to maintain an even internal temperature in spite of great changes in the outside atmosphere.

On the moon, an astronaut's suit would have to stand off the heat from the moon's surface. Lunar dust would have to be kept from clinging to the suit surfaces to prevent erosion.

Systems would have to be devised for regulation of oxygen and humidity. There would have to be provision for communications, propulsion and warning of harmful radiation or suit failure.

THE POWER SUPPLY and much of the life support equipment would be carried on the astronaut's back. There would be a chest pack for tools, and extra insulation against surface heat of feet, knees, elbows and seat.

There would be a work light that turns with the man's body heat. There would also be an antenna on back of the helmet for a two-way radio.

This is not fantasy. Soon we will be tooling up for such production — not only on space units which require exacting production of such minutiae just for one man, but on the special rocket boosters, space stations, satellite communication way stations. The list will run into thousands of items.

The space business, the experts tell me, will run twice as big as the now almost old - fashioned electronics industry. There will be jobs in the space age. Enough to go around. But these jobs, these industries of the future, must be intelligently dispersed so they will help communities such as Wichita.

There will be work for everyone. What our government must do is see that everyone who has the skill gets his equal share.

Counters Khrushchev's Claim

U.S. Bares Good Advance In Spy Satellite System

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported today good progress in the development of a system of spy satellites designed to detect Russian missile launchings almost instantly and radio back warning.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev neglected, perhaps intentionally, to mention the U.S. Midas satellite system Friday in announcing creation of a new Russian "global rocket" that he said was able to avoid U.S. radar warning stations.

At least two experimental Midas satellites have been sent aloft. One of them was credited with spotting a Titan missile only 90 seconds after the Titan took off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., last Oct. 25.

Other models may have been shot into polar orbits since then, but the Air Force has drawn tight secrecy around the program.

Also cloaked for security reasons is a related spy in the sky project called Samos. The Samos satellites are designed to take pictures of military bases in Russian territory or any other area from hundreds of miles in space.

Officials said both programs were moving along without any serious difficulties. The two spy satellite systems may be operational within a couple of years.

Military authorities were not jolted by Khrushchev's claim that Russian scientists have created a new intercontinental rocket that they call global.

Observers recalled that when Russia made its first claim to having successfully tested an intercontinental missile, it said the rocket could hit any spot on the globe. That was more than 4½ years ago—on Aug. 26, 1957.

It was suggested that Khrushchev Friday could have meant a missile able to travel somewhat over 12,000 miles, rather than a rocket built to circle the earth.

A rocket with a range of more than 12,000 miles could reach about halfway around the world, which has a 25,000-mile circumference. Thus, nearly every point on the globe would be within its reach, depending on the direction in which it was fired.

U.S. missilemen have fired at least four Atlas ICBMs more than 9,000 miles. Friday, the Air Force successfully tested a Titan II rocket calculated to have a potential of perhaps 12,000 miles. The first test shot of the Titan II, from Cape Canaveral, was described as covering more than 5,000 miles into the Southern Atlantic.

In his Moscow speech, Khrushchev said the new Russian rocket was invulnerable to antimissile weapons.

The United States is working on several approaches to the missile-killing problem. The most advanced of these is the Army's Nike-Zeus—but Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says there are serious weaknesses in the system.

Nonetheless, McNamara said recently the Russians do not have an antimissile system even as advanced as the Nike-Zeus.

Mrs. Mary Ruth Bebout was elected corresponding secretary and Mrs. Lilliebelle Leonard treasurer.

Elected to two-year terms on the Board of Directors were Mrs. Mildred Hawkins and Harold Bricker. Mrs. Hawkins was re-elected. Holdover directors are Paul Burrows, Mrs. Grace Brown and William Kelly.

Members of the Board of Education and Supt. Ralph W. Betts were guests.

Piano selections were played by Burdene Bowman. The invocation was given by the Rev. Russell Mase of the Emmanuel United Presbyterian Church.

An Ohio theme was used in the decorations with red birds, red carnations and buckeyes. Dinner was served by the cafeteria staff headed by Mrs. Helen Trotter.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Zelma George of Cleveland addressed a public meeting sponsored by the ELTA in the school auditorium on "Understanding the Negro Spiritual." She demonstrated points in her talk with songs.

"Father's Night" was observed.

Miss Constantine Mourat sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" with Miss Despena Gagianas, music instructor at the 4th St. School, as pianist.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

Three Keys To Happiness

A petulant young woman told me she was going to dvorce her husband. And the reason? "I have been married to him now for six months," she said, "and he doesn't make me happy."

DR. PEALE

"So you are going to get another husband, are you?" I asked. "And get him to make you happy? Is that it?"

I soon learned that this was the pampered child of a fluttery mother whose one idea in life had been that her "darling baby" should be happy. So when the girl who had never grown up emotionally got married it was not with the thought of being a good man's partner in life's endeavors. No, her husband was supposed to make her happy — that was all. Unconsciously she was looking for another doting mother, you might say.

THE TRUE purpose of marriage is for a husband and wife to form a team to rear children, help make the world a better place and advance the welfare of mankind. If the partners to a marriage pursue those objectives they will have happiness aplenty along the way.

It is paradoxical that if you want to be happy you should not try too hard to be happy. People who go all out for happiness usually miss it. If you make happiness your goal it eludes you. But in the process of pursuing certain other values you find happiness and lots of it.

The first key to happiness is faith. That is basic. Without faith we cannot endure serenely the tough times in life when adversities, afflictions, difficulties gang up on us for which no remedy seems in sight. As a result happiness vanishes. Maybe we go to pieces altogether.

The person who has faith in God's providence has a reserve of serenity deep inside even when things are tough. Having done everything he can do, such a person confidently leaves the situation in God's hands, knowing that the solution will be revealed later on. "Whoso trusteth in the Lord," says Solomon in the Book of Proverbs, "happy is he."

A SECOND key to happiness is growth — one's own growth — It can be growth in skill, understanding, kindness or any other virtue. Do not make the mistake of becoming satisfied with yourself as you are today.

Do not go around for months on end or even years unchanged, being the same old person, lugging with you the self-same quirks and foibles and limitations. If you never change and develop, then unconsciously you will get tired of yourself and life will go stale and unhappiness will plague you.

Lee Bristol of the Bristol Meyers Drug Co. tells how his mother would invariably ask each child arriving home, "Has your soul grown today?" Even when his mother had reached the age of 90 and he would drive over to her house to see her — being himself by then past 60 years of age — one of her first greetings would be the searching question, "Lee, has your soul grown today?" Mrs. Bristol Sr. was a very wise woman. She knew how inseparable are growth of mind and soul and happiness in life. Without growth life withers.

THIRDLY, if you would be a happy person, concern yourself with the welfare of others. The door to happiness will open wide to anyone using this key. The Bible tells us that by saving his life a man loses it, but by laying it down for the Lord's sake he finds it. Also we are told it is more blessed to give than to receive.

The law of life is that people who are intent only upon receiving happiness cease to receive it, but those who give happiness find that blessing somehow returns to them in large measure.

The truth applies in matrimony just as much as in all aspects of life. The really successful marriage is where man and wife are primarily concerned for each other's happiness, rather than for their own. Emerson remarked that happiness is like perfume in this sense, that you cannot sprinkle it upon others without a lot of it being wafted back to you.

They Walked With Christ

JOHN The Apostle

"When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!"
—John XIX:26

Whatever distinctions or commendable attributes the other apostles may have had, it was John whom Jesus loved with the intimate, understanding affection of brother, companion, and trustworthy friend.

At the Last Supper, John was seated not only next to Jesus, but leaned his head upon the Master's breast. And in the agonized hour of His death, looking down upon the little group of faithful who had followed Him even to the Cross, Jesus commits His mother to the care of John.

Again, it was the beloved disciple who first recognized the resurrected Jesus on the Sea of Galilee, when He appeared in the morning twilight on the dim shore.

John was a son of Zebedee, an apparently well-to-do fisherman of Bethsaida. Jesus nicknamed him and James, his brother, Boanerges, meaning "Sons of Thunder."

Such a designation should serve to dispel the impression that might be given of John by early Christian art, which often depicts him as of a passive, meek, almost epicene nature.

In the face of extreme persecution by a group headed by Saul of Tarsus, John resolutely stood his ground. The Scripture tells of his presence in Jerusalem 15 years after Saul's (later Paul) first visit to that city.

John's later history is not recounted in the New Testament. But according to tradition, he left Jerusalem and went to Ephesus. It is said that during the reign of Domitian, he was arrested and taken to Rome, and later sent into exile on the Isle of Patmos.

It was while there, apocryphal accounts say, that he was given the visions of the last days, part of which he wrote down in his Book of the Revelation.

It is conjectured that he lived to an extreme old age, the dates of his death having been set variously from A.D. 89 to A.D. 120.

They Walked With Christ

JOHN The Apostle

"When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!"
—John XIX:26

Whatever distinctions or commendable attributes the other apostles may have had, it was John whom Jesus loved with the intimate, understanding affection of brother, companion, and trustworthy friend.

At the Last Supper, John was seated not only next to Jesus, but leaned his head upon the Master's breast. And in the agonized hour of His death, looking down upon the little group of faithful who had followed Him even to the Cross, Jesus commits His mother to the care of John.

Again, it was the beloved disciple who first recognized the resurrected Jesus on the Sea of Galilee, when He appeared in the morning twilight on the dim shore.

John was a son of Zebedee, an apparently well-to-do fisherman of Bethsaida. Jesus nicknamed him and James, his brother, Boanerges, meaning "Sons of Thunder."

Such a designation should serve to dispel the impression that might be given of John by early Christian art, which often depicts him as of a passive, meek, almost epicene nature.

In the face of extreme persecution by a group headed by Saul of Tarsus, John resolutely stood his ground. The Scripture tells of his presence in Jerusalem 15 years after Saul's (later Paul) first visit to that city.

John's later history is not recounted in the New Testament. But according to tradition, he left Jerusalem and went to Ephesus. It is said that during the reign of Domitian, he was arrested and taken to Rome, and later sent into exile on the Isle of Patmos.

It was while there, apocryphal accounts say, that he was given the visions of the last days, part of which he wrote down in his Book of the Revelation.

It is conjectured that he lived to an extreme old age, the dates of his death having been set variously from A.D. 89 to A.D. 120.

Cancer Society Cites Gains As Crusade Nears

The Columbiana County Chapter of the American Cancer Society will open its annual crusade April 1, according to Mrs. Lawrence J. Newtz, county fund chairman, who pointed to gains in the fight against the disease as she announced plans for the campaign.

"By the end of the year, about 1,100,000 Americans will be able to say they have been cured of cancer. This is nearly seven times as many people as were cured of the disease in 1937," she said.

Mrs. Newtz said the familiar slogan of the American Cancer Society, "Fight cancer with a checkup and a check," will have a companion slogan in 1962—"To Cure More—Give More."

"The progress in cancer control depends on the amount of money invested in the program to fight it. Your contribution is one of the greatest investments in the world to eliminate a disease which at present rates will strike 45 million Americans now living."

The Power Of Faith by Howard Brodie

The faith of an uneducated youth led St. Patrick from slavery to sainthood.

Captured in a pirate raid on Britain at the age of 16, he was taken to Ireland. "Every day I had to tend sheep," he wrote, "and many times a day I prayed—the love of God and His fear came to me more and more, and my faith was strengthened."

Escaping to Gaul six years later, he dreamed of bringing the love of Christ to his captors. He studied for the priesthood, was consecrated Bishop, and returned to Ireland. There he converted the country to Christianity, improving the lot of slaves, uniting ethics with law, denouncing hatred and bloodshed, and giving "Him thanks who hath strengthened me in everything."

2 Initiated By DeMolays

Joseph Matheny and Roger Vincent were initiated as new members when Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, met Thursday night in the Masonic Temple.

Dale Hoffman, master councilor, presided and conferred the DeMolay Degree. Mark Wilson, junior councilor, conferred the initiatory degree.

As a civic service project, the chapter volunteered its aid for the Cancer Society's fund drive in April. Samuel W. Brown, drive chairman, is a dad advisor of the chapter.

The chapter has designated Sunday as Devotional Sunday. Members will attend worship at the First Church of Christ.

Members were to meet at the temple Friday night to work on the chapter's current fund-raising project.

Roger Hicks, scribe, conducted roll call. Lunch was served by the Mothers' Circle.

Next meeting is April 5 and officers will be installed at a public ceremony. Wilson will be installed as master councilor, Hicks, senior councilor, and David Hoffman, junior councilor.

Cancer Society Cites Gains As Crusade Nears

The Columbiana County Chapter of the American Cancer Society will open its annual crusade April 1, according to Mrs. Lawrence J. Newtz, county fund chairman, who pointed to gains in the fight against the disease as she announced plans for the campaign.

"By the end of the year, about 1,100,000 Americans will be able to say they have been cured of cancer. This is nearly seven times as many people as were cured of the disease in 1937," she said.

Mrs. Newtz said the familiar slogan of the American Cancer Society, "Fight cancer with a checkup and a check," will have a companion slogan in 1962—"To Cure More—Give More."

"The progress in cancer control depends on the amount of money invested in the program to fight it. Your contribution is one of the greatest investments in the world to eliminate a disease which at present rates will strike 45 million Americans now living."

Midland Rotary Club Sees Film

The Midland Rotary Club met Thursday evening at the New Riviera Restaurant and R. E. (Dick) Steebner was program chairman, screening a film about crippled children at Easter Seal camps.

The film showed scenes from the three camps in Pennsylvania for crippled children. Some scenes also showed three local children.

Charles L. Smith, president, said the club will continue this year sending two local children to camp. The club first sent them last year. Each spends two weeks.

Steebner asked club members to support the current Easter Seal campaign for which Bill Yee, also a Rotarian, is campaign chairman in the Midland area.

Sal Glorioso is chairman of the club's crippled children's committee.

The Power Of Faith

by Howard Brodie

The faith of an uneducated youth led St. Patrick from slavery to sainthood.

Captured in a pirate raid on Britain at the age of 16, he was taken to Ireland. "Every day I had to tend sheep," he wrote, "and many times a day I prayed—the love of God and His fear came to me more and more, and my faith was strengthened."

Escaping to Gaul six years later, he dreamed of bringing the love of Christ to his captors. He studied for the priesthood, was consecrated Bishop, and returned to Ireland. There he converted the country to Christianity, improving the lot of slaves, uniting ethics with law, denouncing hatred and bloodshed, and giving "Him thanks who hath strengthened me in everything."

$12,000 To Be Sought

Mission's Fund Drive Awaited

A campaign will be held the week of March 25 to raise $12,000 to liquidate the debt of the Community Rescue Mission.

Kenneth C. Steen, superintendent, is shown at left discussing plans for the drive with, left to right, Delmas Sanford, a member of the Board of Directors; Carl Mansfield, chairman of the campaign, and the Rev. C. Donald Vogel, pastor of the Chester United Presbyterian Church, a member of the fund committee.

The campaign will continue for a week. The theme is "Wanted: 12,000 people with a dollar and a heart for the homeless."

Friday at 7:30 p. m. the committee, captains and more than 200 workers will meet at the First Church of Christ for instructions.

Open house will be held daily at the mission during the drive from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. and after the nightly services at 7:30.

Rogers Auxiliary To Sponsor Sale

Plans for a white elephant sale April 9 was discussed at a meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Rogers volunteer fire department Monday night in the Community Hall.

Mrs. Ethel Huston presided in the absence of Mrs. Veda Cope, president.

A special meeting will be held Monday night to appoint a committee for an Easter supper April 14.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Huston.

Delightful salad to serve with ham: arrange drained pineapple rings on water cress or other interesting greens. Mix mayonnaise with a little of the pineapple syrup and prepared mustard and serve with the salad. The mustard gives real zip.

Ohio State, Cincinnati Breeze Into Regional Finals

Face Kentucky, Colorado Tonight

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're all big now, but none may be bigger than Ohio State's match with careful Kentucky tonight in the finals of the NCAA regional tourney at Iowa City, Iowa.

The mighty Buckeyes, driving toward the NCAA title denied them in overtime by Cincinnati last season, handled Western Kentucky with ease 93-73 in their first tourney test Friday night.

Kentucky, however, may be a different matter. The Wildcats, whose disciplined attention to Coach Adolph Rupp's deliberately designed patterns, brought them the No. 3 spot in the nation, romped past Butler 81-60 in the other semifinal Friday night.

Their match tonight may be the glamor game of the four regional tourneys, which also sees defending champion Cincinnati going against Colorado. Also on the night's schedule are finals in the NCAA small college tourney, finals in the NAIA, and two first-round and two quarter-final matches in the National Invitation Tourney.

Here's the NCAA lineup:

Wake Forest (20-8) vs. Villanova (21-6) at College Park, Md.

Kentucky (25-2) vs. Ohio State (24-1) at Iowa City, Iowa.

Colorado (19-6) vs. Cincinnati (26-2) at Manhattan, Kan.

Oregon State (23-4) vs. UCLA (17-10) at Provo, Utah.

The winners advance to the semifinals at Louisville, Ky., March 23.

Sacramento State (21-9) and Mount St. Mary's of Maryland (23-6) tangle for the NCAA small college championship at Evansville, Ind., while Prairie View A&M (26-3) and Westminster (Pa) (26-2) are matched for the NAIA title at Kansas City.

The NIT, in New York's Madison Square Garden, has Duquesne paired with Navy and Colorado State against Holy Cross in afternoon first-round games and Loyola of Chicago playing Temple and Houston vs. Dayton in quarterfinals tonight.

The victories by Kentucky and Ohio State, top-ranked team in the nation for the second year in a row, set up a replay of last year's Mideast showdown, won by Ohio State 87-74. Neither had much trouble in advancing Friday night.

Ohio State used its usual fast break to turn a 27-26 deficit late in the first half to a 43-30 lead at intermission, even though All-America Jerry Lucas was on the bench with foul trouble at the time. Sophomore Gary Bradds and veteran John Havlicek led the surge, which put the Buckeyes ahead to stay.

Cotton Nash scored 23 points and Larry Pursiful had 26 in Kentucky's easy conquest.

Cincinnati, No. 2 in the nation, got a 24-point performance from hulking Paul Hogue in a 66-46 blasting of Creighton. Colorado swept into an 11-point halftime advantage then held off frantic Texas Tech rallies for a 67-60 victory.

In the East, Wake Forest took a 96-85 overtime triumph over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia while Villanova overcame a 12-point deficit and went on to defeat New York University 79-78 on Hubie White's 31-point showing. Wake Forest trailed most of the way, before Billy Packer hit a jumper with four seconds to go to tie it.

Oregon State overcame small, determined Pepperdine 69-67 and UCLA took Utah State 73-62. Oregon State used its superior rebounding to offset Pepperdine's 41 per cent shooting, while UCLA built a 13-point halftime lead and took it from there.

The semifinals of the small college tourney were the closest of them all. Sacramento State edged Nebraska Wesleyan 74-73 in double overtime and Mount St. Mary's advanced with a 58-57 triumph over Southern Illinois. A free throw by Jim Greene won for Sacramento State and Ed Pfeiffer's 20-foot shot at the buzzer put Mount St. Mary's in the finals.

Prairie View A&M crushed Western Illinois 80-68 and Westminster advanced with a 54-45 decision over Southeastern Oklahoma State in the NAIA round of four.

Steubenville Whips Newark For Regional Finals Berth

Big Red Battles Canton Lincoln

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Upsets whirled across Ohio's high school basketball courts Friday night, but an all-star cast qualified for tonight's regional championship finals.

Belted out of the running in the regional semifinals in Class AA were fifth-ranked Toledo Central Catholic and tenth-ranked Marietta, a pair of once-beaten clubs.

Toledo Central was dumped in the last two seconds by Lima Senior (13-7), on Bob Gunn's pair of free throws at Bowling Green. Gunn led the scoring with 26, including the final half - dozen. Marietta, like Toledo Central, had a 22-1 record but fell before Canton Lincoln at Columbus by an astounding 69-43.

In Class A the big casualties were three once-beaten teams—Andover Pymatuning Valley, Proctorville Fairland, one of last year's state tourney qualifiers, and West Liberty Salem.

Berlin Hiland (24-2) needed an overtime to nick Pymatuning Valley 65-62, Circleville Logan Elm (20-3) ousted Fairland 58-53, and West Liberty Salem lost 71-69 to New Lebanon Dixie, also in an extra session. Also victimized were Miller City's 1950 state champs, who lost 69-64 to Bucyrus Holmes-Liberty in two overtimes.

But plenty of class abounds in the 16 survivors who will battle it out tonight for the eight berths in next week's state tournament at St. John Arena.

Four of the Top 10 in the final Class AA Associated Press poll are still on hand—but one must bow tonight at Cincinnati where second-ranked Hamilton Taft (24-0) goes against seventh - rated Dayton Chaminade (22-1).

Taft won rather handily over Clayton Northmont, 65 - 54, but Chaminade came from behind after trailing all the way for a 57 - 56 conquest over Cincinnati Withrow.

Cleveland East Tech, top-rated in the poll, meets Cuyahoga Falls tonight at Kent. Tech is 22-0, the Falls 19-5.

Mansfield St. Peter, fourth in the ratings, turned back Elyria at Toledo by 67-53 for its 26th in a row, and goes against Lima Senior's giant-killers tonight.

Steubenville's Big Red, which defeated Newark's three - time state champions by 57-52 at Columbus, carries an 18-6 record into tonight's final against Canton Lincoln (20-3).

Top-ranked Ayersville, defending Class A champion, and sixth-rated Beverly Fort Frye continued their winning ways. The title-holding Pilots made it 26-0 with a 50-39 win over Coldwater at Lima, and meet Holmes-Liberty (21-3) tonight for a ticket to the state meet. Fort Frye (25-0) ousted Bainbridge Paint Valley 63-52 at Athens, and goes against Logan Elm tonight.

Cincinnati DePorres, with the tournament's poorest record of 15-7, defeated Columbus University 58-56 at Troy to earn a finals spot opposite Dixie (24-1). At Canton the finalist are Berlin Hiland and Cortland Lakeview (22-5), the latter a 42-35 victor over Hudson.

The eight Class AA finalists have a 164-22 record, the Class A contingent 177-21—so plenty of talent must emerge for next week's title round.

Coaches of tonight's victors will be in Columbus at noon Sunday for a luncheon, tournament instructions and tickets for next Friday's opening games in the big playoffs.

Going into tonight's frays, only eight of 433 Class AA teams, and eight of exactly 500 Class A starters, have survived the tournament tests.

Los Angeles' Angels suffered eight American League shutouts last season but no pitcher blanked them twice.

Little Bobby Towering Figure

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitcher Bobby Shantz, at 5-foot-6¼ one of the littlest big leaguers, is a towering figure at the Houston Colts camp, where he has turned in the most impressive report card among 20 hurlers bucking for jobs with the new National League club.

Making his second appearance of the spring, the 36-year-old southpaw plucked from Pittsburgh in the expansion draft hurled six innings of runless ball and allowed only three scratch singles as the Colts belted the Boston Red Sox 9-1 in an exhibition at Scottsdale, Ariz., Friday.

Shantz, most valuable player in the American League when he posted a 24-7 record for the then Philadelphia Athletics in 1952, is the senior member of the Colts' mound crew but could be a vaulable asset for Manager Harry Craft in Houston's first year of operation.

A poised, smooth pitcher with a career won-lost record of 105-86, Shantz has a low lifetime earned run of 3.48 for 14 seasons. He had a creditable 6-3 mark with a 3.34 ERA in relief with the Pirates last season.

Bob Bruce, American League castoff acquired from Detroit, worked the last three innings for the Colts to complete a six-hit job. Home runs by Bob Aspromonte and Jim Pendleton 37 gave Houston its third win in seven games.

Chicago's White Sox and Cubs continued win streaks each taking their fourth in succession. The Sox defeated Kansas City 10-7 at West Palm Beach for their sixth triumph in seven games and the Cubs edged San Francisco 8-7 at Mesa.

In other games, St. Louis bopped Milwaukee 8-6 at St. Petersburg, Cleveland walloped the Los Angeles Angels 10-2 at Tucson, Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 5-3 at Tampa, Washington beat Minnesota 5-2 at Pompano Beach and Baltimore defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4 in a night game at Miami.

The New York Yankees-Pittsburgh and Detroit-Philadelphia games were canceled due to rain and wet grounds.

Rookie Bob Farley and Floyd Robinson each drove in four runs apiece, as the White Sox tagged A's starter Norm Bass for eight runs in the first two innings. The Cubs scored five in the first on a two-run homer by Billy Williams and a three-run shot by George Altman.

The Reds snapped their slump, beating the Mets on home runs by Frank Robinson and Gordon Coleman while Jim O'Toole and Bill Henry spaced nine hits.

The Orioles won their first in five starts with five runs in the eighth on key singles by Earl Robinson and rookie John (Boog) Powell plus two errors by Dodgers shortstop Maury Wills.

Liston's Confident He'll Beat Patterson

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't think there's nobody in the world as good as myself."

Charles (Sonny) Liston, dripping confidence and contempt, had that comment on the fight he will have next summer with champion Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight title.

They signed the contracts Friday for the fight, which could be the richest of all time. The promoter, Tom Bolan, predicted a gross of at least $6 million. There will be no live television.

Bolan said six cities, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Washington and Seattle were under consideration as the site, which will be picked by Patterson.

Pair Of Unbeaten Powers

Weirton, Beckley Clash For West Virginia Title

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Beckley and Weirton, a pair of unbeaten powers, collide headon tonight in the championship game of the West Virginia State Class AAA High School Basketball Tournament.

Lenore met Gary District for the Class AA title this afternoon and Williamstown and Chattaroy played for the Class A championship.

The winner of the Beckley-Weirton game will be the first state champion to go through the entire season undefeated since Wheeling turned the trick in 1950. Both Beckley and Weirton sport 24-0 records following victories in semi-final action last night.

Beckley came from behind for a 62-55 win over South Charleston. Weirton led most of the way in a 73-63 victory over scrappy Elkins as 5,800 fans looked on at Mountaineer Field House.

Beckley is gunning for its seventh state championship. The Flying Eagles last won it in 1957. Weirton, playing in its ninth tournament, has never won the state title.

All through the season the two teams matched victory for victory.

In Weirton, Beckley will be facing another team with a height advantage, a factor which nearly proved fatal in the encounter with South Charleston last night.

Beckley trailed through most of the first half which ended with South Charleston on top, 28-27. The Black Eagles stretched the margin to 6 at 50-44 with 5½ minutes to play and an upset appeared in the making, especially after star Beckley center Bane Sarrett fouled out.

But Beckley was not to be denied. Roger Burns, who replaced Sarrett, and ace playmaker Bill Karbonit sparked a rally that produced 10 straight points and a 57-52 lead. In all, Beckley tallied 18 points in the exciting last 4½ minutes.

Pack Hindsley scored 27 points for the Flying Eagles and Sarrett added 14. Ronnie Kidd, South Charleston's 6-7 center, led his team with 19 points.

Weirton, as it has done all season, capitalized on its height under the basket. The tall Red Riders out-rebounded Elkins, 50-47. But that doesn't tell the whole story since most of the rebounds were on defense, keeping Elkins from getting badly needed follow-up shots.

"They rebounded us to death," Elkins coach Dick Simmons said. "That is where they beat us."

Weirton put on one of the best shooting performances of the tournament, sinking 27 of 47 shots for 55.3 per cent.

Ron Williams, the only sophomore in an otherwise all - senior lineup, led the Weirton attack with 22 points, making nine of 12 shots from the floor. Ron Mortimer added 14.

Jerry Armentrout was high for Elkins with 18 points.

Williamstown Faces Chattaroy In A Finals

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Chattaroy and Williamstown were to meet this afternoon to decide the Class A championship of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

Bth teams swept to easy victories in the semi-final round yesterday. Chattaroy ousted Ronceverte 78-55, and Williamstown eliminated Tunnelton 84-59.

Ohio State, Cincinnati Breeze Into Regional Finals

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're all big now, but none may be bigger than Ohio State's match with careful Kentucky tonight in the finals of the NCAA regional tourney at Iowa City, Iowa.

The mighty Buckeyes, driving toward the NCAA title denied them in overtime by Cincinnati last season, handled Western Kentucky with ease 93-73 in their first tourney test Friday night.

Kentucky, however, may be a different matter. The Wildcats, whose disciplined attention to Coach Adolph Rupp's deliberately designed patterns, brought them the No. 3 spot in the nation, romped past Butler 81-60 in the other semifinal Friday night.

Their match tonight may be the glamor game of the four regional tourneys, which also sees defending champion Cincinnati going against Colorado. Also on the night's schedule are finals in the NCAA small college tourney, finals in the NAIA, and two first-round and two quarter-final matches in the National Invitation Tourney.

Here's the NCAA lineup:

Wake Forest (20-8) vs. Villanova (21-6) at College Park, Md.

Kentucky (25-2) vs. Ohio State (24-1) at Iowa City, Iowa.

Colorado (19-6) vs. Cincinnati (26-2) at Manhattan, Kan.

Oregon State (23-4) vs. UCLA (17-10) at Provo, Utah.

The winners advance to the semifinals at Louisville, Ky., March 23.

Sacramento State (21-9) and Mount St. Mary's of Maryland (23-6) tangle for the NCAA small college championship at Evansville, Ind., while Prairie View A&M (26-3) and Westminster (Pa.) (26-2) are matched for the NAIA title at Kansas City.

The NIT, in New York's Madison Square Garden, has Duquesne paired with Navy and Colorado State against Holy Cross in afternoon first-round games and Loyola of Chicago playing Temple and Houston vs. Dayton in quarterfinals tonight.

The victories by Kentucky and Ohio State, top-ranked team in the nation for the second year in a row, set up a replay of last year's Mideast showdown, won by Ohio State 87-74. Neither had much trouble in advancing Friday night.

Ohio State used its usual fast break to turn a 27-26 deficit late in the first half to a 43-30 lead at intermission, even though All-America Jerry Lucas was on the bench with foul trouble at the time. Sophomore Gary Bradds and veteran John Havlicek led the surge, which put the Buckeyes ahead to stay.

Cotton Nash scored 23 points and Larry Pursiful had 26 in Kentucky's easy conquest.

Cincinnati, No. 2 in the nation, got a 24-point performance from hulking Paul Hogue in a 66-46 blasting of Creighton. Colorado swept into an 11-point halftime advantage then held off frantic Texas Tech rallies for a 67-60 victory.

In the East, Wake Forest took a 96-85 overtime triumph over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia while Villanova overcame a 12-point deficit and went on to defeat New York University 79-78 on Hubie White's 31-point showing. Wake Forest trailed most of the way, before Billy Packer hit a jumper with four seconds to go to tie it.

Oregon State overcame small, determined Pepperdine 69-67 and UCLA took Utah State 73-62. Oregon State used its superior rebounding to offset Pepperdine's 41 per cent shooting, while UCLA built a 13-point halftime lead and took it from there.

The semifinals of the small college tourney were the closest of them all. Sacramento State edged Nebraska Wesleyan 74-73 in double overtime and Mount St. Mary's advanced with a 58-57 triumph over Southern Illinois. A free throw by Jim Greene won for Sacramento State and Ed Pfeiffer's 20-foot shot at the buzzer put Mount St. Mary's in the finals.

Prairie View A&M crushed Western Illinois 80-68 and Westminster advanced with a 54-45 decision over Southeastern Oklahoma State in the NAIA round of four.

Steubenville Whips Newark For Regional Finals Berth

Big Red Battles Canton Lincoln

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Upsets whirled across Ohio's high school basketball courts Friday night, but an all-star cast qualified for tonight's regional championship finals.

Belted out of the running in the regional semifinals in Class AA were fifth-ranked Toledo Central Catholic and tenth-ranked Marietta, a pair of once-beaten clubs.

Toledo Central was dumped in the last two seconds by Lima Senior (13-7), on Bob Gunn's pair of free throws at Bowling Green. Gunn led the scoring with 26, including the final half - dozen. Marietta, like Toledo Central, had a 22-1 record but fell before Canton Lincoln at Columbus by an astounding 69-43.

In Class A the big casualties were three once-beaten teams—Andover Pymatuning Valley, Proctorville Fairland, one of last year's state tourney qualifiers, and West Liberty Salem.

Berlin Hiland (24-2) needed an overtime to nick Pymatuning Valley 65-62, Circleville Logan Elm (20-3) ousted Fairland 58-53, and West Liberty Salem lost 71-69 to New Lebanon Dixie, also in an extra session. Also victimized were Miller City's 1950 state champs, who lost 69-64 to Bucyrus Holmes-Liberty in two overtimes.

But plenty of class abounds in the 16 survivors who will battle it out tonight for the eight berths in next week's state tournament at St. John Arena.

Four of the Top 10 in the final Class AA Associated Press poll are still on hand—but one must bow tonight at Cincinnati where second-ranked Hamilton Taft (24-0) goes against seventh - rated Dayton Chaminade (22-1).

Taft won rather handily over Clayton Northmont, 65 - 54, but Chaminade came from behind after trailing all the way for a 57 - 56 conquest over Cincinnati Withrow.

Cleveland East Tech, top-rated in the poll, meets Cuyahoga Falls tonight at Kent. Tech is 22-0, the Falls 19-5.

Mansfield St. Peter, fourth in the ratings, turned back Elyria at Toledo by 67-53 for its 26th in a row, and goes against Lima Senior's giant-killers tonight.

Steubenville's Big Red, which defeated Newark's three - time state champions by 57-52 at Columbus, carries an 18-6 record into tonight's final against Canton Lincoln (20-3).

Top-ranked Ayersville, defending Class A champion, and sixth-rated Beverly Fort Frye continued their winning ways. The title-holding Pilots made it 26-0 with a 50-39 win over Coldwater at Lima, and meet Holmes-Liberty (21-3) tonight for a ticket to the state meet. Fort Frye (25-0) ousde Bainbridge Paint Valley 63-52 at Athens, and goes against Logan Elm tonight.

Cincinnati DePorres, with the tournament's poorest record of 15-7, defeated Columbus University 58-56 at Troy to earn a finals spot opposite Dixie (24-1). At Canton the finalist are Berlin Hiland and Cortland Lakeview (22-5), the latter a 42-35 victor over Hudson.

The eight Class AA finalists have a 164-22 record, the Class A contingent 177-21—so plenty of talent must emerge for next week's title round.

Coaches of tonight's victors will be in Columbus at noon Sunday for a luncheon, tournament instructions and tickets for next Friday's opening games in the big playoffs.

Going into tonight's frays, only eight of 433 Class AA teams, and eight of exactly 500 Class A starters, have survived the tournament tests.

Los Angeles' Angels suffered eight American League shutouts last season but no pitcher blanked them twice.

Little Bobby Towering Figure

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitcher Bobby Shantz, at 5-foot-6¼ one of the littlest big leaguers, is a towering figure at the Houston Colts camp, where he has turned in the most impressive report card among 20 hurlers bucking for jobs with the new National League club.

Making his second appearance of the spring, the 36-year-old southpaw plucked from Pittsburgh in the expansion draft hurled six innings of runless ball and allowed only three scratch singles as the Colts belted the Boston Red Sox 9-1 in an exhibition at Scottsdale, Ariz., Friday.

Shantz, most valuable player in the American League when he posted a 24-7 record for the then Philadelphia Athletics in 1952, is the senior member of the Colts' mound crew but could be a vaulable asset for Manager Harry Craft in Houston's first year of operation.

A poised, smooth pitcher with a career won-lost record of 105-86, Shantz has a low lifetime earned run of 3.48 for 14 seasons. He had a creditable 6-3 mark with a 3.34 ERA in relief with the Pirates last season.

Bob Bruce, American League castoff acquired from Detroit, worked the last three innings for the Colts to complete a six-hit job. Home runs by Bob Aspromonte and Jim Pendleton 37 gave Houston its third win in seven games.

Chicago's White Sox and Cubs continued win streaks each taking their fourth in succession. The Sox defeated Kansas City 10-7 at West Palm Beach for their sixth triumph in seven games and the Cubs edged San Francisco 8-7 at Mesa.

In other games, St. Louis bopped Milwaukee 8-6 at St. Petersburg, Cleveland walloped the Los Angeles Angels 10-2 at Tucson, Cincinnati beat the New York Mets 5-3 at Tampa, Washington beat Minnesota 5-2 at Pompano Beach and Baltimore defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-4 in a night game at Miami.

The New York Yankees-Pittsburgh and Detroit-Philadelphia games were canceled due to rain and wet grounds.

Rookie Bob Farley and Floyd Robinson each drove in four runs apiece, as the White Sox tagged A's starter Norm Bass for eight runs in the first two innings. The Cubs scored five in the first on a two-run homer by Billy Williams and a three-run shot by George Altman.

The Reds snapped their slump, beating the Mets on home runs by Frank Robinson and Gordon Coleman while Jim O'Toole and Bill Henry spaced nine hits.

The Orioles won their first in five starts with five runs in the eighth on key singles by Earl Robinson and rookie John (Boog) Powell plus two errors by Dodgers shortstop Maury Wills.

Liston's Confident He'll Beat Patterson

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"I don't think there's nobody in the world as good as myself."

Charles (Sonny) Liston, dripping confidence and contempt, had that comment on the fight he will have next summer with champion Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight title.

They signed the contracts Friday for the fight, which could be the richest of all time. The promoter, Tom Bolan, predicted a gross of at least $6 million. There will be no live television.

Bolan said six cities, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Washington and Seattle were under consideration as the site, which will be picked by Patterson.

Pair Of Unbeaten Powers

Weirton, Beckley Clash For West Virginia Title

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Beckley and Weirton, a pair of unbeaten powers, collide headon tonight in the championship game of the West Virginia State Class AAA High School Basketball Tournament.

Lenore met Gary District for the Class AA title this afternoon and Williamstown and Chattaroy played for the Class A championship.

The winner of the Beckley-Weirton game will be the first state champion to go through the entire season undefeated since Wheeling turned the trick in 1950. Both Beckley and Weirton sport 24-0 records following victories in semi-final action last night.

Beckley came from behind for a 62-55 win over South Charleston. Weirton led most of the way in a 73-63 victory over scrappy Elkins as 5,800 fans looked on at Mountaineer Field House.

Beckley is gunning for its seventh state championship. The Flying Eagles last won it in 1957. Weirton, playing in its ninth tournament, has never won the state title.

All through the season the two teams matched victory for victory.

In Weirton, Beckley will be facing another team with a height advantage, a factor which nearly proved fatal in the encounter with South Charleston last night.

Beckley trailed through most of the first half which ended with South Charleston on top, 28-27. The Black Eagles stretched the margin to 6 at 50-44 with 5½ minutes to play and an upset appeared in the making, especially after star Beckley center Bane Sarrett fouled out.

But Beckley was not to be denied. Roger Burns, who replaced Sarrett, and ace playmaker Bill Karbonit sparked a rally that produced 10 straight points and a 57-52 lead. In all, Beckley tallied 18 points in the exciting last 4½ minutes.

Pack Hindsley scored 27 points for the Flying Eagles and Sarrett added 14. Ronnie Kidd, South Charleston's 6-7 center, led his team with 19 points.

Weirton, as it has done all season, capitalized on its height under the basket. The tall Red Riders out-rebounded Elkins, 50-47. But that doesn't tell the whole story since most of the rebounds were on defense, keeping Elkins from getting badly needed follow-up shots.

"They rebounded us to death," Elkins coach Dick Simmons said. "That is where they beat us."

Weirton put on one of the best shooting performances of the tournament, sinking 27 of 47 shots for 55.3 per cent.

Ron Williams, the only sophomore in an otherwise all - senior lineup, led the Weirton attack with 22 points, making nine of 12 shots from the floor. Ron Mortimer added 14.

Jerry Armentrout was high for Elkins with 18 points.

Williamstown Faces Chattaroy In A Finals

Bth teams swept to easy victories in the semi-final round yesterday. Chattaroy ousted Ronceverte 78-55, and Williamstown eliminated Tunnelton 84-59.

Keep In Trim

Dieters Dramatize Weight Problem

"Tell us how to keep on when the going gets tough," dieters implore.

Right. It's the weight plateaus that discourage dieters. First, understand that a lull in losing is normal and to be expected. After five or six weeks of dieting, you are certain to hit a stationary period in which no weight is lost, nary an ounce. This appears to be nature's stabilizing plan.

Ida Jean Kain

But whatever the reason, following the initial weight loss, it is quite likely you will not resume losing 14 to 21 days. Stay with the protective diet pattern ... you'll lose again.

When you are half way to your goal, you will hit another plateau.

IT IS AT this crucial point that discouraged dieters give up and slowly but surely put the weight back on. Don't let it happen to you!

Years back a young lad who delivered the newspapers wrote in to report his strong argument for keeping on: "If I give up now, I've dieted all these weeks for nothing!" That cinched it for him. He went ahead and reached his goal. (By the way, if that former news boy should chance to read this, we would like to hear how he made out later.)

Dieters, here is a foolproof plan for continuing toward your goal. Take a suitcase an pile in books to represent the amount of weight you have taken off to date. Now heft the suitcase. Carry it around the house for five minutes.

This is a dramatic way to impress upon your mind the enormous favor you have done yourself. Fix the thought in your mind that you have gone beyond the point of no return. Not for anything would you pick up that tonnage again. Figure it out ... with 20 excess pounds, with every hundred steps you actually lift a short ton!

Reducers, recognize that you do not fall off a diet. You slip off, little by little and insidiously the pounds creep back on. Keep your thinking straight and you will put a stop to creeping poundage.

You have your appetite well under control. The secret of success in reducing, as well as in staying slim, is to never deliberately up your appetite.

YOU CAN and should eat three satisfying meals a day. Just leave off second helpings and rich desserts. Do not slip back into the fattening habit of eating after dinner. If tempted, go immediately and pick up that suitcase!

One dieter who has reduced 40 pounds, actually couldn't believe 40 pounds could possibly be so heavy to carry. So dieters, try the experiment. It will give you the greatest feeling of triumph you have ever experienced.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Choose To Lose Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Deputies Push Probe In $76 Tavern Holdup

NEW CUMBERLAND — An investigation is continuing by Hancock County sheriff's deputies and West Virginia State Police into the robbery of Johnny's Place on State Route 2 Wednesday night.

An armed robber wearing a silk stocking over his face took $76 from the cash register of the tavern, and fled in a waiting getaway car.

Elma Smearman of Weirton, a waitress, and a customer told authorities the bandit was tall and thin, about 30, and had light hair that was flattened by the silk mask covering his head. State Police said he carried a short-barrelled revolver, according to statements of the waitress.

House Blaze Blamed On Faulty Chimney

A faulty chimney was blamed for the fire Friday that damaged the roof of a two-story frame house in Clarkson, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Martin and their three children.

The Negley and Rogers volunteer fire departments quickly quelled the blaze, which broke out while Mr. and Mrs. Martin and one of the youngsters were shopping in Columbiana. The other two children were in classes at Rogers School.

Damage was centered in an area at the peak of the roof near the chimney. The two departments made varying estimates of the damage, from $600 to $2,000.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Proper Reading Habits Are Necessary

Reading while lying down may prove desirably restful and quieting to many adults. Besides, reading in bed on waking often in the night may help getting back to sleep. It usually is a better way to spend a nightly period of wakefulness than lying awake and fretting because you can't go back to sleep quickly. But reading while lying down is a doubtful practice for your school - age child. Yet from personal observations, and from talking with many parents and children, I discover that reading in bed, or on a cot or davenport, is widely practiced among school children. Some of them regularly do their reading of home-school assignments in this way.

THEY ARE MORE likely to do so when they read or do their homework in their own rooms.

Usually, this is bad for eyesight, as the light then does not always fall properly on the page.

Often the child reading while lying down may grow sleepy, even fall asleep over his book. If this happens a few times, it can grow habitual, especially if the reading matter does not prove very exciting or if it requires considerable effort to master the content of the printed pages.

Now and then a parent writes of dropping in on the school child of the upper grades or high school in his own room and finding him asleep on the bed with the book beside him.

Moreover, the child reading in a prone position may often feel drowsy as he reads and he is more apt to daydream. We hardly can imagine any teacher wishing to have cots in the classroom on which the children might read and do their bookwork.

TALKING WITH a boy, 13, recently, about his study habits, knowing that his school grades are lagging, I asked him if he read lying down. He said he did, as a rule. When I asked him why, he replied, "It's easier than sitting up to read."

Much may be inferred from this answer. The mere ease suggests that he's trying to avoid effort and while exerting less physical effort he probably exerts correspondingly less mental effort.

It's my guess that the less efficient and less enthusiastic student is more often the lying-down-to-read student. At least this is a matter which parents whose children don't do very well at school should look into.

Teachers might profitably discuss this problem with children at school. A show of hands by those reading and studying at home while lying down and of those who do so sitting by a desk or table might disclose some significant facts.

MERE COMMON sense should cause parents to cultivate in their school children the habit of reading and studying at home in a straight chair sitting by a desk or table with feet flat on the floor.

On this matter I should like to hear of the observations and opinions of my readers.

My bulletins, "Tips for Students" and "Parents and the Child's Homework," may be had by sending a self - addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Dieters Dramatize Weight Problem

"Tell us how to keep on when the going gets tough," dieters implore.

Ida Jean Kain

Right. It's the weight plateaus that discourage dieters. First, understand that a lull in losing is normal and to be expected. After five or six weeks of dieting, you are certain to hit a stationary period in which no weight is lost, nary an ounce. This appears to be nature's stabilizing plan.

But whatever the reason, following the initial weight loss, it is quite likely you will not resume losing 14 to 21 days. Stay with the protective diet pattern ... you'll lose again.

When you are half way to your goal, you will hit another plateau.

IT IS AT this crucial point that discouraged dieters give up and slowly but surely put the weight back on. Don't let it happen to you!

Years back a young lad who delivered the newspapers wrote in to report his strong argument for keeping on: "If I give up now, I've dieted all these weeks for nothing!" That cinched it for him. He went ahead and reached his goal. (By the way, if that former news boy should chance to read this, we would like to hear how he made out later.)

Dieters, here is a foolproof plan for continuing toward your goal. Take a suitcase an pile in books to represent the amount of weight you have taken off to date. Now heft the suitcase. Carry it around the house for five minutes.

This is a dramatic way to impress upon your mind the enormous favor you have done yourself. Fix the thought in your mind that you have gone beyond the point of no return. Not for anything would you pick up that tonnage again. Figure it out ... with 20 excess pounds, with every hundred steps you actually lift a short ton!

Reducers, recognize that you do not fall off a diet. You slip off, little by little and insidiously the pounds creep back on. Keep your thinking straight and you will put a stop to creeping poundage.

You have your appetite well under control. The secret of success in reducing, as well as in staying slim, is to never deliberately up your appetite.

YOU CAN and should eat three satisfying meals a day. Just leave off second helpings and rich desserts. Do not slip back into the fattening habit of eating after dinner. If tempted, go immediately and pick up that suitcase!

One dieter who has reduced 40 pounds, actually couldn't believe 40 pounds could possibly be so heavy to carry. So dieters, try the experiment. It will give you the greatest feeling of triumph you have ever experienced.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Choose To Lose Diet." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Deputies Push Probe In $76 Tavern Holdup

NEW CUMBERLAND — An investigation is continuing by Hancock County sheriff's deputies and West Virginia State Police into the robbery of Johnny's Place on State Route 2 Wednesday night.

An armed robber wearing a silk stocking over his face took $76 from the cash register of the tavern, and fled in a waiting getaway car.

Elma Smearman of Weirton, a waitress, and a customer told authorities the bandit was tall and thin, about 30, and had light hair that was flattened by the silk mask covering his head. State Police said he carried a short-barrelled revolver, according to statements of the waitress.

House Blaze Blamed On Faulty Chimney

A faulty chimney was blamed for the fire Friday that damaged the roof of a two-story frame house in Clarkson, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Martin and their three children.

The Negley and Rogers volunteer fire departments quickly quelled the blaze, which broke out while Mr. and Mrs. Martin and one of the youngsters were shopping in Columbiana. The other two children were in classes at Rogers School.

Damage was centered in an area at the peak of the roof near the chimney. The two departments made varying estimates of the damage, from $600 to $2,000.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Proper Reading Habits Are Necessary

Reading while lying down may prove desirably restful and quieting to many adults. Besides, reading in bed on waking often in the night may help getting back to sleep. It usually is a better way to spend a nightly period of wakefulness than lying awake and fretting because you can't go back to sleep quickly. But reading while lying down is a doubtful practice for your school - age child. Yet from personal observations, and from talking with many parents and children, I discover that reading in bed, or on a cot or davenport, is widely practiced among school children. Some of them regularly do their reading of home-school assignments in this way.

THEY ARE MORE likely to do so when they read or do their homework in their own rooms.

Usually, this is bad for eyesight, as the light then does not always fall properly on the page.

Often the child reading while lying down may grow sleepy, even fall asleep over his book. If this happens a few times, it can grow habitual, especially if the reading matter does not prove very exciting or if it requires considerable effort to master the content of the printed pages.

Now and then a parent writes of dropping in on the school child of the upper grades or high school in his own room and finding him asleep on the bed with the book beside him.

Moreover, the child reading in a prone position may often feel drowsy as he reads and he is more apt to daydream. We hardly can imagine any teacher wishing to have cots in the classroom on which the children might read and do their bookwork.

TALKING WITH a boy, 13, recently, about his study habits, knowing that his school grades are lagging, I asked him if he read lying down. He said he did, as a rule. When I asked him why, he replied, "It's easier than sitting up to read."

Much may be inferred from this answer. The mere ease suggests that he's trying to avoid effort and while exerting less physical effort he probably exerts correspondingly less mental effort.

It's my guess that the less efficient and less enthusiastic student is more often the lying-down-to-read student. At least this is a matter which parents whose children don't do very well at school should look into.

Teachers might profitably discuss this problem with children at school. A show of hands by those reading and studying at home while lying down and of those who do so sitting by a desk or table might disclose some significant facts.

MERE COMMON sense should cause parents to cultivate in their school children the habit of reading and studying at home in a straight chair sitting by a desk or table with feet flat on the floor.

On this matter I should like to hear of the observations and opinions of my readers.

(N) The term "BUSINESS ALLOCATION PERCENTAGE", as used in these Regulations, means the portion of the entire net profits of a taxpayer to be allocated to East Liverpool as having been made within the City of East Liverpool, either under separate accounting method, or under the three factor formula of property, payroll and sales provided for in Section 2 of the Ordinance and Section 718.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio.

COMMENCEMENT AND DURATION OF THE TAX

The tax imposed by the Ordinance is effective as to income and profits earned or accruing on and after March 2, 1962, and payroll deductions must be made against all salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses and other compensation earned or accruing on and after that date.

The Ordinance continues effective insofar as the levy of taxes is concerned until December 31, 1964.

ARTICLE II-1
IMPOSITION OF TAX—RESIDENT EMPLOYERS
(Section 2 A)

In the case of the residents of the City of East Liverpool an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent is imposed on all salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation earned or accrued on and after March 2, 1962. For the purpose of determining the tax on the earnings of the resident taxpayers, taxed under Section 2 of the Ordinance, the source of the earnings and the place or places in or at which the services were rendered are immaterial. All such earnings, wherever earned or paid, are taxable.

The following are items which are subject to the tax:

(a) Salaries, bonuses or incentive payments received by an individual, whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962.

(1) As an office or employee, or both, of a corporation (including charitable and other non-profit corporations), joint stock associations or joint stock company;

(2) As an employee (as distinguished from a partner or member) of a partnership, limited partnership, or any other form of unincorporated enterprise owned by one or more persons;

(3) As an employee (as distinguished from the proprietor) of a business, trade or profession conducted by an individual owner;

(4) As an officer or employee (whether elected, appointed or commissioned) of a governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body branch, bureau, department, division, subdivision, section or unite of the State of Ohio or any of the political sub-divisions thereof;

(5) As an officer or employee (whether elected, appointed or commissioned) of a governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body, branch, bureau, department, division, subdivision, section or unit of the United States Government or of a corporation created and owned or controlled by the United States Government or any of its agencies;

(6) As an employee of any other entity or person.

(b) Wages, bonuses or incentive payments received by an individual, whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962.

(1) Whether based upon hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, semi-monthly, annual, unit of production or piece-work rates, and

(2) Whether paid by an individual, limited partnership, co-partnership, association, corporation (including charitable and other non-profit corporations), governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body, branch, department, division, subdivision, section or unit, or any other entity.

(c) Commissions received by a taxpayer whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962, regardless of how computed, by whom or wheresoever paid.

If amounts received as a drawing account exceed the commissions earned, the tax is payable on the gross amounts received.

Amounts received from an employer by way of expense and not by way of compensation, and used as such by the individual receiving them, are not deemed to be compensation if the employer deducts such expense advances as such from his gross income for the purpose of determining his net profits taxable under the Ordinance. If such commissions are included in the net earnings of a trade, business, profession, enterprise or activity regularly carried on by such individual and therefor subject to tax under sub-section C. of Section 2 of the Ordinance, they shall not again be separately taxed. In such case, such net earnings shall be taxed as provided in Article II-9 of these Regulations.

(d) The receipt of fees and other compensation for personal services rendered shall be deemed to be subject to taxation under the Ordinance.

(e) Domestic servants are subject to East Liverpool tax under this Ordinance but are not subject to withholding provisions. That is to say, the domestic will report earnings and pay the tax directly to the East Liverpool Income Tax Department.

The provisions of the Ordinance shall not be construed as levying a tax upon the following:

1. Funds received from local, state or federal governments because of service in the Armed Forces of the United States by the person rendering such service, or as a result of another person rendering such service.

2. Poor relief, pensions, unemployment compensation, supplemental unemployment benefits or similar payments, including disability benefits received from private industry or local, state or federal governments, or from charitable, religious or educational organizations.

3. Alimony received.

4. Dues, contributions and similar payments received by charitable, religious, educational or literary organizations or labor unions, lodges and similar organizations.

5. Receipts from casual entertainment, amusements, sports events and health and welfare activities conducted by bona fide charitable, religious and educational organizations and associations.

6. Any association, organization, corporation, club or trust which is exempt from federal taxes on income by reason of its charitable, religious, educational, literary, scientific, etc. purposes.

7. Gains from involuntary conversion, cancellation of indebtedness, interest on Federal obligations, items of income already taxed by the State of Ohio, and income of a decedent's estate during the period of administration (except such income from the operation of a business).

8. Earnings and income of all persons under 18 years of age, whether residents or non-residents.

9. Employment of duly enrolled full-time students by their school, college, university or any public library, and services performed by student nurses and hospital interns.

ARTICLE II-2
IMPOSITION OF TAX—NON-RESIDENT
Section 2B)

In the case of individuals who are non-residents of East Liverpool, there is imposed under the ordinance an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on all salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962), for work done or services performed or rendered within the City of East Liverpool, whether such compensation or remuneration is received or earned directly or through an agent and whether paid in cash or in property.

The items subject to tax under this section are the same as those listed and defined in Article II-1. For methods of computing the extent of such work or services performed within the City of East Liverpool, and cases involving compensation for personal services partly within and partly outside the City of East Liverpool, see Article IV-1.

ARTICLE II-3
IMPOSITION OF TAX — NET BUSINESS PROFITS—RESIDENTS
(Section 2 C)

1. In the case of trades, businesses, professions, other activities, enterprises or undertakings conducted, operated, engaged in, prosecuted or carried on by residents of East Liverpool, there is imposed an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on the net profits earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962).

2. For the purpose of construing sub-sections (c) and (d) of Section 2 of the Ordinance, the term "residents" in the phrase "conducted by residents of the City of East Liverpool" will ordinarily be construed to have reference to the business entity itself, as distinguished from the partners, co-owners, proprietors or other participants in its profits.

3. Generally, a co-partnership, association or other unincorporated enterprise owned by two or more persons will be taxed as entity. However, in the case of a non-resident partnership, association or unincorporated enterprise which cannot be reached or taxed directly by the City of East Liverpool, or if only part of its earnings may be directly taxed, then in either such case, resident partners, co-owners, proprietors or other participants in the profits thereof must include in their declaration and tax return or returns their distributive shares of such profits, or portion thereof not taxed to the business enterprise as an entity, and must pay the tax thereon.

4. The tax imposed under Sub-Section C of Section 2 of the Ordinance is levied upon the entire net profit of the resident trade, business, profession, other activity, enterprise or undertaking, wherever earned, paid or accrued and regardless of the fact that any part of such business or professional activity may have been conducted at or through a place or places of business located outside the City of East Liverpool.

East Liverpool payroll $8,000. All payroll $20,000. Percentage: 30%
Business allocation percentage: 20% plus 30% ——equals 25%

EXAMPLE 3:
Same corporation owning real and tangible personal property in East Liverpool valued at $10,000 and owning no real or tangible personal property outside East Liverpool. Other factors same as in examples 1 and 2.
Business allocation percentage: 100% plus 20% plus 30%

After determining such business allocation percentage, the tax shall be determined by applying that percentage to the entire net profits of the taxpayer, wherever derived (thus arriving at the taxable net profit), and computing eight-tenths of one per cent of the resultant taxable net profit.

In case it shall appear to the City Treasurer that any agreement, understanding or arrangement exists between the taxpayer and any other person, firm or corporation, whereby the activity, business, income or capital of the taxpayer is improperly or inaccurately reflected, the City Treasurer may adjust items of income, deductions and capital, and disregard assets in computing any allocation percentage, provided any income directly traceable thereto is also excluded from entire net income, so as equitably to determine the tax.

2. EXPLANATION OF "PROPERTY FACTOR".

The percentage of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property within East Liverpool is determined by dividing the average net book value (during the period covered by the report) of such property within East Liverpool, without deduction of any encumbrances, by the average net book value similarly computed, of all such property within and without East Liverpool. Only property owned or used by the taxpayer is considered in determining such percentage.

As used in the preceding paragraph, real property shall include property rented or leased by the taxpayer and the value of such property shall be determined by multiplying the annual rental thereon by eight.

3. EXPLANATION OF BUSINESS RECEIPTS FACTOR".

For sales applicable to East Liverpool, refer to Article II-6-1(b).

Receipts from the following are also allocable to East Liverpool:

1. Work done and performed or services rendered in East Liverpool.

2. Rentals from property situated in East Liverpool, where the rental of such property is a usual or normal part of the taxpayer's business activity.

3. All other business receipts earned in East Liverpool. For the purpose of determining business allocation percentage, no account shall be given to receipts, within or without East Liverpool, of income derived from intangibles (including stocks, bonds, royalties and the like) the income of which is taxable under the statues of the State of Ohio.

All receipts of the period covered by the report (computed on the cash or accural basis, in accordance with the method of accounting used in the computation of the taxpayer's entire net income) must be taken into account.

4. COMPENSATION FOR WORK DONE AND PERFORMED OR SERVICES RENDERED.

(a) Compensation and other receipts from work done or services performed within East Liverpool are allocable to East Liverpool and taxable under the Ordinance. All amounts so received, credited or charged by taxpayer in payment for such work or services are so allocable irrespective of whether done or performed by employees or agents of taxpayer, by sub-contractors, or by any other persons. It is immaterial where such amounts were payable or where they were received.

Commissions or fees received by the taxpayer are allocated to East Liverpool if the services for which the commissions were paid were performed in East Liverpool.

Where a lump sum is received by the taxpayer in payment for services within and without East Liverpool, the amount attributable to services within East Liverpool is to be determined on the basis of the relative values of, or amounts of time spent in the performance of, such services within and without East Liverpool.

(b) OTHER BUSINESS RECEIPTS. Receipts from sale of capital assets (property not held by the taxpayer for sales to customers in the regular course of business) are not business receipts. Receipts from the sale of real property held by the taxpayer as a dealer for sale to customers in the regular course of business are business receipts and are allocable to East Liverpool, if the real property was situated in East Liverpool. Receipts from sales of intangibles included in business capital, held by the taxpayer as a dealer for sale to customers in the regular course of business, are business receipts and are allocable to East Liverpool if the sales were made in East Liverpool or through a regular place of business of the taxpayer in East Liverpool.

5. PAYROLL FACTOR.

The percentage of the taxpayer's payroll allocable to East Liverpool is determined by dividing the wages, salaries and other personal service compensation of the taxpayer's employees (except general executive officers, as defined below) within East Liverpool during the period covered by the report, by the total amount of compensation of all taxpayer's employees (except general executive officers) during such period.

Wages, salaries and other compensation are computed on the cash or accrual basis in accordance with the method of accounting used in the computation of the entire net income of the taxpayer.

Employees within East Liverpool include all employees regularly connected with or working out of a place of business maintained by the taxpayer in East Liverpool, irrespective of where the services of such employee were performed. However, if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the City Treasurer that because of the fact that a substantial part of its payroll was paid to employees attached to an East Liverpool place of business who performed a substantial part of their services outside East Liverpool, the computation of the payroll factor according to the general rule stated above would not produce an equitable result, then the City Treasurer may, in his discretion, permit the payroll factor to be computed on the basis of the amount of compensation paid for services rendered within and without the City. On the other hand, wherever it appears that, because a substantial part of the taxpayer's payroll was paid to employees attached to place of business outside East Liverpool who performed a substantial part of their services within East Liverpool, the computation of the payroll factor according to the general rule would not properly reflect the amount of the tax-payer's business done within East Liverpool by its employees, the City Treasurer may require the payroll factor to be computed on the basis of the amount of compensation paid for services performed within and without the City. In any such case, where an employee performed services both within and without East Liverpool, the amount treated as compensation for services performed within East Liverpool shall be deemed to be (a) in the case of an employee whose compensation depends directly on the volume of business secured by him, such as a salesman on a commission basis, the amount received by him for the business attributable to his efforts within East Liverpool; (b) in the case of an employee whose compensation depends on other results achieved, the proportion of the total compensation which the value of his services within East Liverpool bears to the value of all his services; and (3) in the case of an employee compensated on a time basis, the proportion of the total amount received by him which the working time employed in East Liverpool bears to the total working time.

GENERAL EXECUTIVE OFFICERS. Personal service compensation paid to general executive officers of the taxpayer for acting as such should not be included in the computation of the payroll factor.

General Executive officers include the Chairman, President, Vice-President, Secretary, Assistant Secretary, Treasurer, Assistant Treasurer, Comptroller, Director and any other officer charged with and performing general executive duties of the corporation. An executive officer whose duties or services are primarily restricted to one place of business of the taxpayer, whether within or without East Liverpool, is not a general executive officer.

In the case of unincorporated entities, an executive officer shall be deemed to be a partner, co-owner, proprietor or other active participant in the profit of the enterprise.

6. ADJUSTMENT OF BUSINESS ALLOCATION PERCENTAGE FORMULA.

Generally, the formula will result in a fair apportionment of the taxpayer's net profits within and without East Liverpool. However, due to the peculiar circumstances of certain businesses, the formula may work a hardship in some cases or result in a tax evasion in others, thus not do justice to the taxpayer or the City. Accordingly, in such cases, the City Treasurer may substitute the factors calculated to bring about a fair and proper allocation in any case where the taxpayer has adopted the optional use of the business allocation percentage formula.

ARTICLE II-7
ON WHAT EARNINGS OR NET PROFITS TAX FIRST LEVIED

The tax referred to in Articles II-1 and II-2 shall first be levied, collected and paid with respect to the salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions, fees and/or other compensation earned on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962) and to and including December 31, 1964.

The tax referred to in Article II-3, II-4 and II-5 with respect to net profits of trades, businesses, professions, enterprises, undertakings and other activities, shall first be levied, collected and paid with respect to such net profits earned or accrued (in accordance with the regular accounting system of taxpayer as approved by the U. S. Director of Internal Revenue) from and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962), and to and including December 31, 1964.

But see Article II-8 for fiscal year returns.

ARTICLE II-8
FISCAL YEARS
(Section 3)

Where the fiscal year of a trade, business, profession, enterprise, undertaking and/or other activity differs from the calendar year, the tax shall be applicable to the net profits of the fiscal year, but for the first fiscal year with respect only to such portion thereof as was earned on and after the effective date of the Ordinance.

A fiscal year will be recognized only if it ends on the last day of some calendar month, and has been or may be recognized by the Director of Internal Revenue for the purpose of Federal Income Tax.

ARTICLE II-9
NET BUSINESS PROFITS

In amplification of the definition contained in Article I (H) of these Regulations, but not in limitation thereof, the following additional information and requirements respecting net business profits are furnished:

(a) Where necessary to properly reflect income, inventories must be used. The basis of pricing used for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax must in each instance be used.

(b) Where the books and records are kept on an "accrual basis," "long-term contract basis" or "installment basis," and/or the "accrual basis," "long-term contract basis" or "installment basis" is used in the filing of Federal Income Tax Returns, such basis must be used for the purpose of this tax.

(c) If the return is made on a "cash basis," Gross Profit shall include receipts from commissions, fees and interest, as well as the gross profit or loss from sales of merchandise, chattels, goods, wares, securities, notes, choses-in-action and service, except as hereinafter provided.

(d) If the return is made on an "accrual basis," Gross Profit shall include (1) commissions, fees and interest earned, plus (2) the gross profit or loss from sales of merchandise, chattels, goods, wares, securities, notes, choses-in-action and services, except as hereinafter provided.

(e) From Gross Profit there shall be subtracted allowable expense to arrive at the net profits subject to tax.

(f) All ordinary and necessary expense of doing business, including reasonable compensation paid employees, shall be allowed, (but no deduction may be claimed for "salary" or withdrawals of a proprietor or of the partners, members or other co-owners of an unincorporated business or enterprise).

(g) If not claimed as part of the Cost of Goods Sold or elsewhere in the return filed, there may be claimed and allowed a reasonable deduction for depreciation, depletion, obsolescence, losses resulting from theft or casualty not compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of property used in the trade or business, but the amount may not exceed that recognized for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax. Provided, however, that loss on the sale, exchange or other disposition of depreciable property and real estate used in business, shall not be allowed as a deductible expense.

(h) Bad debts in a reasonable amount may be allowed in the year ascertained worthless and charged off, or (if the Reserve method is used), a reasonable addition to the Reserve may be claimed, but in no event shall the amount allowed exceed the amount recognized as a deduction for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax.

(i) Taxes. Only taxes directly connected with the taxpayer's business may be claimed as a deduction. If for any reason the income from property is not subject to tax, then the tax on said property is not deductible. In any event, the following taxes are not deductible from income:

(1) The tax under the Ordinance;

(2) Any Federal taxes based upon income;

(3) Gifts, estate or inheritance taxes)

(4) Taxes for local benefits or improvements to property which tend to appreciate the value thereof.

(j) Capital gains and losses (including gains or losses from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of depreciable business property, and real property used in the taxpayer's trade or business) shall not be taken into consideration in arriving at "net profits earned."

(k) If the taxpayer is a non-resident, only the amount of net profits applicable to the activities of the business in East Liverpool shall be subjected to tax. If the non-resident taxpayer's records do not disclose the actual net profits for the East Liverpool branch, office, store or activity separately, then the basis of allocation shall be disclosed in the return. If such basis of allocation is not deemed correct, in view of all the known circumstances, the City Treasurer will make a reallocation based upon gross receipts or any other basis which shall, under the circumstances of the case, more accurately reflect the net profits.

(l) In general, all business expense recognized and to the extent allowed as such for the purpose of determining Federal Income Tax will be recognized and allowed for determining East Liverpool Income Tax under the provisions of this Ordinance. However, all expense connected with the acquisition or carrying of securities, the income from which is not recognized as taxable under this Ordinance, may not be deducted in determining taxable net profits hereunder.

(m) In general, unearned income is not to be included in computing the tax levied hereunder. Gain or loss from the sale, exchange or other disposition of capital assests, including depreciable property and real estate used in business, shall not be included in determining net profits. Income from intangibles by way of dividends, interest and the like, should not be included if the property from which such income is derived is subject to taxation under the Intangible Personal Property Tax Laws of the State of Ohio, or is specifically exempted from taxation under said Laws.

(n) Rentals received by the taxpayer are to be included only if and to the extent that the rental, ownership, management or operation of the real estate from which such rentals are derived (whether so rented, managed or operated by taxpayer individually or through agents or other representatives) constitutes a business activity of the taxpayer in whole or in part.

Following are the circumstances under which, in an instance, the rental of any real property shall or shall not be deemed to be a "Business Activity":

(1) Where the gross monthly rental of any and all real properties, regardless of number and value, aggregates in excess of $100.00 per month, it shall be prima facie evidence that the rental, ownership, management or operation of such properties is a business activity of such taxpayer, and the net income of such rental property shall be subject to tax; provided that in case of commercial property, the owner shall be considered engaged in a business activity when the rental is based on a fixed or fluctuating percentage of gross or net sales, receipts or profits of the leasee, whether or not such rental exceeds $100.00 per month; provided further that in the case of farm property, the owner shall be considered engaged in a business activity when he shares in the crops or when the rental is based on a percentage of the gross or net receipts derived from the farms, whether or not the gross income exceeds $100.00 per month; and provided further that the person who operates a licensed rooming house shall be considered in business whether or not the gross income exceeds $100.00 per month.

(2) In determining the amount of gross monthly rental of any real property, periods during which (by reason of vacancy or any other cause) rentals are not received shall not be taken into consideration by the taxpayer.

(3) Rentals received by a taxpayer engaged in the business of buying and selling real estate shall be considered as part of business income.

(4) Real property, as the term is used in this Regulation, shall include commercial property, residential property, farm property, and any and all other types of real estate.

(5) In determining the taxable net income from rentals, the deductible expense shall be of the same nature, extent and amount as is allowed by the Department of Internal Revenue for Federal Income Tax purposes.

(6) Residents of East Liverpool are subject to taxation upon the net income from rentals (to the extent above specified), regardless of the location of the real property owned.

Non-residents of East Liverpool are subject to such taxation only if the real property is situated within the City of East Liverpool. Non-residents, in determining whether gross monthly rentals exceed one hundred dollars (100.00), shall take into consideration only real estate situated within East Liverpool.

(o) Income from royalties or copyrights is not to be included.

RECONCILIATION WITH FEDERAL RETURN

In a form satisfactory to the City Auditor, and furnished by the City Treasurer, there shall be submitted with each return filed by a taxpayer subject to the Federal Income Tax, a reconciliation between the amount shown in the return filed with the City Treasurer and the business income reported to the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue.

If, as a result of a change made in business income by the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue, or by a judicial decision, an additional amount will result as owing to the City of East Liverpool, a report of such change shall be filed by the taxpayer within thirty days after receipt of the final notice of such change from the Federal Authorities or after final decision of a Court adjudicating any such Federal Income Tax Liability.

ARTICLE III
RETURN AND PAYMENT OF TAX

1. On or before April 15, 1963, every taxpayer engaged in any business, the net profits of which are subject in whole or in part to the tax imposed by this Ordinance, shall make and file with the City Treasurer a final return on a form furnished by or obtainable from the City Treasurer. Thereafter, each taxpayer shall, on or before April 15th of each subsequent year, make and file a final return with the City Treasurer. Like returns shall be filed at the same time and in the same manner by all persons whose wages, salaries, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions, fees and other compensation received during the preceding taxable year are subject to the tax imposed by the Ordinance. However, where an employee's entire earnings for the year are paid by an employer and the eight-tenths of one per cent tax thereon has in each instance been withheld and deducted by the employer from the gross amount of the entire earnings of such employee - taxpayer and where the employer of such employee has filed a report or return in which such employee's entire and only earnings are reported to the City treasurer, and where such employee has no taxable income other than such earnings, it shall not be necessary for such employee to file a return for any taxable year in which such conditions have prevailed.

Any person who receives both compensation for services performed for an employer, in whatsoever form, and in addition received income from any business activity or occupation not subject to withholding under the Ordinance, must file a declaration and a final return.

2. In all final returns filed hereunder there shall be set forth the aggregate amount of salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commission, fees and other compensation received and/or net profits earned (all as hereinbefore defined) by and during the preceding year and subject to said tax, together with such pertinent information as the City Treasurer may require.

3. If the return is made for a fiscal year or for any period other than a calendar year, the said return shall be made within one hundred-five (105) days from the end of said fiscal year or other period.

4. The return shall also show the amount of the tax imposed by the Ordinance on such earnings, or net profits, or both.

5. The taxpayer making the return shall at the time of filing thereof, pay to the City Treasurer the amount of tax shown to be due and unpaid by the return. If, pursuant to the provisions of Article V-2, the taxpayer has at the time of making such final return overpaid his tax, such taxpayer shall show the amount of overpayment and may in said return either (a) request a refund therefor, or (b) request that the amount thereof be credited against the amount which will be required to be paid by taxpayer on the next succeeding installment of tax which may become due.

For payments in Installments, see Article V-2.

(8) Where any portion of the tax otherwise due shall have been deducted at the source and shall have been paid to the City Treasurer by the person making the said deduction, a credit equal to the amount so paid shall be deducted from the amount shown to be due and only the balance, if any shall be due and payable at the time of the filing of the said return.

(7) Upon written request of the taxpayer, the City Treasurer may extend the time for filing the annual return for a period of not more than six months or not more than thirty days beyond any extension requested of and granted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the filing of the Federal Income Tax return.

ARTICLE IV-1
COLLECTION OF TAX AT SOURCE
(Section 3)

1. It is the duty of each employer (as hereinbefore defined) who employs one or more persons on a salary, wage, commission or other compensation basis, to deduct from compensation paid to any employee subject to the Ordinance, the tax of eight-tenths of one per cent of such salary, wage, bonus, incentive payment, commission or other compensation due by said employer to said employee. The tax shall be deducted by the employer:

(a) From the gross amount of all compensation paid to employees who are non-residents of the City of East Liverpool for services rendered, work performed, or other activities engaged in to earn such compensation, within the City of East Liverpool; and

(b) From the gross amount of all salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions or other form of compensation paid to employees who are residents of the City of East Liverpool, regardless of the place where the services are rendered.

2. All employers who or which maintain an office or other place of business in East Liverpool are required to make the collections and deductions in this Article specified, regardless of the fact that the services on account of which any particular deduction is required as to residents of the City of East Liverpool, were performed at a place of business of any such employer situated outside the City of East Liverpool.

3. The mere fact that the tax is not withheld will not relieve the employee of the responsibility of filing a return and paying the tax on the compensation received.

4. Commissions and fees paid to professional men, brokers and others who are independent contractors and not employees of the payor, are not subject to withholding or collection of the tax at the source. Such taxpayers must in all instances file returns and pay the tax pursuant to the provisions of Section 2 or of Section 3 of the Ordinance. (See Article II-3 and II-4).

5. In the case of employees who are non-residents of East Liverpool the amount to be deducted is eight-tenths of one per cent of the gross compensation paid with respect to personal service rendered in East Liverpool.

Where a non-resident receives compensation for personal services rendered or performed partly within and partly outside East Liverpool, the withholding employer shall deduct, withhold and remit that portion of the compensation which is earned within East Liverpool in accordance with the following rules of apportionment:

(a) If the non-resident is a salesman, agent or other employee whose compensation on the basis of commissions depends directly on the volume of business transacted by him, the deducting and withholding shall attach to the portion of the entire compensation which the volume of business transacted by the employee within the City of East Liverpool bears to the volume of business transacted by him within and outside the City of East Liverpool.

(b) The deducting and withholding of personal service compensation of all other employees (including officers of corporations) shall attach to the portion of the personal service compensation of such employee which the total number of working days employed within the City of East Liverpool bears to the total number of working days employed within and outside the City of East Liverpool.

(c) If it is impossible to apportion the earnings as provided above, because of (1) the peculiar nature of the service of the employee, or (2) the unusual basis of compensation, apportionment shall be made in accordance with the facts and the tax deducted and withheld accordingly.

(d) The occasional entry into the City of East Liverpool of a non-resident employee who performs the duties for which he is employed entirely outside the City, but enters the City for the purpose of reporting, receiving instructions, accounting, etc., incidental to his duties outside the City, shall not be deemed to take such employee out of the class of those rendering their services entirely outside the City.

6. An employer shall withhold the tax on the full amount of any advances made to an employee on account of commissions (whether by way of drawing account or otherwise — but see paragraph 7 below) where such advances are in excess of commissions earned.

7. An employer required to withhold the tax on compensation paid to an employee shall, in determining the amount on which the tax is to be withheld, ignore any amount allowed and paid by the employer to the employee for the expense necessarily and actually incurred by the employee in the actual performance of his services. Provided, that such expense must be of the kind and in the amount recognized and allowed as deductible expense for Federal Income Tax purposes.

ARTICLE IV-2
RETURNS OF TAX WITHHELD AND PAYMENT

The deduction from salaries, wages and other compensation required to be made by employers are to begin with compensation earned on and after the effective date of the Ordinance. The first return and payment required to be made on account of such deductions to May 1, 1962, shall be made, filed and paid to the City Treasurer on or before May 31, 1962. The second return and payment for 1962 on account of said deductions for May and June shall be made and filed on or before July 31, 1962. The third return and payment on account of deductions for July, August and September shall be made and filed on or before October 31st, 1962, and the last return and payment for October, November and December shall be made and filed on or before January 31st, 1963. Thereafter, withholding, filing and returns shall be made and filed in accordance with the next paragraph.

Each employer within the City of East Liverpool who employs one or more persons on a salary, wage, commission or other compensation basis shall deduct monthly, or more often than monthly, and at the time of the payment of such salary, wage, commission or other compensation, the tax of eight-tenths of one per cent of salaries, wages, commissions or other compensation due by the said employer to the said employee, and shall make a return and pay to the City Treasurer the amount of taxes so deducted as follows:

For the three (3) months ending March 31st, on or before April 30th;

For the three (3) months ending June 30th, on or before July 31st;

For the three (3) months ending September 30th, on or before October 31st;

For the three (3) months ending December 31st, on or before the following January 31st.

The reporting periods referred to in the preceding paragraph are elastic to this extent: The employer will use the same quarterly accounting period for reporting taxes withheld under the East Liverpool Income Tax Ordinance as he used in reporting quarterly taxes withheld to the Federal Government.

Said return shall be on a form prescribed by the City Auditor and furnished by the City Treasurer and shall be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed therefor by the City Treasurer. Such employer, in collecting said tax, shall be deemed to hold same until payment is made by such employer to the City of East Liverpool as a Trustee for the benefit of the City of East Liverpool and any such tax collected by such employer from his employees shall, until the same is paid to the City of East Liverpool, be deemed a Trust Fund in the hands of such employer.

For adjustments of errors in returns of tax withheld by employers see Article VII of these Regulations.

LIMITATION ON CREDIT FOR TAX PAID AT SOURCE

The failure of any employer, residing either within or outside the City of East Liverpool, to collect the tax and to make any return prescribed herein, shall not relieve the employee from the payment of such tax in compliance with these Regulations respecting the making of returns and the payment of taxes.

ARTICLE IV-4
STATUS AND LIABILITY OF EMPLOYERS

Every employer is deemed to be a Trustee of the City of East Liverpool in collecting and holding the tax required under the Ordinance to be withheld, and the funds so collected by such withholding are deemed to be Trust Funds.

Every such employer required to deduct and withhold the tax at the source is liable directly to the City of East Liverpool for the payment of such tax, whether actually collected by such employer or not.

ARTICLE V-1
DECLARATIONS
(Section 6)

1. An employee whose entire wages, salaries or other compensation for any taxable year will be subjected to the withholding provisions under Article IV of these Regulations, whose tax will accordingly be withheld as to his entire earnings for such year by his employer, and who during such taxable year expects to derive no other compensation or other income which is subject to tax under the Ordinance, need not file a declaration as provided in this Article.

2. All other taxpayers (as defined in the Ordinance and in these Regulations) subject to the taxes imposed by Section 2 of the Ordinance, and every taxpayer who anticipates any income or net profits not subject to total withholding as provided in the next preceding paragraph, shall file with the City Treasurer a declaration of his estimated tax as follows:

3. On or before May 15, 1962, every such taxpayer shall file a declaration of his estimated tax for the taxable period beginning on the effective date of the Ordinance and ending December 31, 1962.

4. A similar declaration shall be filed by each such taxpayer on or before the 15th day of April of each subsequent year during the life of the Ordinance, and each such declaration shall contain a statement of the taxpayer's estimated tax for the full taxable year in which such declaration is filed.

5. Taxpayers who or which are permitted, pursuant to the provisions of Article II-8, to return and pay their tax upon a fiscal year basis, shall file their first declaration of their estimated tax on May 15, 1962, for the taxable period beginning on the effective date of the Ordinance and ending at the end of taxpayer's current fiscal year at the effective date of the Ordinance, and thereafter a similar declaration shall be filed by each such taxpayer within 105 days after the beginning of the first fiscal year beginning after the effective date of the Ordinance, and the subsequent declaration for each year thereafter on or before the 15th day of the fourth month following the beginning of each such fiscal year.

6. The estimated tax may be paid in full with the declaration or in equal installments on or before April 15, June 30, September 30 and December 31, the first filing being as of May 15, 1962. Those taxpayers on a fiscal year basis shall make quarterly payments on or before the 15th day of the fourth month and on or before the last day of the sixth, ninth and twelfth months following the beginning of such fiscal year. The first installment, equal to at least one-fourth of the estimated tax, must accompany the declaration.

7. The declarations so required shall be filed upon a form prescribed by the City Auditor and furnished by the City Treasurer. Any taxpayer who has filed an estimate for Federal Income Tax purposes may, in making the declaration required hereunder, simply state therein that the figures therein contained are the same figures used by the taxpayer in making the declaration of his estimated or the Federal Income Tax. However, in addition to such statement, any such taxpayer may, in such declaration, modify and

The tax imposed by the Ordinance is effective as to income and profits earned or accruing on and after March 2, 1962, and payroll deductions must be made against all salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses and other compensation earned or accruing on and after that date.

The Ordinance continues effective insofar as the levy of taxes is concerned until December 31, 1964.

ARTICLE II-1
(Section 2 A)

In the case of the residents of the City of East Liverpool an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent is imposed on all salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation earned or accrued on and after March 2, 1962. For the purpose of determining the tax on the earnings of the resident taxpayers, taxed under Section 2 of the Ordinance, the source of the earnings and the place or places in or at which the services were rendered are immaterial. All such earnings, wherever earned or paid, are taxable.

The following are items which are subject to the tax:

(a) Salaries, bonuses or incentive payments received by an individual, whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962.

(1) As an office or employee, or both, of a corporation (including charitable and other non-profit corporations), joint stock associations or joint stock company;

(2) As an employee (as distinguished from a partner or member) of a partnership, limited partnership, or any other form of unincorporated enterprise owned by one or more persons;

(3) As an employee (as distinguished from the proprietor) of a business, trade or profession conducted by an individual owner;

(4) As an officer or employee (whether elected, appointed or commissioned) of a governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body, branch, bureau, department, division, subdivision, section or unite of the State of Ohio or any of the political sub-divisions thereof;

(5) As an officer or employee (whether elected, appointed or commissioned) of a governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body, branch, bureau, department, division, subdivision, section or unit of the United States Government or of a corporation created and owned or controlled by the United States Government or any of its agencies;

(6) As an employee of any other entity or person.

(b) Wages, bonuses or incentive payments received by an individual, whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962.

(1) Whether based upon hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, semi-monthly, annual, unit of production or piece-work rates, and

(2) Whether paid by an individual, limited partnership, co-partnership, association, corporation (including charitable and other non-profit corporations), governmental administration, agency, arm, authority, board, body, branch, department, division, subdivision, section or unit, or any other entity.

(c) Commissions received by a taxpayer whether directly or through an agent and whether in cash or in property, for services rendered on and after March 2, 1962, regardless of how computed, by whom or wheresoever paid.

If amounts received as a drawing account exceed the commissions earned, the tax is payable on the gross amounts received.

Amounts received from an employer by way of expense and not by way of compensation, and used as such by the individual receiving them, are not deemed to be compensation if the employer deducts such expense advances as such from his gross income for the purpose of determining his net profits taxable under the Ordinance. If such commissions are included in the net earnings of a trade, business, profession, enterprise or activity regularly carried on by such individual and therefor subject to tax under sub-section C. of Section 2 of the Ordinance, they shall not again be separately taxed. In such case, such net earnings shall be taxed as provided in Article II-9 of these Regulations.

(d) The receipt of fees and other compensation for personal services rendered shall be deemed to be subject to taxation under the Ordinance.

(e) Domestic servants are subject to East Liverpool tax under this Ordinance but are not subject to withholding provisions. That is to say, the domestic will report earnings and pay the tax directly to the East Liverpool Income Tax Department.

The provisions of the Ordinance shall not be construed as levying a tax upon the following:

1. Funds received from local, state or federal governments because of service in the Armed Forces of the United States by the person rendering such service, or as a result of another person rendering such service.

2. Poor relief, pensions, unemployment compensation, supplemental unemployment benefits or similar payments, including disability benefits received from private industry or local, state or federal governments, or from charitable, religious or educational organizations.

3. Alimony received.

4. Dues, contributions and similar payments received by charitable, religious, educational or literary organizations or labor unions, lodges and similar organizations.

5. Receipts from casual entertainment, amusements, sports events and health and welfare activities conducted by bona fide charitable, religious and educational organizations and associations.

6. Any association, organization, corporation, club or trust which is exempt from federal taxes on income by reason of its charitable, religious, educational, literary, scientific, etc. purposes.

7. Gains from involuntary conversion, cancellation of indebtedness, interest on Federal obligations, items of income already taxed by the State of Ohio, and income of a decedent's estate during the period of administration (except such income from the operation of a business).

8. Earnings and income of all persons under 18 years of age, whether residents or non-residents.

9. Employment of duly enrolled full-time students by their school, college, university or any public library, and services performed by student nurses and hospital interns.

ARTICLE II-2
IMPOSITION OF TAX—NON-RESIDENT
Section 2B)

In the case of individuals who are non-residents of East Liverpool, there is imposed under the ordinance an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on all salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962), for work done or services performed or rendered within the City of East Liverpool, whether such compensation or remuneration is received or earned directly or through an agent and whether paid in cash or in property.

The items subject to tax under this section are the same as those listed and defined in Article II-1. For methods of computing the extent of such work or services performed within the City of East Liverpool, and cases involving compensation for personal services partly within and partly outside the City of East Liverpool, see Article IV-1.

ARTICLE II-3
IMPOSITION OF TAX — NET BUSINESS PROFITS—RESIDENTS
(Section 2 C)

1. In the case of trades, businesses, professions, other activities, enterprises or undertakings conducted, operated, engaged in, prosecuted or carried on by residents of East Liverpool, there is imposed an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on the net profits earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962).

2. For the purpose of construing sub-sections (c) and (d) of Section 2 of the Ordinance, the term "residents" in the phrase "conducted by residents of the City of East Liverpool" will ordinarily be construed to have reference to the business entity itself, as distinguished from the partners, co-owners, proprietors or other participants in its profits.

3. Generally, a co-partnership, association or other unincorporated enterprise owned by two or more persons will be taxed as entity. However, in the case of a non-resident partnership, association or unincorporated enterprise which cannot be reached or taxed directly by the City of East Liverpool, or if only part of its earnings may be directly taxed, then in either such case, resident partners, co-owners, proprietors or other participants in the profits thereof must include in their declaration and tax return or returns their distributive shares of such profits, or portion thereof not taxed to the business enterprise as an entity, and must pay the tax thereon.

4. The tax imposed under Sub-Section C of Section 2 of the Ordinance is levied upon the entire net profit of the resident trade, business, profession, other activity, enterprise or undertaking, wherever earned, paid or accrued and regardless of the fact that any part of such business or professional activity may have been conducted at or through a place or places of business located outside the City of East Liverpool.

ARTICLE II-4
IMPOSITION OF TAX—NET BUSINESS PROFITS—NON-RESIDENTS
(Section 2 E)

1. In the case of a non-resident individual, partnership, association, fiduciary or other entity (other than a corporation) engaged in the conduct, operation or prosecution of any trade, business, profession, enterprise, undertaking or other activity, there is imposed an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent of the net profits earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962) of such trade, business, profession, enterprise, undertaking or other activity if, and to the extent, conducted in or derived from activity in East Liverpool.

2. A non-resident entity within the meaning of sub-section (e) of Section 2 of the Ordinance which has a branch or branches, office or offices and or store or stores, warehouse or other place or places in which the entity's business is transacted, located in the City of East Liverpool, shall be considered to be conducting, operating, prosecuting or carrying on a trade, business, profession, enterprise, undertaking or other activity to the full extent of the sum total of all transactions originating or consummated in, by or through such East Liverpool branch, office, store, warehouse or other place of business, including (a) billings made on such transactions, or (b) services rendered, or (c) shipments made, or (d) goods, chattels, merchandise, etc., sold, or (e) commissions, fees or other remuneration or payments earned.

3. In the case of a partnership, association, or other unincorporated business owned by one or more persons, the tax, generally, shall be upon said partnership, association or business enterprise as an entity and not ordinarily upon the partners or members thereof. However, the provisions of Article II-3 (3) are applicable to render taxable against such resident partners or members their distributive share of any profits of such non-resident entity not taxable under this Ordinance.

4. In determining the proportion or amount of the taxable net profits of a non-resident business entity having a place or places of business within and outside East Liverpool, such business entity may at its option use and apply the Business Allocation Percentage formula set forth in Section 718.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio. For explanation of formula, see Articles II-6.

ARTICLE II-5
IMPOSITION OF TAX—NET BUSINESS PROFITS—CORPORATIONS
(Section 2G)

1. In the case of corporations doing business in East Liverpool, whether domestic or foreign, and whether domiciled in East Liverpool or elsewhere, there is imposed an annual tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on that part of the net profits earned or accruing on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962) of such corporations, which is earned by such corporations as a result of work done or services performed or rendered and business or other activities conducted in the City of East Liverpool.

2. The provisions of Paragraph 2 of Article II-4 of these Regulations are applicable to such corporations.

3. A corporation doing business both within and outside the City of East Liverpool may, in determining that part of the net profits which are taxable under the Ordinance, at its option:

(a) Use the usual accounting system of the taxpayer corporation, so long as said usual accounting system shall be one acceptable to the U. S. Internal Revenue Department as evidenced by acceptance and approval of income tax returns filed therein; or

(b) Use the Business Allocation Percentage formula set forth in Section 718.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio.

BUSINESS ALLOCATION PERCENTAGE
(Section 2 G)

1. At the option of a corporate taxpayer or of a non-resident business entity, such taxpayers may, but are not obliged to, use the formula set forth in Section 718.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio to compute the percentage of their entire net profits (derived from activities both within and outside the City of East Liverpool) which is taxable under the Ordinance, and to determine the tax payable to the City of East Liverpool thereunder.

If the taxpayer did not have a place of business outside East Liverpool during the period covered by any declaration and/or return required under the Ordinance, its business allocation percentage is 100 per cent; in other words, the taxpayer is required to pay a tax of eight-tenths of one per cent on the entire net profit of the business.

If the taxpayer had a place or places of business outside East Liverpool, and was doing business in East Liverpool during such period, the business allocation percentage shall be computed on the basis of such of the three following factors as may be applicable to the particular business activity.

(a) Real and tangible personal property within and without East Liverpool;

(b) Business receipts within and without East Liverpool; and

(c) Payrolls within and without East Liverpool. "Business Receipts", as used in (b), means ascertaining the percentage which the gross sales of the taxpayer within the City of East Liverpool, plus the gross credits or charges for the work done and performed or services rendered in the City of East Liverpool, bears to the total gross sales wherever made, plus the total gross credits or charges for work done and performed or services rendered. "Within the City" sales shall be deemed to include:

aa. All sales of tangible personal property delivered to purchasers within the City if shipped or delivered from an office, store, warehouse, factory or place of storage, located within the City;

bb. All sales of tangible personal property delivered to purchasers within the City, even though transported from a point outside the City, if both of the following conditions are present: If the taxpayer is regularly engaged through its own employees in the solicitation or promotion of sales within the City, and the sale is directly or indirectly the result of the taxpayer's activities within the City in soliciting or promoting sales.

cc. All sales of tangible personal property shipped from an office, store, warehouse, factory or place of storage, within the City to purchasers in other cities, if

The taxpayer is not, through its own employees, regularly engaged in the solicitation or promotion of sales in such other cities, or even if it is so engaged, if the sales are not directly or indirectly attributable to such activities.

"Payrolls", as used in (c), means the total wages, salaries and other personal service compensation (exclusive of compensation of general executive officers).

The business allocation percentage is computed by determining the percentage (a) which East Liverpool real and tangible personal property bears to all real and tangible personal property (including that situated in East Liverpool) of taxpayer wheresoever situated; (b) which East Liverpool business sales bear to taxpayer's entire business sales wheresoever derived (including those derived from East Liverpool; and (c) which payrolls paid by taxpayer within East Liverpool bears to tax-payer's entire payroll wheresoever paid (including East Liverpool payrolls); adding together the three percentages so arrived at, and dividing the total by three.

However, if one of the factors (property sales or payrolls) is missing, the other two percentages are added and the sum is divided by two, and if two of the factors are missing, the remaining percentage is the business allocation percentage.

EXAMPLE 1:
Corporation having places of business in East Liverpool, Detroit and Cleveland.
East Liverpool real and tangible personal property $10,000. All real and personal property (East Liverpool, Detroit and Cleveland) $100,000. Percentage: 10%
East Liverpool sales $15,000. All sales $75,00. Percentage: 20%
East Liverpool payroll $6,000. All payroll $20,000. Percentage: 30%
Business allocation percentage: 10% plus 20% plus 30% ——— equals 20%

EXAMPLE 2:
Same corporation owning no real or tangible personal property anywhere. East Liverpool sales $15,000. All sales $75,000. Percentage: 20%
East Liverpool payroll $6,000. All payroll $20,000. Percentage: 30%
Business allocation percentage: 20% plus 30% ——— equals 25%

EXAMPLE 3:
Same corporation owning real and tangible personal property in East Liverpool valued at $10,000 and owning no real or tangible personal property outside East Liverpool. Other factors same as in examples 1 and 2.

After determining such business allocation percentage, the tax shall be determined by applying that percentage to the entire net profits of the taxpayer, wherever derived (thus arriving at the taxable net profit), and computing eight-tenths of one per cent of the resultant taxable net profit.

In case it shall appear to the City Treasurer that any agreement, understanding or arrangement exists between the taxpayer and any other person, firm or corporation, whereby the activity, business, income or capital of the taxpayer is improperly or inaccurately reflected, the City Treasurer may adjust items of income, deductions and capital, and disregard assets in computing any allocation percentage, provided any income directly traceable thereto is also excluded from entire net income, so as equitably to determine the tax.

2. EXPLANATION OF "PROPERTY FACTOR".

The percentage of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property within East Liverpool is determined by dividing the average net book value (during the period covered by the report) of such property within East Liverpool, without deduction of any encumbrances, by the average net book value similarly computed, of all such property within and without East Liverpool. Only property owned or used by the taxpayer is considered in determining such percentage.

As used in the preceding paragraph, real property shall include property rented or leased by the taxpayer and the value of such property shall be determined by multiplying the annual rental thereon by eight.

3. EXPLANATION OF BUSINESS RECEIPTS FACTOR".

For sales applicable to East Liverpool, refer to Article II-6-1(b).

Receipts from the following are also allocable to East Liverpool:

1. Work done and performed or services rendered in East Liverpool.

2. Rentals from property situated in East Liverpool, where the rental of such property is a usual or normal part of the taxpayer's business activity.

3. All other business receipts earned in East Liverpool. For the purpose of determining business allocation percentage, no account shall be given to receipts, within or without East Liverpool, of income derived from intangibles (including stocks, bonds, royalties and the like) the income of which is taxable under the statues of the State of Ohio.

All receipts of the period covered by the report (computed on the cash or accural basis, in accordance with the method of accounting used in the computation of the taxpayer's entire net income) must be taken into account.

4. COMPENSATION FOR WORK DONE AND PERFORMED OR SERVICES RENDERED.

(a) Compensation and other receipts from work done or services performed within East Liverpool are allocable to East Liverpool and taxable under the Ordinance. All amounts so received, credited or charged by taxpayer in payment for such work or services are so allocable irrespective of whether done or performed by employees or agents of taxpayer, by sub-contractors, or by any other persons. It is immaterial where such amounts were payable or where they were received.

Commissions or fees received by the taxpayer are allocated to East Liverpool if the services for which the commissions were paid were performed in East Liverpool.

Where a lump sum is received by the taxpayer in payment for services within and without East Liverpool, the amount attributable to services within East Liverpool is to be determined on the basis of the relative values of, or amounts of time spent in the performance of, such services within and without East Liverpool.

(b) OTHER BUSINESS RECEIPTS. Receipts from sale of capital assets (property not held by the taxpayer for sales to customers in the regular course of business) are not business receipts. Receipts from the sale of real property held by the taxpayer as a dealer for sale to customers in the regular course of business are business receipts and are allocable to East Liverpool, if the real property was situated in East Liverpool. Receipts from sales of intangibles included in business capital, held by the taxpayer as a dealer for sale to customers in the regular course of business, are business receipts and are allocable to East Liverpool if the sales were made in East Liverpool or through a regular place of business of the taxpayer in East Liverpool.

5. PAYROLL FACTOR.

The percentage of the taxpayer's payroll allocable to East Liverpool is determined by dividing the wages, salaries and other personal service compensation of the taxpayer's employees (except general executive officers, as defined below) within East Liverpool during the period covered by the report, by the total amount of compensation of all taxpayer's employees (except general executive officers) during such period.

Wages, salaries and other compensation are computed on the cash or accrual basis in accordance with the method of accounting used in the computation of the entire net income of the taxpayer.

Employees within East Liverpool include all employees regularly connected with or working out of a place of business maintained by the taxpayer in East Liverpool, irrespective of where the services of such employee were performed. However, if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the City Treasurer that because of the fact that a substantial part of its payroll was paid to employees attached to an East Liverpool place of business who performed a substantial part of their services outside East Liverpool, the computation of the payroll factor according to the general rule stated above would not produce an equitable result, then the City Treasurer may, in his discretion, permit the payroll factor to be computed on the basis of the amount of compensation paid for services rendered within and without the City. On the other hand, wherever it appears that, because a substantial part of the taxpayer's payroll was paid to employees attached to place of business outside East Liverpool who performed a substantial part of their services within East Liverpool, the computation of the payroll factor according to the general rule would not properly reflect the amount of the tax-payer's business done within East Liverpool by its employees, the City Treasurer may require the payroll factor to be computed on the basis of the amount of compensation paid for services performed within and without the City. In any such case, where an employee performed services both within and without East Liverpool, the amount treated as compensation for services performed within East Liverpool shall be deemed to be (a) in the case of an employee whose compensation depends directly on the volume of business secured by him, such as a salesman on a commission basis, the amount received by him for the business attributable to his efforts within East Liverpool; (b) in the case of an employee whose compensation depends on other results achieved, the proportion of the total compensation which the value of his services within East Liverpool bears to the value of all his services; and (3) in the case of an employee compensated on a time basis, the proportion of the total amount received by him which the working time employed in East Liverpool bears to the total working time.

GENERAL EXECUTIVE OFFICERS. Personal service compensation paid to general executive officers of the taxpayer for acting as such should not be included in the computation of the payroll factor.

General Executive officers include the Chairman, President, Vice-President, Secretary, Assistant Secretary, Treasurer, Assistant Treasurer, Comptroller, Director and any other officer charged with and performing general executive duties of the corporation. An executive officer whose duties or services are primarily restricted to one place of business of the taxpayer, whether within or without East Liverpool, is not a general executive officer.

In the case of unincorporated entities, an executive officer shall be deemed to be a partner, co-owner, proprietor or other active participant in the profit of the enterprise.

6. ADJUSTMENT OF BUSINESS ALLOCATION PERCENTAGE FORMULA.

Generally, the formula will result in a fair apportionment of the taxpayer's net profits within and without East Liverpool. However, due to the peculiar circumstances of certain businesses, the formula may work a hardship in some cases or result in a tax evasion in others, thus not do justice to the taxpayer or the City. Accordingly, in such cases, the City Treasurer may substitute the factors calculated to bring about a fair and proper allocation in any case where the taxpayer has adopted the optional use of the business allocation percentage formula.

ARTICLE II-7
ON WHAT EARNINGS OR NET PROFITS TAX FIRST LEVIED

The tax referred to in Articles II-1 and II-2 shall first be levied, collected and paid with respect to the salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions, fees and/or other compensation earned on and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962) and to and including December 31, 1964.

The tax referred to in Article II-3, II-4 and II-5 with respect to net profits of trades, businesses, professions, enterprises, undertakings and other activities, shall first be levied, collected and paid with respect to such net profits earned or accrued (in accordance with the regular accounting system of taxpayer as approved by the U. S. Director of Internal Revenue) from and after the effective date of the Ordinance (March 2, 1962), and to and including December 31, 1964.

But see Article II-8 for fiscal year returns.

ARTICLE II-8
FISCAL YEARS
(Section 3)

Where the fiscal year of a trade, business, profession, enterprise, undertaking and/or other activity differs from the calendar year, the tax shall be applicable to the net profits of the fiscal year, but for the first fiscal year with respect only to such portion thereof as was earned on and after the effective date of the Ordinance.

A fiscal year will be recognized only if it ends on the last day of some calendar month, and has been or may be recognized by the Director of Internal Revenue for the purpose of Federal Income Tax.

ARTICLE II-9
NET BUSINESS PROFITS

In amplification of the definition contained in Article I (H) of these Regulations, but not in limitation thereof, the following additional information and requirements respecting net business profits are furnished:

(a) Where necessary to properly reflect income, inventories must be used. The basis of pricing used for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax must in each instance be used.

(b) Where the books and records are kept on an "accrual basis," "long-term contract basis" or "installment basis," and/or the "accrual basis," "long-term contract basis" or "installment basis" is used in the filing of Federal Income Tax Returns, such basis must be used for the purpose of this tax.

(c) If the return is made on a "cash basis," Gross Profit shall include receipts from commissions, fees and interest, as well as the gross profit or loss from sales of merchandise, chattels, goods, wares, securities, notes, choses-in-action and service, except as hereinafter provided.

(d) If the return is made on an "accrual basis," Gross Profit shall include (1) commissions, fees and interest earned, plus (2) the gross profit or loss from sales of merchandise, chattels, goods, wares, securities, notes, choses-in-action and services, except as hereinafter provided.

(e) From Gross Profit there shall be subtracted allowable expense to arrive at the net profits subject to tax.

(f) All ordinary and necessary expense of doing business, including reasonable compensation paid employees, shall be allowed, (but no deduction may be claimed for "salary" or withdrawals of a proprietor or of the partners, members or other co-owners of an unincorporated business or enterprise).

(g) If not claimed as part of the Cost of Goods Sold or elsewhere in the return filed, there may be claimed and allowed a reasonable deduction for depreciation, depletion, obsolescence, losses resulting from theft or casualty not compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of property used in the trade or business, but the amount may not exceed that recognized for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax. Provided, however, that loss on the sale, exchange or other disposition of depreciable property and real estate used in business, shall not be allowed as a deductible expense.

(h) Bad debts in a reasonable amount may be allowed in the year ascertained worthless and charged off, or (if the Reserve method is used), a reasonable addition to the Reserve may be claimed, but in no event shall the amount allowed exceed the amount recognized as a deduction for the purpose of the Federal Income Tax.

(i) Taxes. Only taxes directly connected with the taxpayer's business may be claimed as a deduction. If for any reason the income from property is not subject to tax, then the tax on said property is not deductible. In any event, the following taxes are not deductible from income:

(1) The tax under the Ordinance;

(2) Any Federal taxes based upon income;

(3) Gifts, estate or inheritance taxes)

(4) Taxes for local benefits or improvements to property which tend to appreciate the value thereof.

(j) Capital gains and losses (including gains or losses from the sale, exchange, or other disposition of depreciable business property, and real property used in the taxpayer's trade or business) shall not be taken into consideration in arriving at "net profits earned."

(k) If the taxpayer is a non-resident, only the amount of net profits applicable to the activities of the business in East Liverpool shall be subjected to tax. If the non-resident taxpayer's records do not disclose the actual net profits for the East Liverpool branch, office, store or activity separately, then the basis of allocation shall be disclosed in the return. If such basis of allocation is not deemed correct, in view of all the known circumstances, the City Treasurer will make a reallocation based upon gross receipts or any other basis which shall, under the circumstances of the case, more accurately reflect the net profits.

(l) In general, all business expense recognized and to the extent allowed as such for the purpose of determining Federal Income Tax will be recognized and allowed for determining East Liverpool Income Tax under the provisions of this Ordinance. However, all expense connected with the acquisition or carrying of securities, the income from which is not recognized as taxable under this Ordinance, may not be deducted in determining taxable net profits hereunder.

(m) In general, unearned income is not to be included in computing the tax levied hereunder. Gain or loss from the sale, exchange or other disposition of capital assests, including depreciable property and real estate used in business, shall not be included in determining net profits. Income from intangibles by way of dividends, interest and the like, should not be included if the property from which such income is derived is subject to taxation under the Intangible Personal Property Tax Laws of the State of Ohio, or is specifically exempted from taxation under said Laws.

(n) Rentals received by the taxpayer are to be included only if and to the extent that the rental ownership, management or operation of the real estate from which such rentals are derived (whether so rented, managed or operated by taxpayer individually or through agents or other representatives) constitutes a business activity of the taxpayer in whole or in part.

Following are the circumstances under which, in an instance, the rental of any real property shall or shall not be deemed to be a "Business Activity":

(1) Where the gross monthly rental of any and all real properties, regardless of number and value, aggregates in excess of $100.00 per month, it shall be prima facie evidence that the rental, ownership, management or operation of such properties is a business activity of such taxpayer, and the net income of such rental property shall be subject to tax; provided that in case of commercial property, the owner shall be considered engaged in a business activity when the rental is based on a fixed or fluctuating percentage of gross or net sales, receipts or profits of the leasee, whether or not such rental exceeds $100.00 per month; provided further that in the case of farm property, the owner shall be considered engaged in a business activity when he shares in the crops or when the rental is based on a percentage of the gross or net receipts derived from the farms, whether or not the gross income exceeds $100.00 per month; and provided further that the person who operates a licensed rooming house shall be considered in business whether or not the gross income exceeds $100.00 per month.

(2) In determining the amount of gross monthly rental of any real property, periods during which (by reason of vacancy or any other cause) rentals are not received shall not be taken into consideration by the taxpayer.

(3) Rentals received by a taxpayer engaged in the business of buying and selling real estate shall be considered as part of business income.

(4) Real property, as the term is used in this Regulation, shall include commercial property, residential property, farm property, and any and all other types of real estate.

(5) In determining the taxable net income from rentals, the deductible expense shall be of the same nature, extent and amount as is allowed by the Department of Internal Revenue for Federal Income Tax purposes.

(6) Residents of East Liverpool are subject to taxation upon the net income from rentals (to the extent above specified), regardless of the location of the real property owned.

Non-residents of East Liverpool are subject to such taxation only if the real property is situated within the City of East Liverpool. Non-residents, in determining whether gross monthly rentals exceed one hundred dollars (100.00), shall take into consideration only real estate situated within East Liverpool.

(o) Income from royalties or copyrights is not to be included.

ARTICLE II-10
RECONCILIATION WITH FEDERAL RETURN

In a form satisfactory to the City Auditor, and furnished by the City Treasurer, there shall be submitted with each return filed by a taxpayer subject to the Federal Income Tax, a reconciliation between the amount shown in the return filed with the City Treasurer and the business income reported to the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue.

If, as a result of a change made in business income by the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue, or by a judicial decision, an additional amount will result as owing to the City of East Liverpool, a report of such change shall be filed by the taxpayer within thirty days after receipt of the final notice of such change from the Federal Authorities or after final decision of a Court adjudicating any such Federal Income Tax Liability.

ARTICLE III
RETURN AND PAYMENT OF TAX
(Section 4)

1. On or before April 15, 1963, every taxpayer engaged in any business, the net profits of which are subject in whole or in part to the tax imposed by this Ordinance, shall make and file with the City Treasurer a final return on a form furnished by or obtainable from the City Treasurer. Thereafter, each taxpayer shall, on or before April 15th of each subsequent year, make and file a final return with the City Treasurer. Like returns shall be filed at the same time and in the same manner by all persons whose wages, salaries, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions, fees and other compensation received during the preceding taxable year are subject to the tax imposed by the Ordinance. However, where an employee's entire earnings for the year are paid by an employer and the eight-tenths of one per cent tax thereon has in each instance been withheld and deducted by the employer from the gross amount of the entire earnings of such employee - taxpayer and where the employer of such employee has filed a report or return in which such employee's entire and only earnings are reported to the City treasurer, and where such employee has no taxable income other than such earnings, it shall not be necessary for such employee to file a return for any taxable year in which such conditions have prevailed.

Any person who receives both compensation for services performed for an employer, in whatsoever form, and in addition received income from any business activity or occupation not subject to withholding under the Ordinance, must file a declaration and a final return.

2. In all final returns filed hereunder there shall be set forth the aggregate amount of salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commission, fees and other compensation received and/or net profits earned (all as hereinbefore defined) by and during the preceding year and subject to said tax, together with such pertinent information as the City Treasurer may require.

3. If the return is made for a fiscal year or for any period other than a calendar year, the said return shall be made within one hundred-five (105) days from the end of said fiscal year or other period.

4. The return shall also show the amount of the tax imposed by the Ordinance on such earnings, or net profits, or both.

5. The taxpayer making the return shall at the time of filing thereof, pay to the City Treasurer the amount of tax shown to be due and unpaid by the return. If, pursuant to the provisions of Article V-2, the taxpayer has at the time of making such fical return overpaid his tax, such taxpayer shall show the amount of overpayment and may in said return either (a) request a refund therefor, or (b) request that the amount thereof be credited against the amount which will be required to be paid by taxpayer on the next succeeding installment of tax which may become due.

For payments in Installments, see Article V-2.

(8) Where any portion of the tax otherwise due shall have been deducted at the source and shall have been paid to the City Treasurer by the person making the said deduction, a credit equal to the amount so paid shall be deducted from the amount shown to be due and only the balance, if any shall be due and payable at the time of the filing of the said return.

(7) Upon written request of the taxpayer, the City Treasurer may extend the time for filing the annual return for a period of not more than six months or not more than thirty days beyond any extension requested of and granted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the filing of the Federal Income Tax return.

ARTICLE IV-1
COLLECTION OF TAX AT SOURCE
(Section 5)

1. It is the duty of each employer (as hereinbefore defined) who employs one or more persons on a salary, wage, commission or other compensation basis, to deduct from compensation paid to any employee subject to the Ordinance, the tax of eight-tenths of one per cent of such salary, wage, bonus, incentive payment, commission or other compensation due by said employer to said employee. The tax shall be deducted by the employer:

(a) From the gross amount of all compensation paid to employees who are non-residents of the City of East Liverpool for services rendered, work performed, or other activities engaged in to earn such compensation, within the City of East Liverpool; and

(b) From the gross amount of all salaries, wages, bonuses, incentive payments, commissions or other form of compensation paid to employees who are residents of the City of East Liverpool, regardless of the place where the services are rendered.

2. All employers who or which maintain an office or other place of business in East Liverpool are required to make the collections and deductions in this Article specified, regardless of the fact that the services on account of which any particular deduction is required as to residents of the City of East Liverpool, were performed at a place of business of any such employer situated outside the City of East Liverpool.

3. The mere fact that the tax is not withheld will not relieve the employee of the responsibility of filing a return and paying the tax on the compensation received.

4. Commissions and fees paid to professional men, brokers and others who are independent contractors and not employees of the payor, are not subject to withholding or collection of the tax at the source. Such taxpayers must in all instances file returns and pay the tax pursuant to the provisions of Section 2 or of Section 3 of the Ordinance. (See Article II-3 and II-4).

5. In the case of employees who are non-residents of East Liverpool the amount to be deducted is eight-tenths of one per cent of the gross compensation paid with respect to personal service rendered in East Liverpool.

Where a non-resident receives compensation for personal services rendered or performed partly within and partly outside East Liverpool, the withholding employer shall deduct, withhold and remit that portion of the compensation which is earned within East Liverpool in accordance with the following rules of apportionment:

(a) If the non-resident is a salesman, agent or other employee whose compensation on the basis of commissions depends directly on the volume of business transacted by him, the deducting and withholding shall attach to the portion of the entire compensation which the volume of business transacted by the employee within the City of East Liverpool bears to the volume of business transacted by him within and outside the City of East Liverpool.

(b) The deducting and withholding of personal service compensation of all other employees (including officers of corporations) shall attach to the portion of the personal service compensation of such employee which the total number of working days employed within the City of East Liverpool bears to the total number of working days employed within and outside the City of East Liverpool.

(c) If it is impossible to apportion the earnings as provided above, because of (1) the peculiar nature of the service of the employee, or (2) the unusual basis of compensation, apportionment shall be made in accordance with the facts and the tax deducted and withheld accordingly.

(d) The occasional entry into the City of East Liverpool of a non-resident employee who performs the duties for ployer, and every taxpayer or supposed taxpayer, is required to furnish to the City Treasurer or his duly authorized agents and employees, the means, facilities and opportunity for such examinations, investigations and audits as are authorized in and by the Ordinance.

The City Treasurer or his duly authorized agent or employee is further authorized and empowered to examine under oath any person concerning any income which was or should have been returned for taxation, and to this end the City Treasurer has the right and power to compel the production of books, papers and records and the attendance of all persons before him, whether as parties or witnesses, whom he believes to have knowledge of such income.

Refusal of any examination by any employer or person subject to the tax, or presumed to be such employer or person so subject, constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both.

See Article IX, Penalties.

ARTICLE VI-2
RECORDS TO BE KEPT BY EMPLOYERS AND TAXPAYERS

Employers and others subject to the tax under the Ordinance are required to keep such records as will enable the filing of true and accurate returns, whether of taxes withheld at source or of taxes payable upon earnings of net profits, or both, and such records are to be preserved to enable the City Treasurer or any agent or employee of the City Treasurer to verify the correctness of the returns filed.

ARTICLE VI-3
COLLECTION OF DEFICIENCIES—ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT FOR OVERPAYMENT

If, as a result of investigation conducted by the City Treasurer, a return is found to be incorrect, the City Treasurer is authorized to assess and collect any under payment of tax withheld at source or any underpayment of tax owing by any taxpayer with respect to earnings or net profits, or both. If no return has been filed and a tax is found to be owing, the tax actually owing may be assessed and collected with or without the formality of obtaining a delinquent return from the employer or taxpayer.

Should it be disclosed, either as a result of an investigation by the City Treasurer or through the medium of the filing of a claim or petition for refund or credit, that an overpayment has been made, the City Treasurer will refund such overpayment.

The employer will in every instance be required to pay the full tax which should have been withheld, even though he may fail to withhold from the employee. If too much has been withheld the excess shall be refunded by the employer to the employee. While the withholding agent (employer) will be expected to maintain complete records of such adjustment with the employees, any such adjustment made during any month will not need to be reflected in the withholding return or disclosed by schedules or statements thereto attached.

In those cases in which too much has been withheld by an employer from an employee and remitted to the City Treasurer and there has been a termination of the employee-employer relationship, the taxpayer (employee) may obtain an adjustment by application to the City Treasurer.

ARTICLE VI-4
PENALTY FOR DIVULGING CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION
(Section 8)

Tax returns, and all audits connected therewith, are confidential. Any information gained by the City Treasurer, by his agents or employees, or by any other official or agent of the City as a result of any returns, investigations, hearings or verifications required or authorized by the Ordinance, shall be held confidential, except for official purposes and except in accordance with proper judicial order, or as otherwise provided by law. Violation of this provision in the Ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable by fine not exceeding $500.00 or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both. Every such breach of confidence constitutes a separate offense.

ARTICLE VII
INTEREST AND PENALTIES
(Section 9)

All taxes imposed by the Ordinance remaining unpaid after they become due shall bear interest, in addition to the amount of the unpaid tax, at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, and the taxpayers upon whom said taxes are imposed shall be liable, in addition to the tax and interest, to a penalty of one-half of one per cent (.5%) of the amount of the unpaid tax for each month or fraction of a month for the first six months of non-payment, or five dollars ($5), whichever is the greater.

The City Treasurer may waive or remit any such interest or penalties as he, in his discretion, would deem proper.

COLLECTION OF UNPAID TAXES
(Section 10)

All taxes imposed by the Ordinance remaining unpaid when the same become due, together with all interest and penalties thereon, become a debt due the City from the taxpayer, and are recoverable as other debts by suit instituted by the City Solicitor.

Employers who or which, although obliged under the Ordinance to withhold and remit to the City Treasurer the taxes required to be withheld at the source (Article IV), shall fail to so withhold and/or remit, become liable to the City in a civil action to enforce the payment of the debt created by such failure.

When a final return is filed as prescribed in Section 4 of the Ordinance and a deficiency is determined to be due to the City of East Liverpool, action to collect the same shall not be commenced after two (2) years from the due date of said return, and when a taxpayer fails to file a return, action to collect tax due to the City of East Liverpool shall not be commenced after five (5) years from the due date of said return.

All applications for refund shall be made within six (6) months of the due date of a final return or shall be forever barred thereafter. Provided, however, an extension may be granted by the City Treasurer on written application.

ARTICLE IX
VIOLATIONS - PENALTIES

Any person, firm or corporation who fails, neglects or refuses to make any return, questionnaire or declaration required by the Ordinance; and any taxpayer who refuses to pay the tax, interest or penalties imposed by the Ordinance; and any person who refuses to permit the City Treasurer or his duly authorized agent or employee to examine his books, records and papers, or who knowingly make any incomplete, false or fraudulent return, or who attempts to do anything whatsoever to avoid the payments of the whole or part of the tax, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $100.00, and/or imprisonment for not to exceed sixty (60) days, or both.

The failure of any employer or taxpayer to receive or procure returns, questionnaire, declaration or other forms is not an excuse for failure to make any declaration, questionnaire or return, or to pay the tax.

Agents and employees charged with the duty of inspection or auditing of records of employers and taxpayers will carry proper identification, which shall be subject to examination by any person whose records are sought to be examined.

The penalties provided in this section are in addition to and not exclusive of the penalties provided by all pertinent criminal statues of the State of Ohio, and to the civil remedies provided in the Ordinance.

ARTICLE XI
APPLICABILITY
(Section 13)

The Ordinance is inapplicable to any person or corporation upon whom or which it is beyond the legal power of Council to impose the tax; it is likewise inapplicable as to any property, income or profits (or part thereof) as to which it is beyond the legal power of Council to levy the tax.

ARTICLE XII
CONSTRUCTION — SEPARABILITY OF PROVISIONS
(Section 13)

LEGAL NOTICES

With respect to construction, the Ordinance provides:

"If any sentence, clause, section or part of this Ordinance, or any tax against any individual or any of the several groups specified herein is found to be unconstitutional, illegal or invalid, such clause, sentence, section or part of this Ordinance shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, sentences, clauses, sections or other parts of this Ordinance. It is hereby declared to be the intention of the Council of the City of East Liverpool that this Ordinance would have been adopted had such unconstitutional, illegal, or invalid sentence, clause, section or part thereof not been included herein."

ARTICLE XIII
COLLECTION OF TAX AFTER TERMINATION OF ORDINANCE
(Section 16)

Although the tax imposition provisions of the Ordinance expire as of the year ending December 31, 1964, the Ordinance remains in force and effect for purposes of collection and payment of taxes due and payable beyond that date.

Taxes due and unpaid on account of compensation paid or received in 1964 and on account of profits earned in 1964 which remain unpaid on December 31, 1964, are payable in full on or before April 15, 1965, and all final returns and withholding reports must be filed on or before that date.

For purposes of collection of delinquent or unpaid taxes, actions or proceedings for such collection and/or the collection of interest and penalties thereon, or enforcing any provisions of the Ordinance (including prosecutions under the criminal sections of the Ordinance), the Ordinance remains in force and effect until two years from the due date of said return, and when a taxpayer fails to file a return, action to collect tax due to the City of East Liverpool shall not be commenced after five years from the due date of said return.

ARTICLE XIV
SPLIT-PAYROLLS

Where a payroll continues past the effective date of the Ordinance, and was started prior to said date, said payroll shall be considered a split-payroll, and as such said payroll will not be subject to withholding tax under the East Liverpool City Income Tax Ordinance. That is to say — only the first full pay for employees earned after the effective date of the Ordinance, and all payrolls thereafter, will become subject to withholding under East Liverpool City Income Tax Ordinance.

ARTICLE XV
WITHHOLDING STATEMENTS

The East Liverpool Income Tax Department will not require the filing of employee earnings' report, resembling Federal Form W-2, as of December 31, 1962, or at any subsequent date. Moreover, the Department will not require at December 31, 1962, or at any subsequent date, a reconcilement of total payrolls reconciled with payroll amounts reported subject to East Liverpool City Income Tax.

ARTICLE XVI
VACATION PAY

Vacation pay paid in 1962 will not be subject to withholding deductions under this Ordinance. Vacation pay paid in 1963, and in all subsequent years, will be subject to withholding deductions under this Ordinance.

ARTICLE XVII

This Resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, welfare and safety, the emergency being the necessity of immediately raising additional funds for the operation of necessary governmental functions imposed by law, for, without said funds, said governmental functions would have to be curtailed to such an extent that the public safety and welfare would be greatly jeopardized, and, as such, this Resolution shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its passage by Council and approval.

ployer, and every taxpayer or supposed taxpayer, is required to furnish to the City Treasurer or his duly authorized agents and employees, the means, facilities and opportunity for such examinations, investigations and audits as are authorized in and by the Ordinance.

The City Treasurer or his duly authorized agent or employee is further authorized and empowered to examine under oath any person concerning any income which was or should have been returned for taxation, and to this end the City Treasurer has the right and power to compel the production of books, papers and records and the attendance of all persons before him, whether as parties or witnesses, whom he believes to have knowledge of such income.

Refusal of any examination by any employer or person subject to the tax, or presumed to be such employer or person so subject, constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both.

See Article IX, Penalties.

ARTICLE VI-2
RECORDS TO BE KEPT BY EMPLOYERS AND TAXPAYERS

Employers and others subject to the tax under the Ordinance are required to keep such records as will enable the filing of true and accurate returns, whether of taxes withheld at source or of taxes payable upon earnings of net profits, or both, and such records are to be preserved to enable the City Treasurer or any agent or employee of the City Treasurer to verify the correctness of the returns filed.

ARTICLE VI-3
COLLECTION OF DEFICIENCIES—ALLOWANCE OF CREDIT FOR OVERPAYMENT

If, as a result of investigation conducted by the City Treasurer, a return is found to be incorrect, the City Treasurer is authorized to assess and collect any under payment of tax withheld at source or any underpayment of tax owing by any taxpayer with respect to earnings or net profits, or both. If no return has been filed and a tax is found to be owing, the tax actually owing may be assessed and collected with or without the formality of obtaining a delinquent return from the employer or taxpayer.

Should it be disclosed, either as a result of an investigation by the City Treasurer or through the medium of the filing of a claim or petition for refund or credit, that an overpayment has been made, the City Treasurer will refund such overpayment.

The employer will in every instance be required to pay the full tax which should have been withheld, even though he may fail to withhold from the employee. If too much has been withheld the excess shall be refunded by the employer to the employee. While the withholding agent (employer) will be expected to maintain complete records of such adjustment with the employees, any such adjustment made during any month will not need to be reflected in the withholding return or disclosed by schedules or statements thereto attached.

In those cases in which too much has been withheld by an employer from an employee and remitted to the City Treasurer and there has been a termination of the employee-employer relationship, the taxpayer (employee) may obtain an adjustment by application to the City Treasurer.

ARTICLE VI-4
PENALTY FOR DIVULGING CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION
(Section 8)

Tax returns, and all audits connected therewith, are confidential. Any information gained by the City Treasurer, by his agents or employees, or by any other official or agent of the City as a result of any returns, investigations, hearings or verifications required or authorized by the Ordinance, shall be held confidential, except for official purposes and except in accordance with proper judicial order, or as otherwise provided by law. Violation of this provision in the Ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable by fine not exceeding $500.00 or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both. Every such breach of confidence constitutes a separate offense.

ARTICLE VII
INTEREST AND PENALTIES
(Section 9)

All taxes imposed by the Ordinance remaining unpaid after they become due shall bear interest, in addition to the amount of the unpaid tax, at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, and the taxpayers upon whom said taxes are imposed shall be liable, in addition to the tax and interest, to a penalty of one-half of one per cent (.5%) of the amount of the unpaid tax for each month or fraction of a month for the first six months of non-payment, or five dollars ($5), whichever is the greater.

The City Treasurer may waive or remit any such interest or penalties as he, in his discretion, would deem proper.

COLLECTION OF UNPAID TAXES
(Section 10)

All taxes imposed by the Ordinance remaining unpaid when the same become due, together with all interest and penalties thereon, become a debt due the City from the taxpayer, and are recoverable as other debts by suit instituted by the City Solicitor.

Employers who or which, although obliged under the Ordinance to withhold and remit to the City Treasurer the taxes required to be withheld at the source (Article IV), shall fail to so withhold and/or remit, become liable to the City in a civil action to enforce the payment of the debt created by such failure.

When a final return is filed as prescribed in Section 4 of the Ordinance and a deficiency is determined to be due to the City of East Liverpool, action to collect the same shall not be commenced after two (2) years from the due date of said return, and when a taxpayer fails to file a return, action to collect tax due to the City of East Liverpool shall not be commenced after five (5) years from the due date of said return.

All applications for refund shall be made within six (6) months of the due date of a final return or shall be forever barred thereafter. Provided, however, an extension may be granted by the City Treasurer on written application.

ARTICLE IX
VIOLATIONS - PENALTIES
(Section 11)

Any person, firm or corporation who fails, neglects or refuses to make any return, questionnaire or declaration required by the Ordinance; and any taxpayer who refuses to pay the tax, interest or penalties imposed by the Ordinance; and any person who refuses to permit the City Treasurer or his duly authorized agent or employee to examine his books, records and papers, or who knowingly make any incomplete, false or fraudulent return, or who attempts to do anything whatsoever to avoid the payments of the whole or part of the tax, is guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not to exceed $100.00, and/or imprisonment for not to exceed sixty (60) days, or both.

The failure of any employer or taxpayer to receive or procure returns, questionnaire, declaration or other forms is not an excuse for failure to make any declaration, questionnaire or return, or to pay the tax.

Agents and employees charged with the duty of inspection or auditing of records of employers and taxpayers will carry proper identification, which shall be subject to examination by any person whose records are sought to be examined.

The penalties provided in this section are in addition to and not exclusive of the penalties provided by all pertinent criminal statues of the State of Ohio, and to the civil remedies provided in the Ordinance.

ARTICLE XI
APPLICABILITY
(Section 13)

The Ordinance is inapplicable to any person or corporation upon whom or which it is beyond the legal power of Council to impose the tax; it is likewise inapplicable as to any property, income or profits (or part thereof) as to which it is beyond the legal power of Council to levy the tax.

ARTICLE XII
CONSTRUCTION — SEPARABILITY OF PROVISIONS
(Section 13)

LEGAL NOTICES

With respect to construction, the Ordinance provides:

"If any sentence, clause, section or part of this Ordinance, or any tax against any individual or any of the several groups specified herein is found to be unconstitutional, illegal or invalid, such clause, sentence, section or part of this Ordinance shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions, sentences, clauses, sections or other parts of this Ordinance. It is hereby declared to be the intention of the Council of the City of East Liverpool that this Ordinance would have been adopted had such unconstitutional, illegal, or invalid sentence, clause, section or part thereof not been included herein."

ARTICLE XIII
COLLECTION OF TAX AFTER TERMINATION OF ORDINANCE
(Section 16)

Although the tax imposition provisions of the Ordinance expire as of the year ending December 31, 1964, the Ordinance remains in force and effect for purposes of collection and payment of taxes due and payable beyond that date.

Taxes due and unpaid on account of compensation paid or received in 1964 and on account of profits earned in 1964 which remain unpaid on December 31, 1964, are payable in full on or before April 15, 1965, and all final returns and withholding reports must be filed on or before that date.

For purposes of collection of delinquent or unpaid taxes, actions or proceedings for such collection and/or the collection of interest and penalties thereon, or enforcing any provisions of the Ordinance (including prosecutions under the criminal sections of the Ordinance), the Ordinance remains in force and effect until two years from the due date of said return, and when a taxpayer fails to file a return, action to collect tax due to the City of East Liverpool shall not be commenced after five years from the due date of said return.

ARTICLE XIV
SPLIT-PAYROLLS

Where a payroll continues past the effective date of the Ordinance, and was started prior to said date, said payroll shall be considered a split-payroll, and as such said payroll will not be subject to withholding tax under the East Liverpool City Income Tax Ordinance. That is to say — only the first full pay for employees earned after the effective date of the Ordinance, and all payrolls thereafter, will become subject to withholding under East Liverpool City Income Tax Ordinance.

ARTICLE XV
WITHHOLDING STATEMENTS

The East Liverpool Income Tax Department will not require the filing of employee earnings' report, resembling Federal Form W-2, as of December 31, 1962, or at any subsequent date. Moreover, the Department will not require at December 31, 1962, or at any subsequent date, a reconcilement of total payrolls reconciled with payroll amounts reported subject to East Liverpool City Income Tax.

ARTICLE XVI
VACATION PAY

Vacation pay paid in 1962 will not be subject to withholding deductions under this Ordinance. Vacation pay paid in 1963, and in all subsequent years, will be subject to withholding deductions under this Ordinance.

ARTICLE XVII

This Resolution is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, welfare and safety, the emergency being the necessity of immediately raising additional funds for the operation of necessary governmental functions imposed by law, for, without said funds, said governmental functions would have to be curtailed to such an extent that the public safety and welfare would be greatly jeopardized, and, as such, this Resolution shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its passage by Council and approval.

Passed this 5th day of March, 1962.
CHARLES N. EDWARDS

"What really sold me on it was when they told me it was so simple that even a woman could do it."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make my own putty?

A. By mixing some linseed oil with some softed whiting to the proper consistency.

Q. How can I prevent the corners of bed sheets from tearing while hanging on the line when the wind is high?

A. By fastening the sheets to the line by all four corners.

Q. Is there a way I can make my own fingernail polish remover?

A. Yes. Ask your druggist for two ounces of acetone, and you'll have a supply of polish remover that will last a couple of months, and at a fraction of the usual cost.

Q. How can I remove blood stains from silk?

A. Moisten a few inches of white sewing silk on the tongue, roll it into a ball, and then rub this on the stain gently.

Q. How can I prevent ice-cube trays from sticking in the freezing compartment of my refrigerator?

A. You can avoid this sticking if you'll rub some oil or grease on the bottoms of the trays. Or, take a piece of double-thickness waxed paper the same size as the tray, and keep it under the tray in the compartment.

Q. How can I make a curled corner on a fiber rug lie flat?

A. One way of remedying this situation is to insert two straight lengths of coathanger wire all the way into the rug hems.

Q. How should furs be dried?

A. Never dry a fur that has been worn in a rain or snow storm near heat. Intense heat injures the fur. Remove the excess moisture with a dry cloth, then hang hte fur in a cool place to dry.

Q. How can I remove that faded and worn appearance at the seams of a carpet?

A. Try using paint or soft crayons of the same shades as in the rug, and touching up the worn places with these.

Junior Editors Quiz on ANIMALS

QUESTION: Why do animals age faster than humans?

ANSWER: Scientists have not yet found out why animals age at all. There are a few animals that seem never to grow old. The jellyfish is one example. According to an article in the Scientific American, the jellyfish will stay as youthful and vigorous as can be, as long as he doesn't meet with an accident. Scientists are studying the jellyfish and some of the animals that DO age to learn what causes the difference. Not all animals age faster than humans. Giant tortoises can live as long 150 years, and rarely do they show signs of old age. Vultures and sturgeons live longer than people. Eagles and elephants live about as long as we do. We know that dogs with heavier brains live longer than those with lighter brains. It has also been found that diet may have something to do with how quickly animals age. One man believes that if people and animals can stop growing before they reach the size they are intended to reach, or if they can go no growing without limit, then they will never age. All of the theories and experiments, however, have not proven anything yet. As far as we know now, each type of animal has its own special age cycle of youth, middle age and old age. Scientists are trying to make the age cycle longer or to eliminate it entirely.

FOR YOU TO DO: It is estimated that while a person ages one year, a dog ages seven. For example, a dog born four years ago is 28 in human terms. If you have a dog, figure out how old he is.

"KICK" DRUGS — Growing Teen-Age Menace

Here is how and why we must curb this insidious racket which has infiltrated many high schools across the nation

By THOMAS J. DODD, U.S. Senator from Connecticut

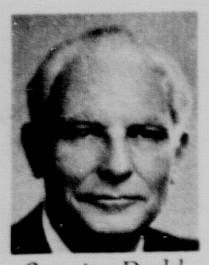
AT A HIGH SCHOOL in a West Coast city, a new fad was introduced. "For real kicks," said one boy, "you gotta try these pep pills. They're cheap and easy to get."

The result was epidemic-like. Curiosity led a group of youngsters into experiments with barbiturates (tranquilizing in nature) and amphetamine drugs (so-called "pep" pills), until one evening police were tipped off that a young girl was unconscious in a vacant lot. They found a 15-year-old high-school girl in critical condition, and only prompt medical attention saved her life.

Later, she told officers that she had taken five "red devils" and two "bennies" (both powerful drugs). She doesn't remember much after that, but such dosages have led other youths into ultimate drug addiction, murderous fights, and fatal automobile accidents.

Why had she done it? "Everybody else was doing it," she explained, "and I wanted to see what they were like."

As chairman of the Senate subcommittee to investigate juvenile delinquency, I have learned this is not an isolated case. Evidence shows that more and more potentially dangerous drugs are being sold among 15- to 19-year-olds. A special study commission on narcotics in California found that in several cities the number of juvenile arrests for using or possessing what youngsters call "bennies," "goof balls," "red devils," or "yellow jackets" rose some 400 percent between 1954 and 1961.



Senator Dodd

Illegal traffic in barbiturates and amphetamines differs in two respects from criminal distribution of such habit-forming narcotics as heroin. "Hard" narcotics are stringently regulated in production and distribution; pep pills, for example, are not. Illegal narcotics, usually smuggled into the country, are expensive and most frequently peddled in slum neighborhoods of large cities. Our evidence shows that barbiturates and amphetamines, mass-produced in this country for vital medical purposes, may find their way into any size community and attract youngsters from all income groups.

You may be lucky in that this evil has not invaded your city, but reports in my files show that the problem is spreading through the country like a plague, so I feel it my duty to warn all communities—beware, be vigilant!

Why do these drugs, so helpful when used properly, fall into unscrupulous hands? I believe one reason is that we have inadequate records on the distribution of these plentiful drugs (in 1960 the U. S. produced 5 billion one-grain barbiturate tablets and 4 billion tablets of amphetamines). An amoral person can work his way into legitimate channels of supply and siphon off large amounts without being quickly detected.

Take the case of a Missouri salesman for a reputable drug wholesaler. We found he was stealing pills from his employer and selling them to young "pushers." Because records on the drugs were poor, he might have gone on indefinitely. But a teen-ager tipped off police. When arrested, the salesman had 12,000 capsules in his car.

HERE'S A 17-year-old pusher's story of how the drugs filter down to students:

"I started pushing 'reds' at school in November. I deal with half my customers during nutrition (class), the other half during lunch. I buy a bag of popcorn, put one or two rolls (of pills) in the bag, and offer my customer some popcorn. I've pulled this in front of teachers every day.

"Most of the deals at school are for one roll, six for $1, but on the corner I sell as much as $10 worth. I score (purchase) for a jar at a time, usually, 1,000 in a jar, and make $200 or $300."

We probably have lagged in bringing these drugs under stricter control because we consider them "mild." Amphetamines, while not habit-forming, may lead to hard drugs, however; barbiturates are habit-forming, with agonizing withdrawal symptoms.

Here is how one doctor, a specialist in drug illnesses, described what victims suffer:

"They go into psychotic episodes. They have hallucinations and feel persecuted . . . are nervous, panicky, and could even commit suicide. They get into this because they do not know (the effects). They can get a lift with these drugs, but after a while they are really sick."

The Federal Food and Drug Administration has issued an order banning retail sales of barbiturates and amphetamines without prescription, but this is only a stopgap measure. It places all the burden on local druggists who, with rare exceptions, are innocent of wrongdoing; it has little effect on the real evil party—the bootlegger who obtains the drugs from legitimate sources by illegitimate means.

I HAVE PROPOSED a new law (Senate Bill 1939) which Congress is now considering. It would plug holes in present channels of distribution by requiring the drug industry to list and record all transactions involving barbiturates and amphetamines. With these records, local and Federal law-enforcement agencies could quickly track down sources of unprescribed drugs. I want to emphasize that these requirements do not subject manufacturers and distributors to arbitrary Federal intervention. They simply aim at locating primary sources of illicit traffic.

The bill would also make it tougher on those sources. Now we must prove that a bootlegger has dealt in drugs shipped between states; under my bill, even intrastate trafficking would be subject to Federal prosecution. And the present maximum penalties of $1,000 and a year in prison would be doubled. The Senate labor and public welfare committee under Sen. Lister Hill is scheduled to hold hearings on this bill soon.

I hope the public will voice support for the bill. I hope, too, that parents and teachers will remain alert to the possibility of "kick" drugs invading their local schools.

My experience has convinced me that in the entire field of juvenile crime there is no more disturbing problem than the use of drugs by our young people. Unless immediate action is taken both at home and through stronger legislation, this problem will grow to tragic proportions.

New Type Adjustable Dress Form Gives A Full Length Skirt Form And Hem-Measurer! ONLY $3.98

By DOROTHY WARING, Fashion Editorial Writer

RECENTLY I saw an eye-opening preview demonstration of the new 1962 Universal Dress Form. I saw it provide sewing shortcuts and do things I never dreamed a dress form could do. Women who swear by the previous model — and over half a million bought one — will have cause to be really enthusiastic when they see this one!

New Universal dress form, perfected by former Hollywood dress designer, provides many work-saving short-cuts

First Dress Form with Full Length Skirt adjusts to "gain" or "lose" when you do. Being bendable and flexible, dresses slip on and off without opening seams. You save needless hours of sewing time. Custom fit is guaranteed or no cost.

The only full length dress and skirt form you can use together or separately. You can hold the upper section right in your lap to fit a blouse.

For fitting belts and skirts, you need use only the belt and skirt section. Special feature allows you to measure hems without the aid of a hem marker.

Skirt Form and Hem-Measurer

First of all, this dress form is the only one I've ever seen that gives you a full-length, completely adjustable skirt form and hem-measurer, too. What a boon when you're making or shortening skirts! You simply slip the skirt on . . . pin up the hem, following a line of measurement points at the skirt-length you want . . . then stand back and look!

Instantly, you see how the skirt will look on you because the form's measurements are your measurements. No longer will you have to rip out seams or re-do hems because a skirt hangs too high in front or sags in the back.

Takes Guesswork Out of Sewing

Perhaps the biggest thing about this dress form is that you can make it "gain" or "lose" when you do — thanks to its simple adjustments that let it duplicate all your basic measurements.

Women who have used some of the more expensive forms know how they have to rip and re-sew in order to fit clothes on them. But not with this new time-saver! Because it is bendable and flexible, you simply bend in the shoulders to slip a dress on. This saves hours of needless work. The real satisfaction, however is when you put the dress on yourself! You have the thrill of seeing a "custom-fitted look," just as though your dress had been made for you by your favorite seamstress!

Saves time, temper, tears . . . a dozen ways

Every woman knows it's the needless mistakes, the temper-provoking extra work and the petty exasperations that take the fun out of "making your own." Believe me, ladies, this new form is so virtually mistake-proof it puts the fun right back into making your own clothes.

With it, you can quickly make your too-tight or too-loose clothes really fit like new again.

You can remodel last year's alterable suits and dresses into chic new Spring fashions.

You can even make yourself a brand new Spring wardrobe . . . and do it in much less time than it usually takes! With a terrific saving in dollars, too!

Completely Adjustable

Imagine this! You can widen or take in the diaphragm . . . even raise, lower, flatten or fill out the busts individually!

It comes with a separate belt-fitter that adjusts to duplicate your own midriff.

In fact, all the form's measurements adjust to duplicate your measurements so exactly that whatever fits it will also fit you!

Made of unwoven fabric bonded to sturdy Kraft stock, this is one dress form that's both light-weight and durable. It stands on its own "skirt" — requires no extra costly stand! Yet when not in use, its nine sections fold out flat and tuck away in a bureau drawer.

30-Day Home Trial

Previous models of this remarkable dress form have won editorial praise from such distinguished magazines as VOGUE PATTERN BOOK, LOOK, AMERICAN MAGAZINE and McCALLS PATTERN BOOK. Yet for the same low price of only $3.98, this new 1962 model is vastly superior — and much easier to use!

We know you will be truly delighted once you try it. This is why we are making this generous trial offer. Mail the coupon today. Use the dress form for a full month. New Type Adjustable Dress Form Gives A Full Length Skirt Form And Hem-Measurer! ONLY $3.98

By DOROTHY WARING, Fashion Editorial Writer

RECENTLY I saw an eye-opening preview demonstration of the new 1962 Universal Dress Form. I saw it provide sewing shortcuts and do things I never dreamed a dress form could do. Women who swear by the previous model — and over half a million bought one — will have cause to be really enthusiastic when they see this one!

New Universal dress form, perfected by former Hollywood dress designer, provides many work-saving short-cuts

First Dress Form with Full Length Skirt adjusts to "gain" or "lose" when you do. Being bendable and flexible, dresses slip on and off without opening seams. You save needless hours of sewing time. Custom fit is guaranteed or no cost.

The only full length dress and skirt form you can use together or separately. You can hold the upper section right in your lap to fit a blouse.

For fitting belts and skirts, you need use only the belt and skirt section. Special feature allows you to measure hems without the aid of a hem marker.

Skirt Form and Hem-Measurer

First of all, this dress form is the only one I've ever seen that gives you a full-length, completely adjustable skirt form and hem-measurer, too. What a boon when you're making or shortening skirts! You simply slip the skirt on . . . pin up the hem, following a line of measurement points at the skirt-length you want . . . then stand back and look!

Instantly, you see how the skirt will look on you because the form's measurements are your measurements. No longer will you have to rip out seams or re-do hems because a skirt hangs too high in front or sags in the back.

Takes Guesswork Out of Sewing

Perhaps the biggest thing about this dress form is that you can make it "gain" or "lose" when you do — thanks to its simple adjustments that let it duplicate all your basic measurements.

Women who have used some of the more expensive forms know how they have to rip and re-sew in order to fit clothes on them. But not with this new time-saver! Because it is bendable and flexible, you simply bend in the shoulders to slip a dress on. This saves hours of needless work. The real satisfaction, however is when you put the dress on yourself! You have the thrill of seeing a "custom-fitted look," just as though your dress had been made for you by your favorite seamstress!

Saves time, temper, tears . . . a dozen ways

Every woman knows it's the needless mistakes, the temper-provoking extra work and the petty exasperations that take the fun out of "making your own." Believe me, ladies, this new form is so virtually mistake-proof it puts the fun right back into making your own clothes.

With it, you can quickly make your too-tight or too-loose clothes really fit like new again.

You can remodel last year's alterable suits and dresses into chic new Spring fashions.

You can even make yourself a brand new Spring wardrobe . . . and do it in much less time than it usually takes! With a terrific saving in dollars, too!

Completely Adjustable

Imagine this! You can widen or take in the diaphragm . . . even raise, lower, flatten or fill out the busts individually!

It comes with a separate belt-fitter that adjusts to duplicate your own midriff.

In fact, all the form's measurements adjust to duplicate your measurements so exactly that whatever fits it will also fit you!

Made of unwoven fabric bonded to sturdy Kraft stock, this is one dress form that's both light-weight and durable. It stands on its own "skirt" — requires no extra costly stand! Yet when not in use, its nine sections fold out flat and tuck away in a bureau drawer.

30-Day Home Trial

Previous models of this remarkable dress form have won editorial praise from such distinguished magazines as VOGUE PATTERN BOOK, LOOK, AMERICAN MAGAZINE and McCALLS PATTERN BOOK. Yet for the same low price of only $3.98, this new 1962 model is vastly superior — and much easier to use!

Burt rocketed to stardom as a pugilist-turned-gangster in first film, "The Killers."

BURT LANCASTER

first met his wife, Norma Anderson. "She was working as a secretary for a radio station in the States when the war broke out, but she wanted some excitement and through people she knew in the radio business was able to get in one of the USO shows. When she came to Caserta she did an act with five other girls—sort of a take-off on the Three Musketeers. Norma saw our show once and wanted to meet me. At first, I wasn't in the mood and didn't feel like meeting her. So all we said was hello. We didn't get acquainted until later, at a dance."

While it took a war to have him meet Norma, indirectly it took Norma to get Burt into the movies.

It happened in New York after V-J Day, when he was picking up Norma at her office for lunch. As he strode into the elevator, resplendent in new civvies, a fellow passenger looked at him with intense interest—and followed him out of the elevator a few stories up. Although he knew nothing about Burt, he offered him a chance to read for a play called "A Sound of Hunting," because, as he put it, Burt was "exactly right physically."

BURT GOT THE PART. The show was a failure, but he was on his way. This was the beginning of his long association with Harold Hecht, who later became his agent and business partner.

As a result of his brief stage appearance, Lancaster got several Hollywood offers, finally settled for two contracts—one with Hal Wallis and the other with Mark Hellinger. It was Hellinger who gave him the star-making role in the movie adaptation of "The Killers."

Lancaster has always been interested in offbeat characters and offbeat films. Right now, he is deeply involved in his own production, "Birdman of Alcatraz." It is based on the life of Robert F. Stroud, who has been in prison for 51 years—longer than any other living convict in the U.S.—after being convicted of killing a Leavenworth penitentiary guard who attempted to strike him with a club. He was there serving a term for manslaughter. While behind bars he learned to speak several languages and has made himself one of the greatest living authorities on birds. The story intrigued Burt as an account of a man's fight for his individuality—a battle against conformity.

SINCE LANCASTER formed his own company, he has become so tied up with every phase of production that he has little time for anything else—including interviews and social life.

Lancaster has but a small group of old friends with whom he plays bridge and golf. The rest of his time he devotes almost exclusively to his work and his family—in that order.

"I seldom take the children to a circus, and I don't go to night clubs—I don't even go to premières. Sometimes we go out for dinner but, frankly, my wife has to prod me to do that."

There was one recent Hollywood affair that Burt did attend, however—and in a tuxedo! The occasion was a children's cotillion, and his reason for attending was that his eldest boy was in the special dancing group.

It takes something special—a major fire or a big family event—to get Lancaster to shuck his natural reticence and give the public a firsthand view of a durable Hollywood star. There has been a tradition that if a star isn't always projecting an offscreen "image" as well as an on-screen one, he's headed for oblivion. Burt Lancaster, though, has remained "the star nobody knows" through Hollywood's most difficult years, and he shows no signs of fading—or of parading his private life in public.

Burt rocketed to stardom as a pugilist-turned-gangster in first film, "The Killers."

first met his wife, Norma Anderson. "She was working as a secretary for a radio station in the States when the war broke out, but she wanted some excitement and through people she knew in the radio business was able to get in one of the USO shows. When she came to Caserta she did an act with five other girls—sort of a take-off on the Three Musketeers. Norma saw our show once and wanted to meet me. At first, I wasn't in the mood and didn't feel like meeting her. So all we said was hello. We didn't get acquainted until later, at a dance."

While it took a war to have him meet Norma, indirectly it took Norma to get Burt into the movies.

It happened in New York after V-J Day, when he was picking up Norma at her office for lunch. As he strode into the elevator, resplendent in new civvies, a fellow passenger looked at him with intense interest—and followed him out of the elevator a few stories up. Although he knew nothing about Burt, he offered him a chance to read for a play called "A Sound of Hunting," because, as he put it, Burt was "exactly right physically."

BURT GOT THE PART. The show was a failure, but he was on his way. This was the beginning of his long association with Harold Hecht, who later became his agent and business partner.

As a result of his brief stage appearance, Lancaster got several Hollywood offers, finally settled for two contracts—one with Hal Wallis and the other with Mark Hellinger. It was Hellinger who gave him the star-making role in the movie adaptation of "The Killers."

Lancaster has always been interested in offbeat characters and offbeat films. Right now, he is deeply involved in his own production, "Birdman of Alcatraz." It is based on the life of Robert F. Stroud, who has been in prison for 51 years—longer than any other living convict in the U.S.—after being convicted of killing a Leavenworth penitentiary guard who attempted to strike him with a club. He was there serving a term for manslaughter. While behind bars he learned to speak several languages and has made himself one of the greatest living authorities on birds. The story intrigued Burt as an account of a man's fight for his individuality—a battle against conformity.

SINCE LANCASTER formed his own company, he has become so tied up with every phase of production that he has little time for anything else—including interviews and social life.

Lancaster has but a small group of old friends with whom he plays bridge and golf. The rest of his time he devotes almost exclusively to his work and his family—in that order.

"I seldom take the children to a circus, and I don't go to night clubs—I don't even go to premières. Sometimes we go out for dinner but, frankly, my wife has to prod me to do that."

There was one recent Hollywood affair that Burt did attend, however—and in a tuxedo! The occasion was a children's cotillion, and his reason for attending was that his eldest boy was in the special dancing group.

It takes something special—a major fire or a big family event—to get Lancaster to shuck his natural reticence and give the public a firsthand view of a durable Hollywood star. There has been a tradition that if a star isn't always projecting an offscreen "image" as well as an on-screen one, he's headed for oblivion. Burt Lancaster, though, has remained "the star nobody knows" through Hollywood's most difficult years, and he shows no signs of fading—or of parading his private life in public.

The Star Nobody Knows

Circus star, family man, battlefield performer, ladies' lingerie salesman—his is an interesting story but one he has been reticent to tell

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

ON THE SET of "Judgment at Nuremberg," Burt Lancaster, who plays a German judge on trial as a war criminal, and Maximilian Schell, who portrays his defense counsel, got into a terrific argument—and it was not part of the script!

Taking over the director's functions instead of being just an actor, Lancaster accused Schell of having missed an important cue. Schell denied it and immediately challenged Lancaster to look at the day's rushes to prove his point.

"This," Lancaster yelled, "is a most unprofessional attitude."

When the rushes were shown, though, Schell was right.

This was not the first time that Lancaster had overstepped the boundaries of an actor in a film on which he was not the director. In fact, Kirk Douglas, his costar in a number of pictures, told me, "If any actor has a worse reputation than I for directing a film in which he is not the director, it's certainly Burt Lancaster."

That's one side of Burt. Another side became apparent to me in a simple statement he made when I sat in his office at Columbia Studios the other day. We talked about the disastrous Bel Air fire which had destroyed 456 homes, including Burt's. (The Lancasters now live in a rented house in Beverly Hills, but will rebuild their old home.)

Asked how he felt about his loss, he answered, "So many other people were affected by it that I couldn't feel particularly sorry for myself. It was just something that happened to all of us." And after a moment's hesitation, "The only things of real importance that I lost were pictures of the children when they were kids."

The first response from Lancaster, the fiercely ambitious actor, comes as no surprise. Lancaster, the sentimentalist, may be a little harder to swallow for those who don't

Furniture Derangement

Is our living-room furniture strangely arranged?
Do you wonder just why we put them there,
And at such an odd angle—
A kind of a tangle—
That sofa, that table, that chair?

It isn't for beauty, it isn't for style,
It's not that it's comfy and snug:
But thus we are able
With chair, sofa, table,
To cover three spots in the rug.

A woman called a pet shop to ask if it would take back a cat her husband had recently purchased. "It's beautiful," she said, "but it's a bird killer, and we just can't have a bird killer around."

"All right," the pet-shop owner said, "we'll take the cat back, but your husband will have to return it himself."

"Well, he can't right now," the woman replied. "He's out hunting ducks."

KNOX GELATINE, INC., JOHNSTOWN, N.Y.

know him well. And that includes practically everybody, because in the 15 years since he catapulted to stardom as Swede in Hemingway's "The Killers," his private life has remained a mystery.

Why has Lancaster remained such a mystery? Why has he shunned publicity and kept his family and home life a secret?

Not because he has anything to hide about his private life. There has never been a hint of scandal or even a rumor about the Lancaster family, which includes his wife Norma, and their five children, James Stephen, 16, William Henry, 14, Susan Elizabeth, 12, Joanna, 10, and Sighle (pronounced Sheila), 7.

One reason for the lack of information on Lancaster was given 15 years ago by the late director Mark Hellinger. When a reporter approached him for a quote about his new find, Hellinger exclaimed, "I

Burt's own behavior was no more encouraging to the press than Mr. Hellinger's remark. He told the first person to interview him, "I almost didn't show up. I darn near turned around and went home. I made up my mind Hollywood isn't going to get me." Then, his eyes ablaze, he burst out, "Are you going to make me look like one of those sickening fan-magazine heroes?" This was followed by an insulting remark which discouraged the interviewer from asking for another appointment for some 10 years!

To understand Burt fully, you have to consider the climate in which he grew up—the tough Harlem neighborhood, a kind but mild father who eked out a living as a postal clerk, a strong-minded matriarchal mother, his driving ambition for what he considered success, and particularly the influences of his early environment, which still color his outlook on life.

Burt's mother died when he was 16, and he admits, "I cannot recall her at all, although I don't have a bad memory."

There must have been a pretty strong reason why Burt's mother was so completely erased from his mind. Possibly Burt's attitude toward his father, whom he seems to have favored, gives a hint of his unusual feeling.

"My father was a very gentle man. My mother was a woman with a great capacity for love, but also a woman who had great strength. She was the one who made the decisions and did the punishing. When I first became a father, I was very strict, too. Then I began to realize that children are individuals with minds of their own and that I must have looked pretty ridiculous being so firm all the time. So I learned to let them alone. I became convinced that what they will really respect is only the example I set them."

Burt does not look on his childhood as painful. On the contrary. Comparing his present exclusive Bel Air neighborhood with the section of East Harlem where he grew up (he was hit by automobiles eight times while playing in the busy streets), he pointed out, "My kids don't really have the proper recreational facilities. When I was a kid, I could walk five blocks to Central Park, where there were tremendous baseball fields and play areas. I could walk two blocks to the Union Settlement House and play on their basketball courts or indoor baseball field, use the game room, the music center, and participate in theatrical groups. Besides all this, there were four schools in the neighborhood that kept their recreational facilities open in the evening.

"Where we live now, there is nothing for the kids to do but go to a movie, and then we have to drive them because it's too far to go on foot and there is no safe place for them to walk. So it really isn't as good for children as it might seem."

To alleviate the lack of playgrounds, Burt had a baseball field built on an acre and a half below the Bel Air house. He also added a huge pool in spite of his own fear of water.

"We built the swimming pool when William Henry, my second son, was 3. He developed polio, and we wanted him to have the therapeutic benefits of the pool."

His son has had several operations but still walks with a limp. "He'll have another operation when he is 16," Burt said, "because by that time he will have full growth in the lower part of his body."

As a youth, Burt had a passion for knowledge and physical fitness that complemented each other rewardingly. He won a basketball scholarship to New York University and began aiming for a career in physical education. But when he was 17, fate intervened.

"One day," he recalled, "I went up to the Union Settlement House and saw a man working on horizontal bars. His name was Curley Brent, and he was Australian. He said he'd be glad to show me some of the stuff, so between 5 and 7 o'clock, with my friend Nick Cravat, I worked out with him. We did this through the summer, and when I went back to school in the fall I made the gym team.

"After I finished my sophomore year in 1934, Nick and I heard through a trade magazine that a circus, the Kay Brothers, was en route, and we wrote them asking for a job. Since we didn't hear from them, I quit college, and Nick and I took a chance and went down to Petersburg, Va., with $30 in our pockets. We got there the night before the circus opened. When we asked the manager for a job, he asked us to show him what we could do, so we put up our bars.

"I remember we had on green boxing tights. On my first jump-up, I didn't get enough swing to carry me across. I hit my knees and fell down. Of course, I was nervous. And then I tried it again. My timing was still off, and I missed the bar and tore my tights. When I looked up, the guy with the circus just smiled—and said we had the job. We got $3 a week and board."

At the end of the first month they were raised to $5 a week. The job lasted four months, during which they drove tent sticks, helped raise the big top, rode in the street parades, and carried banners. Then they went back to New York to put together an act for vaudeville. Eventually they worked themselves into one of the top acts on the vaudeville circuit, at $300 a week.

Burt stayed with the act until he was 27. "We were making good money but I was bored—and I felt there was no future in it beyond what we'd already achieved." With $20 in his pocket, a couple of good suits and an overcoat, he went to Chicago and applied for a job as a truck driver at Marshall Field's department store. The personnel manager looked him over and, evaluating the ruggedly handsome face and superb physique, decided Burt was just right—for the lingerie department!

Burt didn't last there very long. He was found by his supervisor doing handstands in the aisle one day and was promptly transferred to the men's shirt department.

"I got terribly restless when I wasn't selling," Burt said, "and when I had a customer I'd sometimes end up selling him a cheaper shirt than the one he thought he'd be happiest with. This invariably annoyed the other salesmen."

World War II was the beginning of the end of both his selling career at Marshall Field and his bachelor status.

When Burt was inducted into the Army in 1942, he was assigned to Special Services.

"When the Army found out that I was an acrobat in show business," Burt recalled, "I naturally ended up in Special Services. I tried to get into the Engineers, thinking that because of my experience in rigging and circus work I would be qualified, but I didn't make it." Shortly afterward, he began to work on camp shows, which he helped produce and direct, and in all of which he acted.

"When our unit went overseas, we had the nucleus of a good group and began to do soldier shows, writing our own material and songs. We often went up on the lines and did performances during breaks in the firing, but, to be frank, we were never in any real danger."

It was in Caserta, Italy, that he

Not because he has anything to hide about his private life. There has never been a hint of scandal or even a rumor about the Lancaster family, which includes his wife Norma, and their five children, James Stephen, 16, William Henry, 14, Susan Elizabeth, 12, Joanna, 10, and Sighle (pronounced Sheila), 7.

One reason for the lack of information on Lancaster was given 15 years ago by the late director Mark Hellinger. When a reporter approached him for a quote about his new find, Hellinger exclaimed, "I can tell you one thing for sure—he hates interviews!"

Burt's own behavior was no more encouraging to the press than Mr. Hellinger's remark. He told the first person to interview him, "I almost didn't show up. I darn near turned around and went home. I made up my mind Hollywood isn't going to get me." Then, his eyes ablaze, he burst out, "Are you going to make me look like one of those sickening fan-magazine heroes?" This was followed by an insulting remark which discouraged the interviewer from asking for another appointment for some 10 years!

To understand Burt fully, you have to consider the climate in which he grew up—the tough Harlem neighborhood, a kind but mild father who eked out a living as a postal clerk, a strong-minded matriarchal mother, his driving ambition for what he considered success, and particularly the influences of his early environment, which still color his outlook on life.

Burt's mother died when he was 16, and he admits, "I cannot recall her at all, although I don't have a bad memory."

There must have been a pretty strong reason why Burt's mother was so completely erased from his mind. Possibly Burt's attitude toward his father, whom he seems to have favored, gives a hint of his unusual feeling.

"My father was a very gentle man. My mother was a woman with a great capacity for love, but also a woman who had great strength. She was the one who made the decisions and did the punishing. When I first became a father, I was very strict, too. Then I began to realize that children are individuals with minds of their own and that I must have looked pretty ridiculous being so firm all the time. So I learned to let them alone. I became convinced that what they will really respect is only the example I set them."

Burt does not look on his childhood as painful. On the contrary. Comparing his present exclusive Bel Air neighborhood with the section of East Harlem where he grew up (he was hit by automobiles eight times while playing in the busy streets), he pointed out, "My kids don't really have the proper recreational facilities. When I was a kid, I could walk five blocks to Central Park, where there were tremendous baseball fields and play areas. I could walk two blocks to the Union Settlement House and play on their basketball courts or indoor baseball field, use the game room, the music center, and participate in theatrical groups. Besides all this, there were four schools in the neighborhood that kept their recreational facilities open in the evening.

"Where we live now, there is nothing for the kids to do but go to a movie, and then we have to drive them because it's too far to go on foot and there is no safe place for them to walk. So it really isn't as good for children as it might seem."

To alleviate the lack of playgrounds, Burt had a baseball field built on an acre and a half below the Bel Air house. He also added a huge pool in spite of his own fear of water.

"We built the swimming pool when William Henry, my second son, was 3. He developed polio, and we wanted him to have the therapeutic benefits of the pool."

His son has had several operations but still walks with a limp. "He'll have another operation when he is 16," Burt said, "because by that time he will have full growth in the lower part of his body."

As a youth, Burt had a passion for knowledge and physical fitness that complemented each other rewardingly. He won a basketball scholarship to New York University and began aiming for a career in physical education. But when he was 17, fate intervened.

"One day," he recalled, "I went up to the Union Settlement House and saw a man working on horizontal bars. His name was Curley Brent, and he was Australian. He said he'd be glad to show me some of the stuff, so between 5 and 7 o'clock, with my friend Nick Cravat, I worked out with him. We did this through the summer, and when I went back to school in the fall I made the gym team.

"After I finished my sophomore year in 1934, Nick and I heard through a trade magazine that a circus, the Kay Brothers, was en route, and we wrote them asking for a job. Since we didn't hear from them, I quit college, and Nick and I took a chance and went down to Petersburg, Va., with $30 in our pockets. We got there the night before the circus opened. When we asked the manager for a job, he asked us to show him what we could do, so we put up our bars.

"I remember we had on green boxing tights. On my first jump-up, I didn't get enough swing to carry me across. I hit my knees and fell down. Of course, I was nervous. And then I tried it again. My timing was still off, and I missed the bar and tore my tights. When I looked up, the guy with the circus just smiled—and said we had the job. We got $3 a week and board."

At the end of the first month they were raised to $5 a week. The job lasted four months, during which they drove tent sticks, helped raise the big top, rode in the street parades, and carried banners. Then they went back to New York to put together an act for vaudeville. Eventually they worked themselves into one of the top acts on the vaudeville circuit, at $300 a week.

Burt stayed with the act until he was 27. "We were making good money but I was bored—and I felt there was no future in it beyond what we'd already achieved." With $20 in his pocket, a couple of good suits and an overcoat, he went to Chicago and applied for a job as a truck driver at Marshall Field's department store. The personnel manager looked him over and, evaluating the ruggedly handsome face and superb physique, decided Burt was just right—for the lingerie department!

Burt didn't last there very long. He was found by his supervisor doing handstands in the aisle one day and was promptly transferred to the men's shirt department.

"I got terribly restless when I wasn't selling," Burt said, "and when I had a customer I'd sometimes end up selling him a cheaper shirt than the one he thought he'd be happiest with. This invariably annoyed the other salesmen."

World War II was the beginning of the end of both his selling career at Marshall Field and his bachelor status.

When Burt was inducted into the Army in 1942, he was assigned to Special Services.

"When the Army found out that I was an acrobat in show business," Burt recalled, "I naturally ended up in Special Services. I tried to get into the Engineers, thinking that because of my experience in rigging and circus work I would be qualified, but I didn't make it." Shortly afterward, he began to work on camp shows, which he helped produce and direct, and in all of which he acted.

"When our unit went overseas, we had the nucleus of a good group and began to do soldier shows, writing our own material and songs. We often went up on the lines and did performances during breaks in the firing, but, to be frank, we were never in any real danger."

It was in Caserta, Italy, that he Taxpayers, Beware!

is, if you paid $500 for a fur coat 10 years ago and it's stolen, you must allow for depreciation, which may mean the coat is virtually worthless.

To stand on firm ground with Uncle Sam, be prepared to show, if possible, before-and-after photos of property damaged by a quirk of nature. It also helps to have an appraisal of value by a professional who can give you an affidavit establishing the amount of loss.

Contributions. Exaggerated charitable donations which are obviously out of proportion to a taxpayer's earnings are always a red flag to a tax examiner. Verifying evidence is essential.

Suppose you claim $500 for contributions and can show checks and receipts to cover $225. The rest, you're prepared to say, was given away in cash. You may be asked: To whom? Why in cash? If estimated, how did you arrive at your $275 estimate?

In including gifts, such as old clothes and furniture, to charitable groups, many taxpayers think they can get away with writing off perhaps $750 for a sofa that today can't be sold for a dime. Again, it's not the original cost but the "fair market value" that is legitimate.

Traveling Expenses. A prevalent abuse of this form of deduction is illustrated by the Chicago lawyer who made a trip around the world, took some notes and photographs, then contended that he planned a book about his experiences. The tax people didn't believe it, and the deduction wasn't allowed.

More commonly, factory workers try to deduct the cost of driving to work. Unless they carry heavy tools of their trade, such expense is not deductible. Neither is commuting fare.

Entertainment. The Government is cracking down especially hard on padded expense accounts for business promotion or "entertainment." This year, the IRS is requiring even more detailed information on personal expenses in business. All "entertainment" must be directly related to income-producing activities.

The important development is that credit-card charges are not considered as full evidence. Our tax men know that with your charge-it-card you can buy anything from a mink coat to a Caribbean cruise, and sometimes even cash a check, charging it to your account. From now on, you'd better keep your charge slips for bona fide business promotion.

Other Deductions. Many a taxpayer is tempted, at least once, to file an outlandish claim. Not long ago, for instance, a stenographer put down $160 for "work clothes and tools." Work clothes are deductible, but only if they are "special apparel or equipment as a condition of employment." Examples are a construction worker's protective helmet and safety shoes, theatrical clothes, uniforms of ball players, policemen, and nurses.

On bad debts, you can include a deduction only if you paid cash for something and were not reimbursed. When a patient doesn't pay his bill, the doctor can't list it as a bad debt because he hasn't previously reported it as income.

You've got to have reasonable proof of your deductions. "Primary" evidence, such as receipted bills and cancelled checks, is best. Often, however, "secondary" proof is acceptable. Occasionally, a taxpayer summoned for an audit has brought in a carton of empty medicine bottles to attempt to prove his disputed medical expenses.

"Every time you spend cash for a deductible item," the IRS advises, "write it down." A daily diary, even on a kitchen calendar, may be verification.

Although you're expected to be scrupulous about deductions, you needn't shortchange yourself. Many taxpayers don't realize, for instance, that they can deduct employment-agency fees.

When you have to travel some distance to your doctor's office or a clinic, you can charge off gasoline, tolls, and parking fees. If more that $144 has been withheld from your earnings for Social Security because you worked for two or more employers, enter the excess as a credit on your return.

save you money. Knowing what the law demands will save you no end of trouble. There's a distinction between tax evasion and tax avoidance. "Evasion" implies a deliberate intention to cheat. "Avoidance" is legitimate tax planning. Remember, the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that you are entitled to arrange your affairs so that your taxes will be as low as legally possible.

SUPER PLENAMINS SWEEPSTAKES

This unique 9-transistor Hoffman Transolar® portable runs by silicon "solar cells"—the same type of cells that capture the power of the sun for the transmitters of our space satellites. Outdoors, it plays by the sun . . . indoors, it plays by the power of an ordinary electric lamp . . . anywhere, anytime, it plays by its stand-by batteries.

For your chance to win, just ask your Rexall Pharmacist for a free entry blank with official rules. Fill out the entry blank, and attach the box top from any Super Plenamins product, or a piece of paper on which you have hand-printed the words "Rexall Super Plenamins-Multi-Vitamins with Minerals" in block letters. Contest is subject to entry blank rules; all federal, state and local laws; and is void where prohibited, restricted or taxed. Contest ends May 15, 1962.

of taxpayer error. They say much overdoing of exemptions is due to a misunderstanding of the tax law, but there also are many instances of attempted outright deception. Usually it's the only way a small taxpayer can try to cheat because he does not itemize his deductions.

A citizen may indicate that he supports a parent who lives in a different city, but the Revenue men can easily check this. Or each of several brothers and sisters claims the same parent as a dependent.

Divorced couples run into a jam when both mates list children as dependents. Since only the wife, who generally has custody, knows what it costs to maintain the youngsters, the husband usually loses out if the wife has income of her own.

Exemptions seem easy to slip through the mill. A Californian was caught declaring his mother as a dependent although she had been dead for seven years. Many list a son who is in the armed forces. Last year a playboy included not one, but two, girl friends. Perhaps the most arrant dodge was once resorted to by a cab driver who listed "Mary Ann" as a dependent. "Mary Ann" was a cocker spaniel.

Medical Expenses. Can you fully substantiate your medical costs with cancelled checks or receipts? When such expenses are estimated, you are apt to go overboard—and be caught. As for drugs, your charge account at a local drugstore is not entirely acceptable because the IRS is aware that many people buy nonmedical items there. To be on the safe side, keep your charge slips for prescriptions.

A trip to Florida or other resort areas cannot be written off unless you can prove it was professionally prescribed as treatment, not merely to improve your morale. Do you pay cash for medical services? You can ask your doctor for a statement of what you paid during the year. Of course, if you visited your doctor only once or twice during the year, a large deduction for medicines will be suspect!

You can probably convince a tax examiner that your high drug bills are justified if you can show that you or someone in your family has a serious ailment. The best advice from the IRS is to keep a day-to-day record of what you pay for drugs or medical treatment.

Property Losses. Tax men are alert to wild claims for casualty losses. One citizen recently deducted $200 for an azalea bush; another insisted a storm-damaged tree was worth $5,000 to him. Perhaps the topper is the young woman who for three years deducted for bathing suits she lost when she went swimming!

Remember that the property loss must be caused by a sudden occurrence like a fire, flood, theft, or windstorm. Termite damage, which goes on for a long time, is not deductible. When a loss qualifies under the law, you must give it what the IRS calls a "fair market value." That tax return, which will soon be

As YOU buckle down for that annual agonizing ritual of preparing your Federal income-tax return between now and April 16, be sure to include your Social Security number this time.

If you're among the six million who don't have one, or if you've forgotten it, Uncle Sam will soon assign you an identification number, under a law passed last fall. From then on, miracles of automation will be gradually taking over to make sure you're law-abiding.

Starting this year, you'll be asked to furnish your number to, among others, banks where you have savings accounts and corporations in which you own stock. That vital numeral will be on the master file of your tax account (personal and business) to be kept on magnetic tape at our new National Computer Center in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Your file eventually will be fed information gathered and analyzed by a massive electronic system called Automatic Data Processing. With it, in a flash your tax return will be matched with other numbered reports received on your income. If you're out of line, you'll be trapped—automatically.

Opening a new era in tax collecting, ADP is considered by Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin as "by far the most dramatic and revolutionary development since the 1913 Revenue Act was enacted." It is first being launched this year at the Atlanta Regional Center, covering seven Southeastern states, where business returns are now being processed, and individuals will get the computer treatment next January. Region by region, the program will be expanded in the next three years. As a result, "errors, omissions, and delinquencies" will be readily uncovered.

One of ADP's prime targets is unreported dividends and interest. In the past, close to a billion dollars a year in dividends and about three billion in interest have not appeared on tax returns. An official spot survey revealed that one out of three stockholders omitted mentioning some dividend income and one out of ten "forgot" all of it. On interest income, one out of six taxpayers failed to mention receiving any. With ADP, such oversights or evasions will land you in hot water.

Any company that pays you more than $10 a year in dividends must now report it to the Government, and this information will be channeled to the electronic monster. Don't forget, however, that you're entitled to a dividend exclusion of the first $50; on a joint return, if the stock is in the names of both spouses, you can subtract the first $100. In addition, you should take your 4 percent credit on the remainder.

As for interest, one of the most common errors by taxpayers is to neglect to include savings-bank interest. Even if you don't visit your bank during the year, the interest is still credited to your account. So before you fill out your tax return, you are obligated to find out how much interest you've earned. Many mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations call their earnings "dividends," but they're really interest. Such "dividends" are not eligible for the $50 exclusion and 4 percent credit.

HIDING INCOME has brought excruciating headaches to taxpayers. One executive of a large corporation who received some $10,000 a year in dividends didn't bother to mention it for several years. Recently, after a minor questionable item in his return led to an investigation, the executive ended up with a stiff fine and a one-year jail sentence.

With automation catching up to "careless" taxpayers, it's smart to steer clear of overdeductions. Specifically, what deductions are you likely not to get away with?

To find out, I recently went to the headquarters of the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D.C. There, I sat for hours in a conference room with eight tax experts, each a specialist in his field. Here is a consensus of their tips on the major deduction pitfalls:

But...Would CHRIST Call You A Christian?

There is an amazing difference of opinion today as to what constitutes a real Christian.

One man regards himself as a good Christian because he applies the Golden Rule to everyday living. Another professes to be a follower of Christ even though he believes only part of the Savior's teaching. And some who call themselves Christian even go so far as to reject His divinity.

Too many people, unfortunately, are setting up their own standards of Christian character and Christian living... forgetting that Christ Himself set these standards for us.

The result is that many sincere people are confused... and are deceiving themselves with a minimum, or "so-so" kind of Christian living.

The Catholic Church teaches that the mere belief in Christ is not enough. For if it were, why did Christ take the trouble to show us by precept and example how we should live? Nor can we regard His teachings as just a social doctrine... subject to our individual amendments... when He made it so plain that our very salvation depends on living as He prescribes, not as we choose.

If you want to find out how good a Christian you really are, read—and read again and again—Christ's Sermon on the Mount. And if you read only the introduction... including the Beatitudes... you should realize how far short of Christ's standards are the standards which men set for themselves.

Perhaps you may feel that the ideals voiced by the Savior nearly 2,000 years ago cannot be applied in our modern times. And possibly you will not understand the practical meaning of Christ's references to "the meek," or "the poor in spirit," or "they who hunger and thirst for justice." In that case, we are happy to help you—without cost or obligation.

We shall be glad to send you free on your request, an interesting pamphlet explaining the meaning of the words Christ used in the beginning of the Sermon on the Mount... and how you can apply them to achieve a fuller, richer Christian life. It will be sent in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write today for your free copy. Ask for Pamphlet No. FM-29.
